DOUBLE SIZE OF GERMAN ARMY! BRITAIN'S PLEA

Would Cut France's Fighting Strength.

GENEVA, Switzerland, March 16.—(AP)—With a boldness and fervor which stirred the weary conference to fresh life, Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain today submitted to the world disarmament conference a new scheme for a disarmament treaty which would involve substantial reduction of the fighting strength of France and other armed powers and permit Germany and her former allies to augment considerably their military forces.

To counterbalance this proposed concession on the part of the armed powers he advocated an agreement for a consultative pact under the terms of and by the signatories to the Kellogg anti-war treaty.

Bid for U. S. Participation.

Thus the United States is invited to interest herself in any breach or threat of a breach of the peace of the world, and to participate in diplomatic efforts to maintain international tranquillity.

Recent utterances by Henry L. Stimson when he was secretary of state gave some encouragement to those in Geneva that the American government may be prepared to associate itself in this attempt to implement the Kellogg pact.

The British proposals obviously will require deep study by France and the other great powers, and the conference decided to defer general discussion until next Thursday. It was immediately apparent, however, that by the introduction of new ideas or new combinations of old ideas MacDonald had injected a strong stimulus into a conference which has been drifting in the doldrums.

Fights to Save Parley.

He put a stop for the present to all talk of a precipitate closing of the conference in a spirit of defeat.

He explained at the outset that contributions to peace must be made by both the armed and unarmed nations, and he appealed directly to France and Germany to abandon their fear and to cultivate confidence in each other.

"The plan which I am going to propose will satisfy nobody," he warned. "Wherever four or five people are gathered together—to say nothing of fifty or sixty—the man who thinks he is going to get full satisfaction is just a common, ordinary fool."

He warned of the dangers in the present international situation. "We can almost hear the very fabric of our civilization crackling about our ears," he said.

"Justice and Peace" for Germany.

Then he presented the plan, the core of which lies in concrete figures limiting the world's armies and their equipment.

He proposed an army of 200,000 men for Germany, twice the maximum set by the treaty of Versailles, and he quoted with approval the assertion of a German delegate that "either Germany must be given justice and peace or the world is going to destruction."

Under this new plan the French and Italian armies would be equal in numerical strength to the new German army, but France also would have an overseas force of 200,000 and Italy of 50,000.

It would mean a reduction of about one-third in the strength of the French army. This is essentially what President Hoover proposed in a series of recommendations to the arms conference some time ago.

MacDonald suggested no limit for the British army. He would fix Austria's total at 50,000, Hungary's at 60,000, and Bulgaria's at 60,000.

500,000 Troops for Russia.

The "allies" of France would be given: Poland, 200,000; Rumania, 150,000; Czechoslovakia, 100,000, and Jugoslavia, 100,000.

Russia's army would number 500,000.

The proposed treaty would be effective for five years. During that period special international commissions would attempt conciliation and settlement of political problems now disturbing Europe. Just before the expiration of the five years there would be a second general arms conference.

MacDonald would extend the London naval treaty to include Italy and France, and the naval holiday on capital ships to all powers except Italy, which would be permitted to build one ship to balance the new French cruiser Dunkirk.

His plan would free Germany

President Asks Farm Price Control

JUST ONE GOLIATH AFTER ANOTHER

CONGRESS GETS BILL TO RAISE PAY FOR CROPS

Quick Action Urged in Brief Message.

Farm Prices

President Roosevelt's request for authority to so control the disposition of farm products that the farmer would regain pre-war purchasing power makes interesting a comparison of pre-war commodity price averages (from 1909 to 1914) and prices now current. In the following table prices on grain are quoted per bushel, those on cotton per pound, and those on cattle, hogs, and lambs are per hundred weight:

	Pre-war	Yesterday's Average.
Wheat	$ .88½	$ .55½
Corn	.62½	.26
Cotton	.12½	.06¾
Cattle	5.20	4.25
Hogs	7.24	4.00
Lambs	7.30	5.65

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt asked congress in a special message today to grant him autocratic authority to control the production, processing, and marketing of agricultural products for the purpose of restoring the pre-war purchasing power of the farmer.

Under such authority the secretary of agriculture would levy a tax on basic agricultural products designed to raise the price gradually until the pre-war parity between the prices of what the farmer produces and the prices of what he consumes should be attained. The tax would be collected from the processors of the product.

Rental for Vacant Lands.

From the proceeds of the tax on a commodity the government would pay the farmers a rental for acreage withdrawn from production of the commodity or otherwise reward the farmers for voluntary curtailment of production.

The basic products to which the plan would be applied are wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, rice, hogs, cattle, sheep, milk and dairy products.

Together with a brief message the President transmitted the draft of a bill conferring on him the broad powers desired. He asked its immediate passage.

Tugwell Author of Bill.

The bill, which was drawn by Prof. Rexford Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, and by Mordecai Ezekial, economic adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in collaboration with farm organization leaders, combines the principles of the domestic allotment plan with the land leasing plan and the Smith cotton option contract plan, as far as the 1933 cotton crop is concerned. The authority granted is defined by the bill in general terms, leaving the details of the price raising devices to be developed in regulations issued by the secretary of agriculture.

In his message Mr. Roosevelt pronounced the restoration of the purchasing power of the farmers essential to the general economic recovery. The plan he proposes is novel and untried, he conceded, but he felt that the crisis warrants an experiment in "new means to rescue agriculture."

If it should fail he would be the first to admit it, he said. He asked immediate passage of the bill in order that it might apply to spring crops now being planted and that it might strengthen the position of the United States in seeking international acreage reductions at the forthcoming world economic conference.

Congress to Act Promptly.

The senate committee on agriculture also will begin consideration of the bill tomorrow morning. Protest flared when Chairman Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.] sought consent to introduce the bill out of order. Southern senators demanded whether this measure was to be rushed through like the banking, economy, and beer legislation. They surrendered, however, when Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas threatened to keep the senate in session tomorrow instead of adjourning until Monday.

In the house the bill was referred at once to the committee on agriculture, which is to meet tomorrow morning to consider the measure. Chair-

Roosevelt Gets Economy Bill for Signature

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—An overwhelming majority of the house today swept the half billion dollar new deal economy bill across its last legislative barrier and sped it to the White House for the signature of President Roosevelt.

Only nineteen dissenting votes were cast as the house agreed en bloc to the amendments adopted in the senate. Against this handful of "noes" was a tide of 373 affirmative ballots. When the house first passed the bill last Saturday the vote was 266 to 138, indicating that a large number of members switched their votes at the eleventh hour to the support of the President.

Amendments Retain $25,000,000.

As it goes to the White House the bill grants President Roosevelt's request for authority to slash the cost of government by cutting benefits to veterans and reducing the salaries of federal employes. But the amendments effected by the senate and approved by the house today limit that authority sufficiently to make impossible $25,000,000 of the saving Mr. Roosevelt declared he would be able to effect if given the full power he asked for.

The vote in the house saw the standard bearers of the veterans' lobbies leap on the band wagon to back the President. Such ardent opponents of veterans' reductions as Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], and Gordon Browning [Dem., Tenn.] switched their votes from last Saturday's ballot and voted aye for the bill which will enable the President to knock some 330 millions from payments to veterans. Their explanation was that the vote today was taken on the senate amendments which liberalized the provisions of the measure.

Estimate of Savings.

1. Elimination of nonservice connected disability allowances to world war veterans, $201,652,000.

2. Reduction of Spanish-American war pensions, $95,000,000.

3. Establishment of new uniform schedules for disability payments, $40,000,000.

4. Limitations on retroactive payments, $25,000,000.

5. Miscellaneous, $22,000,000.

But these savings, it was pointed out, will be cut down 25 millions as a result of the limitations imposed by the senate on the President's powers. Among these senate restrictions the most important are the amendments by Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] prohibiting the President from removing from the pension rolls any Spanish-American war veteran above the age of 62.

These Vote Against Bill.

In addition to the estimated 350 million dollar saving in veterans' costs as reduced by the senate amendments, 100 million dollars is expected to be realized through the cuts in governmental salaries. Under the provisions of the bill congressional pay may be cut to $8,500, while the President can, if he so desires, reduce his own salary to $64,750.

The nineteen members of the house who voted against final approval of the senate amendments and of the bill today were as follows:

Democrats [12]—Black [N. Y.], Connery [Mass.], Crosser [O.], Cullen [N. Y.], Dunn [Pa.], Hoeppel [Cal.], Keller [Ill.], Murdock [Utah], Scrugham [Nev.], Somers [N. Y.], Studley [N. Y.], White [Idaho].

Farmer-Labor [4]—Arens, Johnson, Lundeen, Shoemaker, all of Minnesota.

The entire Illinois delegation voted aye with the exception of Representative Keller, who voted no, and Representatives Buckbee, De Priest, and Reid, who were absent.

SENATE PASSES 3.05 MEASURE; VOTE 43 TO 30

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—The senate tonight sent the brewers' big horses stamping victoriously through the second great breach in the prohibition wall.

By a vote of 43 to 30 the senate passed the beer bill, assuring the 73 million Americans living in wet territory legal beer and perhaps legal wine within the next three weeks.

Thirty-one Democrats and twelve Republicans answered the demand of President Roosevelt for immediate modification of the Volstead act by capping last Saturday's house vote of 316 to 97 with a majority far less overwhelming in proportions, but none the less definite in effect.

Signing Believed Near.

By the first of next week, it is expected, the two houses will have agreed upon senate amendments placed in the bill and the signature of the President will have been attached. One of the amendments cut the alcoholic content from 3.2 per cent to 3.05 per cent by weight.

Two weeks after the bill becomes law legal beer may begin to flow from the breweries down arid throats, and the second victory against prohibition since the recent passage of the repeal resolution will have become a reality.

With the flow of beer there will begin the flow of new revenues into the treasury. For the newly legalized beverages are to be taxed at the rate of $5 a barrel and manufacturers will be required to pay a license fee of $1,000. The income is expected to amount to approximately 150 millions a year.

Alcoholic Content Changed.

The beer approved by the senate by virtue of an amendment offered in the interest of harmony is to be of 3.05 per cent of alcoholic content by weight or approximately 3.8 per cent by volume. This was a change from the bill passed by the house, which legalized 3.2 beer or 4 per cent by weight.

The senate also added wines and fruit juices of the same alcoholic content to the list of lawful beverages.

And in the closing minutes of debate Senator William E. Borah [Rad., Ida.], ardent dry, objector, succeeded in winning the adoption, 50 to 23, of an amendment, making it unlawful for any of the beverages thus legalized to be sold or given to children under 16 years of age.

Whether these amendments will remain in and be incorporated in the final act will depend largely upon the attitude of the house and upon whether the senate conference committee is insistent.

Harrison Amendment Wins.

The lower alcoholic content was placed in the bill through an amendment offered by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], the finance committee chairman in charge of the bill. Its introduction was admittedly a stratagem to conciliate hesitating senators who were embarrassed by the fact that their own judiciary committee, no longer ago than the last session, had stated in reporting the Blaine beer bill that 3.05 per cent was as high as congress could go and remain within the constitution.

The senate wine amendment finds California wine growers in opposition. As explained by Senator Hiram Johnson [Rad., Cal.] during the day's debate, they claim they can make no palatable, stable wine with so low an alcoholic percentage. Other manufacturers of fruit juice products, however, are anxious for the amendment to go through. And on the decision taken on the wine amendment will therefore revolve the controversy between these two groups.

May Be Knocked Out.

The Borah amendment, it is thought, will have the least chance of going through. Wets voted for it even though they considered that this loading of the bill with a police regulation would so increase the difficulty of administration as to endanger the whole modification scheme. The usual appeal of legislation for the protection of children carried the day. But it would not be considered surprising if the conferees for the two houses, safe from publicity in their committee room, would knock the amendment out.

A fourth amendment of major importance was offered by Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.]. This would have forbidden the advertising of legal beer or wine in dry states, but with a proviso freeing from the limitation newspapers, magazines, and periodicals published in wet states. The amendment

INDIANA COURT GETS CASE OF FIRE ENGINE TROUBLE

There was consternation in Crown Point, Ind., on March 6 when the usually efficient volunteer fire department hastened to a flaming building, ran out a line of hose—and found that the fire engine wouldn't pump anything but air.

Yesterday a petition for an injunction was filed in the Circuit court at Crown Point by Joseph Q. Rump. Rump was formerly driver of the fire engine and the only paid member of the volunteer force. He was fired from the fire department three weeks ago by Mayor Vincent Youkey and ordered to move out of his living quarters on the second floor of the fire house.

The discharge stuck, but Rump continued to sleep in his usual quarters and his successor had to put a cot downstairs with the engine. The petition filed requested that the mayor be restrained from driving Rump out. Other members of the volunteer department, in their testimony, tried to show that Rump should have been discharged. They asserted that he ran over one fireman on purpose, that he swung corners fast to try to make his mates fall off, and that he might have been the one who made the engine pump air.

Chemist Sues Movie Star as Love Pirate

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—[Special.]—Charges were made in suits filed here today that Douglas Fairbanks Jr., motion picture star and husband of Joan Crawford, alienated the affections of a chemist's wife and was guilty of misconduct with her on numerous occasions.

The complainant is the chemist Jorgen Dietz. In his first suit he demanded $50,000 damages from Fairbanks Jr. for the alienation of affections, and in the second $10,000, based on a declaration that the actor and Michael Levee caused Dietz to be falsely imprisoned on Dec. 17 last.

Youth to Fight Charges.

Young Fairbanks declared that he did not recall the woman in the case, Mrs. Solveig Dietz. He added that he would fight in the courts. Miss Crawford said she knew of the charges from the first and that they constituted "an outrageous injustice."

In the alienation suit Dietz stated that Fairbanks Jr., between February, 1931, and February, 1932, maliciously gained the affections of Mrs. Dietz, causing them to separate. For these alleged actions the chemist demanded $25,000. In the same suit the chemist declared that the actor "maliciously debauched the said Solveig Dietz, thereby disgracing and dishonoring the husband. The second $25,000 is demanded on this ground.

The false imprisonment, forming the basis for the second suit, according to Dietz's petition, took place when he was forced to go to the district attorney's office. There he was held two hours. Later, he charged, he was kept in a hotel room for four hours more.

Sorry He Didn't Prosecute.

"It takes courage for men in my profession to fight certain types of cases," declared young Fairbanks. "I am now sorry that I was moved by tears not to prosecute this one during the Christmas holidays, as was recommended then by the authorities."

Dietz Weds Helen Kovacs.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 16.—(AP)—Jorgen Dietz and Helen Kovacs, both of Los Angeles, were married here today by Superior Judge J. C. Niles. Efforts to locate the couple were unsuccessful. It was not known whether Dietz was the same person named as the plaintiff in a suit filed in Los Angeles today against Douglas Fairbanks Jr., film actor.

SOARING PRICES ADD 100 MILLION TO FARM WEALTH

More than $100,000,000 was added to the market value of grain and cotton held on farms by soaring prices in the commodity markets yesterday.

This estimate was made by statisticians at the Chicago Board of Trade last night. Directors of the Board of Trade had imposed maximum limits for grain prices yesterday when trade was resumed for the first time in 13 days.

Prices hit these ceilings immediately after the opening and stayed there all day. There was a multitude of bids attracting no offers at the maximum prices permitted by the directors.

Cotton advanced $3 to $3.50 a bale in Chicago and made similar gains in New York and New Orleans. Butter, lard, live stock, eggs, and other commodities shared the improvement.

Despite profit taking New York stocks held their Wednesday gains and THE TRIBUNE'S industrial averages showed another gain of one point. Trading was heavy, with 725 issues active and a volume of 3,300,000 shares. The Chicago Stock exchange had an 80,000 share day.

ROOSEVELT 'DOING QUITE WELL,' SAYS ANDREW MELLON

LONDON, March 16—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, who has crossed the Atlantic so many times that he has lost count, starts another homeward voyage tomorrow, ending his ambassadorial mission to the Court of St. James's.

Today, between good-byes, he observed that the Roosevelt administration "seems to be doing quite well."

"I shall rest at home, but I shan't be idle," the 78 year old former treasury head added. "I've plenty to interest me. I don't expect to take any active part in politics, but when one has done so for many years it is difficult to avoid them altogether."

As for Anglo-American relations, he said "they are perfectly harmonious." Until the new ambassador arrives the embassy here will be in charge of Ray Atherton, counsel of the embassy.

Baby Swallows Safety Pin; Fed Spinach, Cotton

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—[Special.]—Donald Keyes, 13 months old, who swallowed an open safety pin, was being fed cotton and spinach today. An operation was thought too hazardous. At General hospital X-rays and surgical examinations led to a reassuring bulletin about the child's probable chance for recovery without much discomfiture.

BOMB HAMMOND CLEANING PLANT; DAMAGE IS $2,000

The United Cleaners and Dyers, 122 South State street, Hammond, was bombed last night with damage to the plant and some of the equipment, estimated at $2,000 by Carl Fisher and Harry Pittsman, the owners. The bomb was tossed into the rear of the plant. Windows of nearby buildings were shattered. Police said Chicago cleaning racketeers had been active in Hammond recently, attempting to organize the industry.

Though the conclusion of the final roll call gave the beer bill a comfortable majority, the process of the vote was no one sided affair. The drys fought hard. For the first of the roll call it was an almost even race. At one point the "ayes" and the "noes" were tied at sixteen votes apiece. From that point on, however, the wets gained steadily.

For the drys, it was a final field day. With the beer bill sure to receive the President's signature and if the repeal resolution is ratified, there will be few opportunities in the future to turn congress into a debating society on prohibition.

Today's senate scene was a far cry to the days not so long ago when any attempt to modify the prohibition act or question the prohibition amendment could muster but a handful of adherents. Until today, the largest muster on any senate beer vote had been under thirty.

Senator Borah, Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], coauthor of the 18th amendment, and Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], natal state of the Anti-Saloon league, furnished the major portion of the dry debate.

Debate Proves Inevitable.

For a time it appeared that the beer bill might go through without the usual exhibition of oratory.

It was called up by Senator Harrison. In order that its passage might be hastened, Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, one of the wettest of the Democratic wets, agreed not to press his amendment making the sale of beer legal in the District of Columbia. Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] wanted to insert into the measure an affirmative declaration that beverages containing 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight were nonintoxicating. But he, too, allowed the amendment to be sidetracked in the interest of speed.

Using a lusty gavel, Vice President Garner pounded through the first of the committee amendments adding wine and fruit juices to the malted drinks legalized by the bill. It looked like a clear track ahead.

Then Senator Sheppard got to his feet. Before him, on a reading stand improvised out of half a dozen bulky volumes, reposed a pile of manuscript. As the senators drifted out to get lunch he launched into another of his dry speeches.

Senator Borah treated the galleries to an old-fashioned temperance lecture. He denounced the bill on two grounds—in that it failed to prohibit the return of the saloon and that it presumed to nullify the 18th amendment by legalizing beverages containing an intoxicating percentage of alcohol.

With a Hogarth's attention to the grim details the senator from Idaho drew a picture of the old time saloon.

Pictures Old Saloon.

"It was the most hideous institution with which civilized authority ever had to deal," Senator Borah declared. "It demoralized everything it touched and the ingenuity of man never conceived a statute or a law which could control its lawlessness.

"There was a time in this country when it was literally true that a man aspiring to public office had to go and bow to the saloon in order that he might realize his ambition.

"There was a time when that institution sat in the pews of some of the churches and checked up on the message which the divine was giving to the people to see whether or not it would interfere with public opinion as against the saloon.

"There was no path of activity, there was no conduct relating to public affairs over which the saloon did not drag its slimy coils. It was rotting out the very pillars of our civilization, and while the eighteenth amendment has become unpopular and in all probability will pass out, there is one thing due to it, and that is that it put an end to that institution.

Plans to Fight On.

"I shall never be silent when it is making any attempt to return."

With legal citations and with the reports of various investigations, the senator sought to prove that 3.2 beer is intoxicating.

Since it is so, he argued, congress would be nullifying the constitution if it passed the bill. Nor did the fact that the repeal resolution might be ratified excuse the congress for failing to adhere to the constitution, he declared.

"I agree that the 18th amendment is unpopular and that the people may be about to repeal it," said Senator Borah, "but I also agree with George Washington, who asserted that so long as any provision remained in the constitution it remained sacredly obligatory upon us all."

Reeds Asks Questions.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] sought enlightenment on two points which he said he would like to have Senator Borah comment upon.

The bill with its 3.2 permission came closer than the Volstead act, he thought, to the line of actual demarcation between intoxicating and nonintoxicating.

"Is it not," he demanded, "just as important for congress to stay within the limit set by the constitution as to what may be prohibited as to live up to the full obligation imposed by the constitution?"

That was true, Senator Borah agreed, but he thought one-half of one per cent by volume closer to the hypothetical line than 3.2 per cent by weight, and if there were any doubt he wanted it resolved in favor of prohibition.

Asks About Tests.

The other thing Senator Reed wanted to be informed upon was what exactly was meant by intoxicating. What tests were to be used? Were they to be some scientific devices based upon the speed of nervous reactions? Or were they to be more practical?

"For instance," said the Pennsylvania senator, "I have never heard of murder being committed on beer. At its worst, it inspires the man who overindulges to go to sleep."

Lastly, Senator Borah turned to the economic side of the question. Every dollar spent by the workingman on beer, he said, would mean so much less spent on home and family.

"The most impoverished places on earth," he said, "are those countries where beer is used by the masses."

Fess Makes Protest.

Bald headed Senator Fess, the former college president, proclaimed himself no "bird of passage, flying this way at one moment, that way, the next."

"On a question of right and wrong," he cried, the black ribbon of his eye glasses flying with the vehemence of his gestures, "I propose to do what my people ought to want me to do. If my people don't like it their remedy is to send somebody else here. I am an enemy of the saloon and I shall fight it as long as God gives me strength to fight."

Senate Beer Is House Beer with 1 Drop Less Alcohol

In tossing off a glass of 3.05 per cent beer the average citizen will never realize that the United States senate has deprived him of the twelve-thousandths of an ounce of alcohol that he otherwise would have consumed in a glass of 3.2 per cent beer which the house of representatives bill would have provided.

That was the consensus of experts last night when it became known that the senate had passed the beer law but reduced the legal alcoholic content from 3.2 per cent to 3.05 per cent by weight. The 3.05 beer will give just as much of a "kick," cost just as much, taste just the same, and look as tempting as 3.2 beer, they said. Joseph Dubin, editor of the Brewery Age, declared it would still be a better beer than that of the days before prohibition.

A beer vendor gave his version. The ordinary glass of beer contains eight ounces by volume. Thus a glass of 3.05 beer would contain .244 of an ounce of alcohol and a glass of 3.2 beer would contain .256 of an ounce, or only .012 of an ounce more alcohol.

"Four glasses of beer, therefore, contain approximately one ounce of alcohol on the basis of .244," the beer vendor said. "An ounce of whisky contains one-half ounce of alcohol if it is 90 proof whisky, and a pint of whisky is 16 ounces.

"In the past needle beer contained a half ounce of alcohol per twelve ounce bottle and this was called 4 per cent beer, although it was slightly over that percentage. The 3.2 beer is 4 per cent by volume and the 3.05 beer is 3.8 per cent by volume.

"Dividing an ounce of alcohol into drops is difficult, but assuming that each ounce contains 100 drops the senate's act provides for 1.2 drops less of alcohol per 8 ounce glass than the house of representatives had agreed to allow. No one will miss the 1.2 drops. In the course of drinking 33 1-3 glasses of beer—eight ounce glasses—there would be a difference of exactly one ounce of alcohol between senate beer and house beer."

Mr. Dubin said the 3.05 beer would be satisfactory to the brewing industry.

Wine-Laden Hulk Found; Plan to Salvage Liquor

Aberdeen, Wash., March 16.—(AP)—If congress legalizes wine, things will be just about right for fishermen here, who said today recent storms had uncovered the old wine laden barge Ernest Rel.

They said the ancient hulk, bound for Puget Sound in 1899 when it grounded in a heavy fog at the mouth of the Quinault river, contained a "treasure" of choice French wines and brandy.

3 FAMOUS LOOP BARS READY TO SET 'EM UP AGAIN

A Swipe of Squeegee and the Steins Will Clink.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

They've been in step with prohibition. Now they're a stride ahead of repeal. One swipe with a squeegee down the shining mahogany and three of Chicago's most famous bars will be prepared to "set 'em up" in the old time manner on a moment's notice. They're licensed and they're ready. And a mellow atmosphere of long ago will lend a fillip to the shining beakers hoisted at the Red Star inn, Berghoff's, and Fred Potthast's—old, older, oldest survivors of a damper era.

When beer became "near" they didn't wreck the equipment that had served the thirsty for decades past. Now that "near" is to be beer again, all they are minus is the gleaming brass rail, which needs only a liberal application of scouring powder and elbow grease to make it shine again after its fifteen years of exile in the various basements, among barrels and steins. Already the sections are being resurrected and shunted into position for a hasty salvaging.

Old Sign Is Ready.

The big sign above the basement entrance to Potthast's at 4 West Van Buren street has not been changed in many a year and will beckon a welcome again to beer drinkers with its insignia of the foaming stein. Below stairs, Fred Potthast, the second generation of his name and occupation in that premises, has his license tucked away against the impending change, but won't need to hire any carpenters to build him a brand new bar. He's quite satisfied with the one that was installed there forty-four years ago by his Uncle John and taken over by his father, famous for his sea food cuisine.

Up at 39 West Adams street, Herman J. Berghoff, 80 years old, yesterday contemplated with sparkling blue eyes license No. 1, issued to him by the city collector's office for his prospective revival of genuine beer business. Thirty-six years ago he installed the pretentious bar that serves his patrons today, with its paneled background of inlaid wood, imported from Amsterdam, Holland, and representing pastoral scenes. It cost a good portion of the $75,000 he sunk in starting the business, and resembles painting rather than woodwork, so delicate is the artistry.

42 Barrels a Day.

In pre-prohibition days, he computed yesterday, he sold as high as forty-two barrels of beer a day at 5 cents a glass, and distributed a free lunch costing a total of $100 a day at the price levels of those times. He estimates the total gross business done at that stand in all these years at eighteen million dollars.

Since 1899 Carl Gallauer has been mine host at the Red Star inn at 1528 North Clark street, has welcomed many prominent personages of the city and the nation, and today is looting his basement of treasures of old steins, fit for a museum, and the brass railing that disappeared when the Volstead act came. Not a piece of furniture nor another fixture has been altered and the old world atmosphere will soon, he hopes, be completed with the staff of waiters scurrying in to the restaurant tables with trays of bottles and capacious glass steins. He applied last Saturday for the license he received yesterday.

Reclaim Other Bars.

There are other ancient bars in Chicago, soon to be reclaimed from an interval of vending lettuce sandwiches and chicken a la king, for their original, sturdier purposes. There is the renowned Righeimer's of pre-Volstead days, opposite the city hall and county building on Clark street, which changed its name but not its form, one month after the eighteenth amendment became effective, and became Harding's, a sandwich counter. Now, possibly within another month, the same bar will be supporting the elbows of a younger generation of political bigwigs. The license waits.

Another lunch counter of the Harding chain that will soon be draped again with seekers after "the real thing" is at La Salle and Van Buren streets. This bar has not been changed in any way in being adapted to the dry era.

3.05% WINE ISN'T WORTHY OF NAME, AN EXPERT SAYS

No wine containing only 3.05 per cent alcohol by weight is worthy of the name, Attorney Benjamin Lawless, representative of a number of American wine companies, declared yesterday in commenting upon the addition of an amendment to the congressional beer bill which would allow wines of that alcoholic content to be manufactured.

"California wines compare to French wines as regards alcoholic content," Mr. Lawless said. "There is no naturally fermented wine of less than 10 per cent alcohol by volume. To dealcoholize wine or to mix water with the grape juice before fermentation in order to reduce the natural fermentation would produce a tasteless or bad tasting product which none would desire to drink.

"The heavy wines, such as port, sherry, malaga and madeira, contain more than 15 per cent alcohol. The lighter wines, such as burgundy, claret, sauterne and champagne, contain from 11½ to 14 per cent alcohol.

"The 3.05 per cent provision is not at all satisfactory to the wine industry. Natural fermentation which produces 10 per cent alcohol and up is absolutely necessary if a wine with body and bouquet is to be produced."

NEW BEER MUG WILL BE LIGHTER, MAKERS ASSERT

Toledo, O., March 16.—(AP)—The old time glass beer mug with the handle, still popular with cartoonists, will be missing from the picture when beer is legalized.

A large glass company here has started manufacture of a much lighter container, probably with an eye to the feminine trade. The old fashioned beer mug, which served the double purpose of a container and a handy weapon in the old days, is not included.

WHO WILL SELL NEW BEER? PUBLIC ASKS OFFICIALS

Old Laws, New Laws Rise to Plague Authorities.

Problems of the legal dispensing of beer were the concern yesterday of many lawyers and public officials in the metropolitan area.

"What regulations will there be for the beer purveyors?" was a question asked mayors, corporation counsels, police heads and village attorneys. "Will there be beer stores or will beer be sold by grocers, drug stores, ice cream parlors, restaurants, and at gas stations, garages, clubrooms, ball parks, railroad stations and sidewalk cafes?" was another.

First Assistant State's Attorney Grover Niemeyer was dubious about the status of old regulatory laws. In the opinion of Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Grossman the old city ordinances affecting saloons are nonexistent.

What Repeal Act Repeals.

The state of Illinois passed its prohibition act on June 27, 1921. That act was repealed last week by action of the legislature and Gov. Horner. The Illinois Supreme court said the prohibition act was "a revision of the whole subject of liquor legislation and intended as a substitute for, and to repeal, except as to pending proceedings all existing laws on the subject."

Under one contention the 1921 act repealed all previous liquor laws and they are long dead and buried. Another is that the 1933 repeal restores all the old regulatory laws, including local option and Sunday closing.

The 1921 Chicago city code declares that all general city ordinances not included in it are repealed. In that group were such regulations as the 1 o'clock closing law, forbidding the sale of liquor to minors, forbidding women in barrooms and only in "winerooms" and cabarets with a male escort.

Former Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson said that his recollection is that these ordinances were not specifically repealed but were just dropped as no longer needed when national prohibition became effective.

Is the New Brew "Liquor."

The question of whether the old statutes and ordinances might be revived and put into use was said to hinge on another question: Is the new brew classified as "liquor?"

If congress declares 3.05 per cent beer to be non-intoxicating in fact, which it did yesterday, it is not for state and local officials to disagree, one group of officials holds. Others say that the wording of the federal beer bill does not declare 3.05 or any other beer except one-half of one per cent beer to be non-intoxicating. What congress does do, it was pointed out, is merely to say that beer of 3.05 per cent alcoholic content is not to come under the provisions of the Volstead act.

"The government or state or both may prescribe regulations for the sale of legal beer," Acting Mayor Corr said yesterday. "If not, the city council may, and undoubtedly will, exercise its powers."

City Collector Edward J. Kaindl said no beer could be sold legally in Chicago unless a city license is granted. Any one complying with general license provisions can obtain the permit, he said. At present the authority to sell near beer is in the form of beverage, food dispensing, and amusement licenses, and the same will probably apply to the new beer.

Plaguing Legal Problems.

Old and long forgotten annexation problems may come back with the return of legal beer to plague the city's law department, as evidenced in an opinion asked the corporation counsel concerning Englewood. The old towns of Lake on the southwest side, Hyde Park on the south side, and Lake View on the north side had their own liquor bans. When annexed to Chicago they came in as dry territory in the same manner as states were admitted to the Union as "slave" or "free" before the civil war. Formerly the city ordinances preserved that status for them. Now Hyde Park, Edgewater, and other residential sections are merely wondering and waiting.

Evanston, formerly a bone dry city, may not have any beer dispensaries excepting its present speakeasies. Mayor Charles H. Bartlett and Corporation Counsel William Lister said the old ordinances are still in force, as is the provision that no "liquor" is to be sold within a four mile radius of Northwestern university. There is a question regarding the four mile prohibition ban, however. Municipal Judge Harry H. Porter declared yesterday that the old local option laws are still in force.

No beer licenses are contemplated in Evanston now, the officials said. The same is true of Oak Park, Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka, and Lake Forest. Licenses are planned, however, in Chicago Heights, Homewood, Blue Island, Harvey, Waukegan and many other suburban towns.

100 Years Old

Old costumes, some more than 100 years old, were worn yesterday by members of the Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in a century of costumes fashion parade at the 42d anniversary meeting in the Stevens hotel. Some of the gowns exhibited were wedding finery worn during the World's Fair of 1893. The latest modern styles were also shown. After the pageant members inspected each other's treasures handed down from their ancestors which were grouped in a special exhibit. Mrs. William F. MRS. ROOSEVELT TAKES BUMPY AIR RIDE FROM N.YORK

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—The first ride ever taken by a President's wife was a "perfectly good trip, but very bumpy."

Thus reported Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt this morning as she stepped off the plane that brought her from New York on her first air ride since March 4.

"I was not disturbed, because I am quite accustomed to flying, and it doesn't bother me, but the others were quite miserable," she observed.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—Twenty-eight years ago tomorrow—and it was on Friday, too—a Roosevelt-Roosevelt wedding shared the limelight New York gave a St. Patrick's day parade and a President.

That nuptial occasion, more significant than noted at the time, brought Theodore Roosevelt from the White House to give his niece, Eleanor Roosevelt, in marriage to her distant cousin, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

This year the White House itself is to be the scene of the anniversary celebration, with some who played important rôles in 1905 present. Among them will be Mrs. Henry Parish, in whose home the wedding was held, and Warren Delano Robbins, then an usher, now an authority on protocol and social precedence.

Newspaper Accounts of Wedding.

Many another will remember the Roosevelt wedding day, well preserved in print in the Library of Congress.

That was the March 17 when the Japanese cut off the fleeing Russians, when maps showed the routes of the retreat; when Gibson girls paraded through the advertisements; when an editorial was titled "Mr. Bryan and the Primaries."

"'Twas a great day for Ireland and Roosevelt!" the old World headlined, not hesitating to remark that the presence of the President "almost made the bride a secondary consideration."

The Sun, too, stressed the White House angle in the breathless and dashing way of headlines of the day. "President Gives Bride Away; Ceremony at the Home of Mrs. Henry Parish—Alice Roosevelt a Bridesmaid—Her Mother and Sister There."

75 Police on Hand.

In the homes of Mrs. Parish and her mother, Nos. 6 and 8 East 76th street, with the partition dividing the two drawing rooms knocked out to make one large hall, the ceremony was held.

All accounts agreed that the Roosevelts were married in front of a shower bouquet of 450 pink roses with a background of palms.

At "3:30 to the moment," it further stated, the President, with Mrs. Roosevelt and "Little Miss Ethel Roosevelt," arrived in an open landau, was cheered, half arose from his seat, and waved his silk hat—and "a huge bunch of genuine shamrock hung at the President's buttonhole, and although the leaves looked sadly withered he continued to wear them." From a fence top "black with small boys" came cheers for Teddy, and one boy fell over backward when the President playfully shook his fist at them.

Stealing some of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt's spotlight was a baby born that day while Teddy Roosevelt, "with a vim surpassing strenuous," was addressing the Irish at Delmonico's—Patrick McDonnell, whose father sent a telegram to T. R., "No race suicide in this family," and Roosevelt, reading it to the banqueters, toasted the infant in wine.

U. S. ECONOMY BILL TO AID BUSINESS, SAY INDUSTRIAL LEADERS

President Thomas S. Hammond of the Illinois Manufacturers' association said yesterday that passage of the federal economy bill would have an immediate stimulating effect on all industry and business.

"Passage of the bill by the senate is extremely gratifying to the Illinois Manufacturers' association," Mr. Hammond said. "It will greatly increase confidence in our federal government at home and abroad. All good citizens will be grateful to members of both houses in congress for patriotic support of President Roosevelt's constructive program and the example will have vast influence upon state and local taxation bodies."

Samuel M. Hastings, president of the Midwest Manufacturers' Associations, inc., said that "immediate improvement in all industry and business in the middle west will follow passage of President Roosevelt's economy bill."

WISCONSIN BILL FORBIDS 'SALOON' IN ADVERTISING

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Madison, Wis., March 17.—[Special.]—The word "saloon" will be prohibited in advertising establishments where beer is to be consumed under provisions of a revenue bill drafted in the governor's office tonight by leaders of the Democratic administration.

The word "tavern" will be used instead, the bill stipulates. It would provide for two kinds of license fees, one for places where beer is consumed on the premises and the other for establishments which will sell the beverage for consumption elsewhere. License rates are to be decided upon later.

Communities are to issue the licenses for sale and consumption, while the state will register labels for bottles and accept fees for that service.

Among those who attended the meeting were Gov. A. G. Schmedeman, Charles Broughton of Sheboygan, Fred Pabst of Milwaukee and Dr. J. J. Seelman of Milwaukee.

25 of Crew Missing After Japanese Ship Founders

LONDON, March 17 [Friday].—(AP)—A Lloyd's shipping report from Brisbane, Australia, said today that the Japanese steamship Kinsen Maru foundered March 14 with 13 of its crew picked up by another ship and 25 others missing. An Exchange Telegraph News agency dispatch said the ship sank 400 miles east of Mackay, on the northeast coast of Australia.

SUGGEST APPEAL TO GOV. HORNER IN FAIR LABOR FIGHT

A proposal to allow Gov. Horner to appoint a conciliator to settle the differences between union workmen and exhibitors at the World's Fair is under consideration, it was revealed yesterday. A strike involving 1,200 union members at the exposition has been threatened because of the employment of eleven nonunion technicians on two exhibits.

Danger of an immediate strike was averted at a conference yesterday attended by Lenox Lohr, general manager of the exposition; Michael J. Boyle, head of the electrical workers' union, and Patrick J. Sullivan, head of the building trades' council. The three declared that the question would be "settled amicably."

The building trades' council will hold a meeting tomorrow to reach a decision on the appointment of a conciliator.

12 Ministers Try Him on Attempted Rape Charge

Muncie, Ind., March 16.—(AP)—The Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, accused of attempting to rape an 18 year old girl member of his congregation, was found guilty of "imprudent ministerial conduct" by an ecclesiastical jury tonight. He was ordered suspended for a year.

The defendant, pastor of the Madison Street M. E. church here, has denied the charges, saying he was the victim of enemies within his church. He appeared for an hour and a half today as a witness before the jury of twelve clergymen.

Tells of Advances.

His accuser, Miss Helen Huffman, also testified at the trial which began yesterday. She has said the minister made improper advances to her in his automobile on a lonely country road last Dec. 20.

Mr. Conway also was charged with knocking Willard Aurand, choir master at the Madison Street church, over the chancel rail at a Sunday evening service in January.

The jury of ministers deliberated two hours and a half before reaching the verdict and imposing the suspension, regarded by some of the clergy as the minimum penalty possible.

Bishop Edgar Blake of Detroit presided at the trial. He declined comment on the verdict.

Assault on Charge.

Mr. Conway said he believed the jurors found him guilty only of the charge of assault and battery on the choir master, and added that had he sufficient funds to press prosecution he would file perjury charges against some of the witnesses who testified at the trial.

Mr. Conway also faces trial in Circuit court here on indictment for similar charges.

Mr. Conway is about 55 years old and father of five children.

Praise for Bishop.

In his first formal statement of the case to the Muncie Star Mr. Conway expressed satisfaction with Bishop Blake's conduct of the trial, but said he "would have had a better chance of vindication before a jury of farmers and laymen than pastors, because they fear the slightest breath of insinuation against their calling."

The statement as quoted by the Star charged F. K. Daugherty, district superintendent of the church, requested the minister "to remove several men from the church because they were causing trouble." It continued, "This I did, and then when the fur flew he refused to back me."

The Star quoted Mr. Daugherty as saying, when informed of the statement, "It's a lie. That was all gone over in the trial. There's no truth to it."

GLORIA SWANSON AND HUSBAND BACK IN U. S. AFTER YEAR ABROAD

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Describing herself as a slave to the eternal call of the movies, Gloria Swanson arrived today on the Italian liner Conte di Savoia with her husband, Michael Farmer.

"Do you ever weary of the film world, Miss Swanson?" she was asked.

"Sometimes I tire," she replied, and added as an afterthought, "but I keep the germ. I am like an old circus horse smelling sawdust."

Miss Swanson and Mr. Farmer recently completed a film in London entitled "A Perfect Understanding," in which the latter made his debut as an actor. The actress said her husband at first was indifferent to motion pictures, agreeing to do only one, but was so excited by the work in the first film that he is now impatient to do another.

Tie Watchman, Blow Safe in Laundry and Get $10

Three armed men entered the office of the Chief Wet Wash laundry, 5425 North Hoyne avenue, last night and tied up the watchman, Milo Schleisner. Then they started to work on the office safe and blew it open with nitroglycerin. The job required three hours and when it was completed the cracksmen got $10. They left with the remark that the reward was not worth the trouble.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Maxine Rickard Dailey, widow of Tex Rickard, the promoter, today was granted annulment of her marriage to Frank Dailey of New York. The annulment was ordered in the Circuit court. They were married a year ago, but the marriage was kept secret until last November.

Mrs. Dailey charged in her suit that she and Dailey never lived together. Dailey did not contest the suit. She was granted permission to resume the name of Rickard.

KILLS HIS WIFE AND SON, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

Second Boy Near Death from Father's Shot.

Victor E. Heller, 39 years old, secretary-treasurer of a wholesale clothing concern, 239 South Market street, shot and killed his wife and one son, wounding another son, probably fatally, and then killed himself yesterday. The shooting occurred in the family's apartment at 723 Melrose street about 3 a. m., but the tragedy was not discovered until late in the afternoon.

Neighbors said they heard several shots at about 3 a. m. but thought the noise was the backfiring of an automobile. Heller used an automatic pistol.

Relatives Tell of Quarrels.

Heller and his wife, Elsa, 35 years old, had quarreled for several months, according to relatives, and were contemplating separation. Last Monday night they quarreled for hours over possession of a gun, the police were told by Mrs. May Schuster, who lives in the same apartment building.

A brother of Mrs. Heller, Milton Erman, called at the apartment yesterday evening and, finding the door locked, called the police. They forced the door and found Heller dead with a bullet in his head in the bathroom. In a bed in the bedroom off the bathroom were Mrs. Heller and her son, Sylvan, 10 years old, both dead.

The other son, Norman, 15 years old, a high school student, was lying on a single bed, still alive but unconscious, with a bullet wound in his head. He was taken to the John B. Murphy hospital, where physicians said he could not live.

Leaves Note to Parents.

A note left by Heller, addressed to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Heller, 6930 Wayne avenue, said the thought of being separated from his family was driving him mad.

"I could not live without my sons," he wrote.

DEAN WIGMORE'S COURT PLEA WINS A TRAFFIC CASE

Fred Swanson, 45 years old, an Evanston cab driver, arraigned yesterday in the Evanston Municipal court for a traffic violation, unexpectedly found himself represented by John H. Wigmore, dean emeritus of the Northwestern university law school. Dean Wigmore, who was making a tour of inspection of the new municipal court, saw that Swanson, an acquaintance, was not represented by counsel. He volunteered his services and was appointed to act by Judge Harry H. Porter. A plea that Swanson is a citizen of excellent reputation won a discharge in the case.

FIND ARSENAL IN FLORIDA HOME OF OAK PARK COUPLE

Chicago police were asked by Sheriff Roy S. Roberts of Titusville, Fla., last night whether they wanted Robert J. Morgan, arrested there with his wife, Clara, and held for investigation after a machine gun, an automatic shotgun, a pump gun, two pistols, and a quantity of liquor were found in their home. Morgan, dispatches from Titusville said, gave Oak Park as his address.

Birth certificates found in the house showed the names of two boys living with the Morgans to be Roger Touhy, 8 years old, and Thomas Touhy, 7. Chicago police were investigating to determine whether Morgan has any connection with Roger Touhy, leader of the northwest side liquor gang.

In the house at Titusville were found four $1,000 gold certificates, five $100 gold certificates, $200 in gold coin, and $2,600 in other bills. Papers bore the name of Clara Disque, Des Plaines. The license of their automobile was traced to Robert J. Morgan, box 201, Des Plaines.

VOTE TO ADD 44 EMPLOYES TO CANAL DISTRICT

Sanitary district trustees at their meeting yesterday voted to add 44 designers to their engineering department. According to Philip Harrington, first assistant chief engineer, the men are needed to bring plans and specifications up to date for the sewage disposal program ordered by the United States Supreme court.

Attorney generals of several lake states have contended that the district has not followed out the high court's decree and have asked that a receiver be appointed. Oral arguments will be heard before the Supreme court on April 17.

Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district, and other officers in a recent hearing before a federal master in chancery contended that the construction program would go forward according to schedule if taxes were collected.

CHICAGO PAYS TRIBUTE TODAY TO ST. PATRICK

Real Shamrocks on Display at Garfield Park.

Thousands of Chicagoans of Irish descent and other thousands, for no other reason than their Irish sympathies, will wear a bit of green today in observance of St. Patrick's day.

Hundreds will start the observance according to tradition, by attendance at old St. Patrick's church at Adams and Desplaines streets, where the Rev. William J. McNamee will be host to his many friends. Solemn high mass will be sung there at 10:30 o'clock by the Rev. Francis A. Ryan, pastor of All Saints' church, and the sermon will be given by the Rev. William J. Gorman of All Saints'. A full vested choir under the direction of Dr. J. Lewis Browne will sing, with Sarah Ann McCabe as soloist.

Talk on Irish Culture.

Another solemn high mass will be celebrated at the Little Flower church, 80th and Wood streets, at 10 o'clock by the Rev. Patrick A. Kelley. The Rev. Stephen E. McMahon, J. D., pastor, will deliver the sermon, "Irish culture and civilization." A program of special Irish music will be given Alice Doney.

Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts will be the principal guest today at two outstanding events. With Gov. Horner he will be honored with a luncheon in the trustees' room of A Century of Progress, under auspices of the Holy Cross-Fordham-Boston College club of Chicago. He was graduated from Holy Cross in 1898.

This evening Senator Walsh will be the main speaker at the thirty-second annual St. Patrick day dinner of the Irish Fellowship club of Chicago at the Palmer house, to which Gov. Horner also has been invited. Others who are expected to attend include former Gov. Edward F. Dunne and Justice Frederick R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court. Tribute will be paid to the late Mayor Cermak, who was to have been present.

Display Genuine Shamrocks.

All day today a special display of genuine shamrocks will be held at the Garfield park conservatory, together with a variety of plants frequently mistaken for the real thing. Many thousands of colorful flowers of other types also will be on view.

At the 131st Regiment armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue, many thousands will participate in the De Valera victory ball, which state, county and city officials are scheduled to attend. An Irish piper will precede Daniel J. McGrath, new Free State consul, as he opens the grand march with Mrs. Denis M. Malloy, wife of the national president of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

White City will be the scene of another demonstration as the United Celtic American Societies frolic there at their thirtieth annual celebration of St. Patrick's day. James A. Kearns, city treasurer, will be chairman.

TWO OLD ATLANTIC RIVALS MAY RACE FROM HALIFAX TO CHICAGO

TORONTO, March 16.—(AP)—Possibility of a race between two old sailing rivals of the Atlantic fishing banks from the Atlantic to Lake Michigan tonight fired the imagination of salt and fresh water sailors alike.

The fast Bluenose, Lunenburg's champion of the north Atlantic, and the Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, Mass., are expected to go to Chicago for exhibition during the World's Fair. Capt. Angus Walters of the Bluenose has agreed to engage in a brush with the Gloucester boat he beat two years ago. But from Capt. Angus came a snort and derisive comment that such a race would likely be won by the better tow boat, along with sarcastic comment anent mild breezes on Lake Michigan.

As for Capt. Angus' remarks about wind on the lakes, fresh watermen rallied under the rejoinder of Commodore Norman Gooderham of the Royal Canadian Yacht club to the effect Capt. Angus didn't know what he was talking about; that "it blows pretty hard on Lake Michigan, and he should have been along on a couple of trips with me." Bluenose has won four international series and never has been defeated in the title classic.

RAID VICTIM SLAIN; TWO U. S. AGENTS JAILED

New Brunswick, N. J., March 16.—[Special.]—The body of Frank Wendowsky, who had been missing since Tuesday, when he and three other men had been chased by prohibition agents in a raid on an alcohol plant, was found this morning in a brook.

County Physician William C. Wilentz, who performed an autopsy, said the man had been shot in the back, the bullet passing out through the breast.

Prosecutor Douglas M. Hicks said the three federal officers conducting the raid had admitted that two of them had fired several times "into the air" to halt the fleeing men. The prosecutor declared that Wendowsky had been shot with a pistol of the same caliber as that used by the agents.

The agents are Leslie S. Tweed of Woodbury, N. J.; Arthur B. Duff of Fanwood, N. J., and Thomas A. Waters of Long Island. Tweed and Waters were lodged in the county jail here pending an investigation, but Duff was released in $1,000 bail as a material witness.

MUNICIPAL COURT GETS ITS FIRST LOVE BALM SUIT

A jury in Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland's court yesterday began hearing testimony in what was said to be the first breach of promise case to come into the Municipal court. The court's jurisdiction in such suits was clarified by action of the legislature last summer which was ratified in a referendum at the November election.

Judge Holland said that other such cases probably would be filed in the Municipal court because of lower costs and because a suit may come to trial within ninety days. In the Circuit court, he explained, trial is delayed sometimes more than a year after the suit is filed. The fees for trial with jury, including sheriff's fees, in the Municipal court are $14.75, he said, whereas they are $26.50 in the Circuit court.

The case in which trial began yesterday was filed by Mrs. Katherine Yurkszaityz, 35 years old, 5616 South Mozart street. She asks $10,000 damages of Joseph Ivanaitis, 43 years old, 3131 South Emerald avenue. Mrs. Yurkszaityz testified that Ivanaitis had made repeated promises to marry her. In a demurrer Ivanaitis alleged that he was forced to sign an agreement to marry Mrs. Yurkszaityz by "two husky men" who threatened him.

BOMBERS WRECK MACHINES; SEE LABOR TROUBLE

Bombers destroyed three pieces of road machinery, valued at $19,000, early yesterday, in McHenry county, five miles north of Woodstock, the county seat. One of the machines, a crane, was standing in the yard of Mark Hansen, a farmer, living near Hebron, and the blast smashed all the windows in Hansen's house and barn, and drove a piece of steel through the wall of his home. The fragment was stopped by the door of a room in which two of his children were sleeping.

The bombings, which were virtually simultaneous, were heard over a radius of 15 miles. Sheriff Lester Edinger of McHenry county said he believed the attacks were due to labor troubles involving the companies owning the machines. These companies are the Harrison Engineering and Construction company of Kansas City and the Gates Construction company of Ottumwa, Ia.

Both employ nonunion labor, and last summer $10,000 worth of their machinery was destroyed by bombers. George [Red] Barker, Chicago union racketeer, who has since been murdered, was blamed for the earlier bombings, although no arrests were made. The companies did not finish their road contract—the construction of eleven miles of state route 47—last fall, and were to have reopened their activities soon.

ROOSEVELT ACTS TO EFFECT QUICK DISARM PACT

Holds Conference with Foreign Envoys.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today moved swiftly to back up the latest British move to fan new life into the dying Geneva arms conference and effect a quick world agreement to scale down armaments.

Within a few moments after Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald had presented his new five year disarmament and security proposal to the Geneva conference, President Roosevelt was in conference with the ambassadors of Britain, France, and Germany, as well as his secretaries of state, war, and the navy department.

Discuss British Plan.

At these conferences the British proposal for an increase of 100,000 in the German standing army and a radical slash in the French army was discussed at length. While no announcement was forthcoming, later it was said in diplomatic circles that the President had urged Ambassadors Paul Claudel of France and Friedrich von Prittwitz of Germany to give careful consideration to the MacDonald plan. Administration officials said informally, however, that the main point stressed by the President was a desire that accord be reached by the nations upon some form of an agreement which would permit arms reductions and slashes in national defense budgets.

Following the White House talks, the state department disclosed that the Roosevelt administration plans to make a strong effort during the next few weeks to swing European governments into line behind a new arms reduction treaty. Officials said that thus far no plans had been made for the presentation of a new program by this country. Emphasis will be placed, it was said, on efforts to get the powers back of some fair plan.

Davis Heads Arms Delegation.

As a first move in this direction, Norman Davis of New York was today named chairman of the American delegation to the Geneva conference and given the commission of ambassador. His assignment will include not only attendance at the arms parleys, but trips to European capitals, where he will make efforts to smooth the way for agreement on an arms reduction treaty. Mr. Davis will also represent the United States at the international economy conference and in informal war debts discussions. His mission will be that of a sort of ambassador at large with Europe his bailiwick.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, was the first of the diplomats to reach the White House. He brought with him an outline of the MacDonald proposals. After explaining them to Mr. Roosevelt, Sir Ronald said his government was anxious to have all possible assistance from the United States. Other economic subjects were discussed, but no information was given out as to whether President Roosevelt discussed war debts with his visitor.

Sir Ronald had been gone only a few moments when the French ambassador arrived and was ushered into the President's office. The German ambassador came some time later. Both were in the President's office about half an hour each. It was learned that several international subjects together with the British proposal were discussed.

Confers with Hull.

After the diplomats left President Roosevelt conferred briefly with Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of War Dern, and Secretary of the Navy Swanson. Secretary Hull and Mr. Davis were luncheon guests.

Neither the White House nor the state department issued any official announcement outlining the reaction of the American government to the British proposals. State department officials said informally, however, that the United States was in agreement with many of the British proposals.

As the White House and state department attempted to speed up disarmament moves, the navy department and adequate navy congressmen launched a drive to add a new warship building program to whatever relief or public works bill is introduced at the special session. The budget director has been asked by Chairman Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.] of the house naval committee to include in the bill now being framed for President Roosevelt appropriations for one aircraft carrier, five 6 inch gun cruisers, and a number of submarines and destroyers. The total cost of the new ships would run close to 150 millions, although only a few millions would be spent this year.

BRITISH PROPOSE TO DOUBLE SIZE OF GERMAN ARMY

France Fighting Strength Would Be Reduced.

Seeks to Limit Aircraft.

Limitation of aircraft MacDonald found more difficult. He admitted that he had been unable to figure out a way to guarantee that civil aircraft will not be converted to war purposes, but such a guarantee is essential to the abolition of military aircraft.

He suggested, therefore, numerical limitation and proposed these specific figures:

Five hundred airplanes each for the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan, and Italy, with smaller totals for other countries. No figure for Germany was included in the plan.

"This is the first time anybody ever ventured to propose figures like these," MacDonald told the conference; "but they are not like the laws of the Medes and the Persians—they can be altered.

"This problem of disarmament is largely psychological. Put fear into my heart, and I relapse into that old Highland nature which I have been doing my best to tame here at Geneva.

Warns Sky Is Cloudy.

"My friend Nadolny, who represents Germany, wants to know what he is going to get for what he gives. My friend Premier Daladier of France says, 'I am ready to surrender military security as soon as I receive another kind of security which will make me feel as safe as I did before.'

"The sky is very cloudy now, but the duty of the statesmen here is to create an atmosphere which will dispel the clouds."

Hugh Gibson, representing the United States, declared that MacDonald's proposals had made this day historic. Count Nadolny also praised the plan, reiterating his frequent declaration that Germany is loyal to the principle of disarmament with security for all.

Premier Daladier described the plan as of the greatest importance and promised sympathetic study by France.

"No attempt has been made to standardize the armies of the rest of the world in view of the differing needs which exist in other continents," the official British summary says. "Once agreement has been reached on the size of European continental land forces it is thought that it will not be difficult to fix figures of limitation for other armies."

Fixes Size of Guns.

As to materials the summary says: "With regard to mobile land guns a limit of 105 Mm. is imposed for the future. It is proposed that states shall retain their existing armaments up to 155 Mm., but that all future construction shall be within the lower approximate limit of 105 Mm.

"Coast defense guns must obviously approximate the limit for naval guns and their limit has been fixed at 406 Mm., the size of the largest naval gun.

"The maximum limit for tanks has been fixed at 16 tons. Provision has been made for destruction of all prohibited materials on the basis of one-third within one year and two-thirds within three years of the coming into force of the convention."

BRITISH HOUSE O. K.'S BOOST IN NAVY COSTS; PACIFISTS PROTEST

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—The house of commons tonight approved the £53,570,000 [$185,888,000] naval estimate after an all day debate had been interrupted by three demonstrations by pacifists in the galleries.

The estimate, £3,930,700 [$13,637,000] greater than that of 1932, provides for part relaxation of the rigid economy enforced in 1931 and 1932 which resulted in curtailment of building and replacement programs.

A hatless woman in the peers' gallery suddenly showered the floor with pacifist leaflets and escaped by leaping the rail into the members' gallery and disappearing through a door. A man in the strangers' gallery threw over a second bundle of leaflets, and an elderly woman began shouting a verbal protest against passage of the estimate. Both were seized by attendants and debate continued.

REPUBLICANS OF SPAIN SQUELCH FASCIST DEBUT

Yell 'Death to Mussolini!' Act to Kill Movement.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, March 16.—Republican authorities and Republican opinion today combined to spoil the coming out party of Spain's brand new blue shirted Fascists.

By government order the first issue of the blue shirt organ, El Fascio, was confiscated, and the few copies which escaped the police were burned in the street by an indignant mob. Every indication was given that further attempts to spread the doctrines of Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler would be scotched quickly.

Socialist Youths on War Path.

In addition to whatever the government may do to discourage Fascist activities, the youths of the Socialist and left wing Republican parties pledged themselves to make blue the most unpopular and the most unhealthy color in Spain. They roamed the streets of Madrid today aching for trouble, but found not a single shirt of color.

Tonight thousands paraded the streets crying "Death to Mussolini! Death to Hitler!" and attempted to break through the heavy police guard to stone the Italian and German embassies.

Shots greeted the new movement when it was launced this morning at the tomb of the dictator, Primo de Rivera, who died just three years ago today.

About 500 blue shirts gathered there and hailed Primo as the first Fascist, although he never succeeded in creating anything comparable to Italian Fascism. Communist hecklers appeared and shots were fired, but nobody was hurt.

7,000 Fascists.

Fascist leaders claim there are no more than 7,000 blue shirts in Spain, but Socialists insist that the movement must be choked off at once for reasons of "public dignity, political decency and social hygiene."

As a result of today's demonstration and rumors of an impending monarchist-syndicalist revolt, Madrid is quite nervous. In addition, a Socialist coup d'état and a new epidemic of convent burning are rumored.

Alejandro Lerroux's radicals and the rest of the government opposition in the cortes walked out in noisy protest tonight after a vote of confidence in the government's handling of the January revolt. A radical deputy yelled "Down with the Azana dictatorship" as he left.

The daughter of Mrs. Louis Hill of St. Paul, Minn., the former Miss Hill, and Dorcy will spend a honeymoon in Honolulu. Dorcy is the son of Mrs. Linda Holliday Dorcy of San Francisco, whose father, Ben Holliday, originated and owned the famous Pony Express and was a friend of James Hill.

A NEW BUSINESS FLOPS WHEN COPS FIND OUT ABOUT IT

Albert Rothschild, 31 years old, 1409 Jarvis avenue, discovered a paying business several weeks ago. It had to do with coin boxes on telephones.

He stuffed rags into the coin slots, returned a little later, pulled out the rags with a fishhook, and took possession of the coins that also came out. He was arrested yesterday on the ninth floor of the county building after collecting from three phones and confessed soon afterward to William Blaul, deputy chief of detectives.

But if the honesty of Rothschild was nil, that of county building telephone patrons was barely more than 50 per cent. He had 13 nickels, 6 dimes, 26 fraudulent nickel slugs, and one 25 cent slug of no value.

MUSSOLINI PUTS HUNGARY FIRST IN TALKS ON EUROPE

Dickers with 'Ally' Today; British Tomorrow.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 16. — As a curtain raiser for his encounter Saturday with Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon of Great Britain to discuss European disarmament and coöperation, Premier Mussolini will be a dinner host tomorrow night to Colman di Kanya, new foreign minister of Hungary, Italy's closest ally in central Europe.

Il Duce's meeting with Kanya, who arrived in Rome tonight, takes on added significance as a result of recent rumors of the formation of a secret alliance between Italy, Hungary, and Germany.

The British ministers are coming to Rome as the outcome of a suggestion by Mussolini that the heads of all disarmament delegations meet him in Italy since he could not go to Geneva.

Seek to Learn Italian Attitude.

It is generally supposed that MacDonald will seek a definite commitment from Mussolini as to Italy's foreign policy in view of the establishment of the Fascist government by Chancellor Adolf Hitler in Germany. Il Duce will also probably be asked to explain his advocacy of a revision of the peace treaties.

The question of an Italo-French naval agreement and the extent of Mussolini's sympathy and connection with German Fascism will undoubtedly provide more conversational fodder.

By way of preparing for the coming meeting, which will be Mussolini's first international conference in eight years, Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to Britain, paid a hasty 24 hour visit to Rome a few days ago.

Situation Termed Delicate.

Officially Italians say that the European situation is most delicate at present and that the Mussolini-MacDonald conference will involve three problems. The first will be to stave off disaster to the disarmament conference; the second, to agree on coöperation at the coming world economic conference, and the third, to reach an understanding about central European political relations which now are tending to align the small nations into two hostile groups.

Just as before the outbreak of the war in 1914, spies and cannon have become the nightmare of central Europe. Hardly a week goes by without the seizure of a secret agent for stealing documents, spying on frontier fortifications, or turning over military information to neighboring countries.

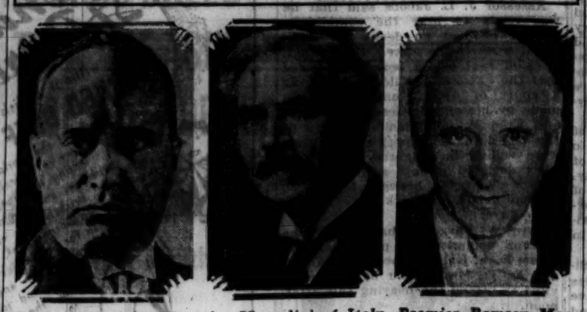
That the general staffs of all countries are on edge is shown in the strong French protest to Hungary over the recent shipment of arms from Italy to Hungary. This was followed by revelations in Italy that Czechoslovakia had shipped 240 cannon to Jugo-Slavia via Rumania. War sparks also flew recently in the Rhineland and at Danzig. In the former case France protested the occupation of Rhineland cities by Nazi storm troops. In the latter case German citizens of Danzig resented the reënforcement of a Polish garrison.

More Outbreaks Feared.

Although both incidents have now been liquidated, observers are fearful of new episodes which will aggravate the existing irritation and hostility.

The most spectacular incident of spying was furnished in Italy recently with the arrest and trial of Prof. Eydoux of the Paris Polytechnique, who confessed that he had been securing information about Italian fortifications on the Jugo-Slavia and Austrian borders.

Discuss Arms Problem Tomorrow



Left to right: Premier Mussolini of Italy, Premier Ramsay MacDonald of England, and Sir John Simon of England who will meet in Rome tomorrow to discuss European disarmament and co-operation.

SECRET SIX IS CUT OFF FROM FUNDS BY A. OF C.

"We, the Secret Six, are no longer affiliated with the Chicago Association of Commerce," Alexander Jamie, head of the amateur detective agency, announced yesterday. "The business interests which fostered this organization have decided that it would be impracticable to continue financing it at this time."

The agency will paddle its own canoe henceforth, Jamie said, without the financial assistance of its founders, rendering its services to whomever may apply for them. It will be a "not for profit" organization, he asserted. R. I. Randolph, former chief of the organization, will no longer be retained in that capacity, according to Jamie.

Captive Is Identified as Rapist; Bond Set at $15,000

Dominick Monaca, 21 years old, 1051 West 11th street, who was identified by two young girls as a member of the gang of five men who kidnaped and raped them on Wednesday night, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $15,000 yesterday by Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan.

HOLDS NONHIGH SCHOOL BODY MAY ISSUE WARRANTS

The Cook county nonhigh school board, which levies taxes to pay high school tuition for pupils living outside the organized high school districts, has been relieved of part of its financial worries by an opinion of Attorney General Kerner that the board has the power to issue tax anticipation warrants, it was announced yesterday by Adam Schilling of Tinley Park, one of the board members.

Because of the delay in collecting taxes in the county, the board has been unable to keep tuition payments up to date. It is now paying its 1931 bills and the Thornton township high school board has threatened to bar nonhigh school district pupils from its school in September if the arrears are not cleared up before that time.

Mr. Schilling said that an effort would be made to persuade the various high schools to which the board pays tuition fees to accept tax warrants in payment of part or all of their bills.

BRITISH PEER LAUDS NEW ART OF WORLD'S FAIR

Modern art, as exemplified by the A Century of Progress exposition buildings, was given high praise last night by Lord Ronald Gorell, principal speaker at a dinner given in the Congress hotel. The joint hosts were the Association of Arts and Industries and the Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Interior Decorators.

Lord Gorell, who is chairman of a British government committee on the relations of art and industry, said there was a general feeling over the world that civilization was entering a new phase and that, while young people were accused of disrespect to old masters in art, they really were looking for something to express the new age. Chicago was doing a great work, he continued, in demonstrating that the new art in architecture stands for something.

Col. W. N. Pelouze and Lewis B. Bernays, British consul general, also spoke at the dinner. Mr. Bernays also praised the beauty of American architecture.

GIRL HELD FOR COUNTERFEIT.

Miss Wynne Birell, 21 years old, 4008 North Austin avenue, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,500 yesterday by United States Commissioner Walker on charges of passing counterfeit money. Federal agents said she was a member of a large group of counterfeiters operating in the middle west.

HOOVER VISITS CHICAGO TODAY ON WAY HOME

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Herbert Hoover left New York this afternoon for his home in Palo Alto, Cal. He planned to spend part of tomorrow and Saturday in Chicago, then proceed to California, where he will "just take it easy for a month or so, maybe doing a little fishing in the California mountains," according to Lawrence Richey, his secretary, who, with the former President's son, Allan Hoover, accompanied him.

Mr. Hoover came here March 4. As the train was about to depart today Mr. Richey remarked that Mr. Hoover was "in much better condition than when he left Washington," but his smile, as he faced a battery of cameras from the rear end of the train, seemed that of a tired man. He expects to return here, however, in a month or two to settle personal affairs which he was unable to clear up during his twelve day stay. He declined repeated invitations by reporters and sound movie men to say a word of farewell.

The ex-President omitted his usual morning stroll today and spent the entire day up to his departure in his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria, receiving friends who wished to bid him good-by. He had seventy-five callers in all. Soon after four o'clock he entered an automobile owned by Lewis L. Strauss of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and went to the Pennsylvania station, escorted by motorcycle policemen. He left at 5 o'clock.

ASSEMBLY GETS BILLS TO SLASH STATE EXPENSES

Burns' Program Calls for 15 Million Saving.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 16.—[Special.]—Having disposed of two of its three major problems—state prohibition repeal and emergency relief by means of the sales tax—the 58th general assembly today tackled the task of reducing governmental expenses.

The way was opened for definite consideration next week of a series of bills introduced by Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee], who had made a particular study of the subject during the special session of the legislature last year. The Burns program, he said, involved a total saving of $15,000,000 a year to the taxpayers.

Burns recalled that when he started on the retrenchment demands there was some ridicule for his efforts, and commented that this attitude now, under depression conditions, has passed out of the picture. There is now general favor for the ideas he advocated last year, when a universal belief existed that his schedule would not go far.

Specific List of Reductions.

Only the preliminaries of the programmatic retrenchment had been taken tonight when the two chambers quit work for the week, but it is expected that when they reconvene next Tuesday they will get down to hard work on the details of a specific list of cuts proposed by the member from Kankakee.

Slashes of individual departments and divisions of the state government have been proposed by members here and there for several sessions, but, so far as is recalled, former Judge Burns is the first to propose a systematic mashing of salaries and activities of the state, which have grown mushroom-like with the steady swelling of the burden of taxation.

In behalf of his program, Representative Burns today issued the following statement: "I believe the most important legislative necessity of the times is the reduction of the cost of government."

Once Regarded as Impractical.

"When I became particularly interested in this question some three years ago," said Mr. Burns, "I was good naturedly regarded by my associates as impractical. Since that time even the most indifferent legislator has become conscious of the state of public sentiment with respect to burdensome taxation, and is convinced that something must be done. My views as to the manner by which the cost of government may be reduced may be summarized by the four R's: Reduce, retrench, refuse, and reorganize."

Mr. Burns attached to the statement a list of cuts covered by his series of bills some of which have already been introduced. Important ones scheduled for consideration Tuesday include a measure to cut the salaries of elected state officials from $10,000 annually to $7,500. His list, in part, follows:

Offered as Immediate Remedy.

"It is estimated," said former Judge Burns, "that the enactment into law of such a program as is outlined above will effect an economy of approximately $15,000,000 annually.

"This is not presented as an ideal plan. Such a plan would require changes in constitutional and statutory law. The foregoing program is one that is practical as an immediate remedy and possible of enactment at the regular session of the legislature."

JIMMY WALKER DENIES WIFE'S CHARGES THAT HE HAS DESERTED HER

Miami, Fal., March 16.—(AP)—James J. Walker, former mayor of New York, today filed in Circuit court here a general denial of charges made by his wife, Janet Allen Walker, in her suit for divorce.

Mrs. Walker last week sought dissolution of the marriage on a charge of willful and continued desertion.

"The defendant denies the allegations in paragraph one of the said bill of complaint," Walker's answer read.

The same denial was made to the two other paragraphs of the complaint.

Walker now is in Cannes, France. His answer was filed by Benjamin Cohen, Miami attorney, who said he acted on cabled instructions. Mrs. Walker, claiming to be a legal resident of Florida, charges Walker deserted her Oct. 15, 1928, and moved to a New York hotel. Paragraph three charged that he had willfully continued that desertion.

HORSE AND BUGGY PERSONALTY TAX FORM IS REVISED

Plan to Use New Schedule for '33 Assessment.

The Illinois tax commission yesterday announced that the present antiquated personal property tax schedule would be replaced by a modernized simplified form. The new schedule will be put into use in downstate counties April 1, but will not be used in Cook county until the 1933 assessment is made late this year because the county is a year behind in tax assessments.

The archaic items of the present schedule, which was compiled more than 30 years ago, have been dropped. Among the deleted items are melodeons and bagatelle tables. The thirty-odd items of the old form have been cut to ten.

New Items Are Added.

The items in the new schedule are automobiles, live stock, furniture and fixtures, personal effects, machinery and equipment, merchandise, cash and bank deposits, net credits, taxable securities, and all other personal property. Under the last classification are listed boats, airplanes, franchises, royalties, and annuities.

In cooperation with the secretary of state the commission has arranged to supply every assessor with a list of automobiles registered in each county. The cooperation of the secretary of state was sought when it was discovered that only 34 per cent of approximately 1,300,000 autos and trucks in the state are on the personalty rolls.

Commissioners Scott W. Lucas, Simeon D. Leland, and Barnet Hodes estimated the new schedule will save Cook county $150,000 in printing and bookkeeping costs and at the same time provide a more modern yardstick for the measurement of personalty. A proportionate saving will be made in downstate counties, they said.

Discuss Tax Hearing Plans.

At the second session of the public hearing on the county's tax problems before Commissioner Hodes in the commission's office at 33 North La Salle street yesterday, plans for the hearing of 60,000 complaints filed by taxpayers against 1928, 1929, and 1930 assessments were discussed. The complainants were previously denied hearings because of the dissolution of the old board of review.

Assessor J. L. Jacobs said that he was ready to hear the complaints, though he had no desire for additional work in his office. Representatives of real estate boards protested that the assessor should not serve as a court of appeal on assessments made by his office. George F. Nixon and Fred W. Brummel, members of the board of tax appeals, said they were willing to hear the complaints. They declared prompt and fair hearings would bring between 60 and 80 million dollars in back taxes within sixty days.

Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures; D. F. Kelly, Ernest R. Graham, and Acting Mayor Corr have been invited to attend the hearing this afternoon.

ILLINOIS SALES TAX MEASURE GOES TO HORNER

Becomes Effective First of Next Month.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 16.—[Special.]—Finishing touches of legislative procedure necessary to complete enactment of the sales tax bills were added in both senate and house today. They now go to Gov. Horner's desk, and will be submitted to Attorney General Kerner for an opinion as to their legal form before the governor signs them. This will probably come early next week.

Wearied after their long and unsuccessful battle of yesterday, which terminated with passage of the bill by a vote of 103 to 45, opponents of the 3 per cent retail sales levy did not put up a fight in the house this morning when companion bills were considered.

Companion Bills Passed.

Three of these were put through rapidly, but the fourth—which would prolong the life of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission until July 1, 1935—was held up until Tuesday. As fast as the house passed the measures they were rushed across the hall to the senate, which promptly concurred in house amendments.

It is probable that Lieut. Gov. Donovan and Speaker Roe will sign the four bills tomorrow and send them to Gov. Horner.

Objections to continuing the relief commission came from downstate members, and it is believed that they were based upon a misunderstanding. As written, the sales tax bill provides that the commission shall continue to dispense relief moneys in Cook county alone. Proceeds from the tax will go first toward reduction of property taxes in downstate counties, unless by a two-thirds vote of county boards it is decided that relief expenditures are necessary.

Maps Collection Plans.

Anticipating that the tax will become a law within the next few days, the state director of finance, J. J. Rice of Chicago, whose department will collect the tax returns, devoted considerable time today to the organization and mechanics of collection.

The bill provides that the tax shall be in effect on the first of the month following its enactment, or April 1. From May 1 to May 15 merchants must submit schedules of their April sales, together with a check for the tax. It has been Mr. Rice's experience in collecting the gasoline tax that most of the returns are received the last few days of the period—that is, close to the 15th of the month.

Greatest Volume of Sales Here.

While he cannot estimate yet how much of a staff will be necessary for clerical and investigation work, Mr. Rice believes that it will require a "substantial" number. Collection divisions will be established about the state, with the largest, of course, in Chicago, where the volume of sales will be greatest.

The department of finance was given an appropriation of $210,000 for the period ending July 1 this year, and another of $1,200,000 for the biennium ending July 1, 1935. Mr. Rice said today that it was hoped that expenditure of the entire sum will not be necessary. The director will be in Chicago tomorrow to confer on the collection machinery.

MARJORIE CRAWFORD WELLMAN.
[Acme Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—(AP)—Testimony that her husband, William A. Wellman, film director, greatly embarrassed her by profanity and risque stories in the presence of guests, was given today by Marjorie Wellman, formerly Marjorie Crawford, aviatrix, in her suit for divorce. The Wellmans were married in Yuma, Ariz., Dec. 22, 1931, and separated this year. Her attorney said a property settlement had been effected whereby Mrs. Wellman will receive $30,000.

SALE TAX UNFAIR TO CHICAGO, SAYS A. OF C. ANALYST

Levy Applies to Food at Retail, Lawyers Assert.

Chicago economists, studying the sales tax bill finally approved by the Illinois general assembly on Wednesday, have come to the conclusion that this, like many other state tax measures of the last ten years, discriminates against Cook county and favors the rest of the state, particularly the rural districts. The bill becomes effective on the first day of the month following its signature by Gov. Horner, presumably April 1.

While the inequalities are not apparent in the language of the bill itself, a few computations indicate that residents of Chicago and Cook county will contribute to the sales tax fund many thousands of dollars yearly in excess of what the county gets in return, the economists hold. The bill levies a 3 per cent tax on all commodities sold at retail, excepting motor fuel.

Says Measure Discriminates.

The "joker" in the bill, from Cook county's standpoint, lies not in the method of imposing the tax but in the method of distributing the proceeds, according to the economists. L. A. Dumond, tax analyst of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who spent weeks studying the bill and finally went to Springfield in hopes of getting a fair distribution method for Chicago, pointed out how the measure discriminates against this city and Cook county generally.

The bill, as Mr. Dumond pointed out, provides that proceeds of the tax, instead of being distributed proportionately to each county on the basis of that county's retail sales, shall be paid into the state department of finance, whence, after deducting the cost of collection, it is distributed to the counties on the basis of county population.

"A cursory study of retail sales volume in Illinois quickly exposes the joker," said Mr. Dumond. "The most accurate statistics available show that 62 per cent of all retail sales in Illinois are made in Cook county, while the last census reveals that only 51 per cent of the population resides in Cook county. On any equitable distribution of the sales tax yield, Cook county would be entitled to 62 per cent, but, under the system devised by the downstate legislators, this county will get only 51 per cent.

"The inequity of the tax is unmistakable," said Mr. Dumond. "The bill provides that in counties where the needs of the jobless are less pressing than in Cook county the sales tax proceeds may be used for support of the grade schools. Under the distributing method now approved, it appears that Chicago will now have to help support the public schools downstate through the sales tax, as it has helped build downstate roads in past years with the fuel and vehicle taxes."

Products Affected by Tax.

Conflicting reports were circulated yesterday on whether the tax will apply to groceries, meats, and other foods. The bill declares that the tax shall apply to "all tangible property sold at retail," but contains a somewhat ambiguous clause stating that "tangible property does not include farm products or farm produce sold by the producer thereof."

In view of this clause certain reports stated that all food products were exempt from the tax. As interpreted by Springfield lawyers, however, the clause is regarded as applying only to products sold direct by the farmer to the consumer, as at a roadside vegetable stand or on a farmer's private milk route. All food commodities sold at ordinary retail, such as milk from the big dairies or staples in the groceries and meat in butcher shops, will be taxed, according to the Springfield interpretation. The tax will apply to beer, already scheduled for a federal tax of $5 a barrel.

A committee from the state department of finance is expected here this week to confer with big retailers on means of collecting the tax. The bill provides that each merchant shall provide the department a statement of his gross sales each month, paying the 3 per cent tax on those sales. A committee representing the big State street stores is working on a plan of collection under leadership of Bruce MacLeish of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co.

QUICK DIVORCE BILL TO RAISE REVENUE IN DELAWARE SENATE

Wilmington, Del., March 16.—[Special.]—Because the Delaware legislature is striving desperately to provide new forms of revenue this traditionally conservative city, only three and a half hours from New York City by train, seems destined to become the divorce Mecca of the east.

A bill providing easy divorce with only two months' residence, passed by the house of representatives yesterday, was rushed to the senate today and bids fair to become a law before the end of the month.

The measure would provide for a $50 tax on each divorce decree granted and its backers point out that divorce seekers would be only too glad to pay such a fee rather than to incur the expense of a trip to Reno.

One lure for the out of Delaware trade is the fact that alimony rarely is granted by Delaware courts unless an unusual reason is shown for its inclusion.

Buys Flowers for Her Own Funeral, Then Ends Life

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Laura Josephs, widow of Jacob R. Josephs, the turfman, bought flowers for use at her own funeral and then committed suicide today by inhaling gas in her apartment on the eleventh floor at 16 Park avenue. She was 65 years old.

M'CLURE HEADS JOINT GROUP ON REAPPORTIONING

Springfield, Ill., March 16.—(AP)—Representative Frank W. McClure, Democrat of Abingdon, today was elected chairman of the joint legislative committee on congressional reapportionment. Senator Harold G. Ward, Chicago Democrat, was elected secretary. The committee will meet next Wednesday to consider the draft of a bill for reapportionment.

A bill already has been introduced in the house by Representative Lyons of Mundelein, in which remapping of the state on the basis of population is outlined. Lyons' bill will give Cook county 14 congressmen, downstate 13, and would eliminate the two congressmen at large.

ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR CONTROL OF FARM PRICES

Congress to Act Soon, It Is Asserted.

man Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.] said he hoped to be able to get the bill through the house by Saturday night.

Officers of the American Farm Bureau federation and similar organizations said they are in favor of the bill "a million per cent" and that every ounce of their influence in congress will be swung to its enactment. Representatives of the packers, millers and other processors were less enthusiastic, some of them highly critical of the measure, though it was apparent that qualified approval of some of them had been won by a provision of the bill conferring the following power on the secretary of agriculture:

"To enter into marketing agreements with processors, associations of producers, and other agencies engaged in the handling, in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, of any agriculture commodity or product thereof, after due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties. For the purpose of carrying out any such agreement the parties thereto shall be eligible for loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance corporation act. Such loans shall not be in excess of such amounts as may be authorized by the agreements and shall bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum."

Standard for Bill.

The parties to such marketing agreements would be exempt from prosecution for violation of the Sherman antitrust act. Some of the packers thought that in the case of hogs, for example, an agreement could be worked out between the packers and the producers which would curtail the amount of pork marketed so effectually that the price would be raised without resort to the taxing powers of the plan.

The theory of the plan is that the purchasing power of the farmer from 1909 to 1914 shall be restored. That restoration may be brought about either by increasing the prices of the commodities he produces or decrease of the prices of the commodities he consumes or both.

Average prices of farm products in the five year pre-war period were: Wheat, 88.4 cents a bushel; cotton, 12.4 cents a pound; hogs, 7.24 cents a pound; corn, 62.4 cents a bushel; steers, 5.20 cents a pound, and lambs, 7.30 cents a pound. Last month the prices of the manufactured products the farmer consumes averaged 4 per cent above the prices of these commodities in the five year pre-war period, according to department of agriculture figures. Therefore in order to regain the purchasing power of that period the farmer should be receiving for what he produces 4 per cent more than the pre-war prices. For his wheat, for example, he should be getting 92 cents a bushel. That would be the so-called parity of wheat.

Would Apply Gradually.

Under the proposed plan the secretary of agriculture would levy a tax, which, progressively increased, would eventually boost the price of the commodity to the parity price. With wheat selling around 50 cents, as at present, a tax of 42 cents would be required to achieve the parity price.

That much tax would not be slapped on all at once. It would be applied piecemeal, Secretary Wallace said. While this gradual approach to the parity price was being accomplished, the average price of what the farmer consumes might decline, in which event less tax would be required to establish parity, or the cost of what he consumes might go up, in which event a larger tax would be required.

Secretary Wallace estimated that an immediate 20 per cent in acreage curtailment would result from the operation of the plan.

"It is intended under the broad grant of power," he explained, "that the secretary will call in representatives of the producers and processors for each commodity and shall work out separately for each commodity the method of dealing with it which offers the best hope of effective control of production for the 1933 crops and of progressive action toward an elimination of surplus stocks or production and restoration of normal price parity.

For Full Consultation.

"Under the taxing power provision is made for hearing interested parties so that in each step of the application of the law the secretary will discuss the proposed steps with those interested and will take into account their expert advice.

"In controlling production of different commodities different systems will probably be used. Thus it is anticipated that in the case of hogs and corn the payment of rent for retirement of corn land from production will be contingent upon a corresponding reduction in the quantity of hogs marketed by the producer. In the case of cash crops the rental or benefit payment may be based primarily upon reduction in acreage of the particular crop in question, with supplementary provisions as to the alternative use of the land.

Can Rent Surplus Land.

"Under the plan the secretary is also at liberty to rent land in large tracts or in selected regions, or to allot the sums for land rentals by states and counties so that each producer will have an equal opportunity to rent a portion of his land and to receive rental payments."

"Provisions are included for taxes on the existing warehouse stocks at the time the tax goes into effect and refunds on the exportation of finished products upon which processing taxes have been collected and for the imposition of such taxes as are found necessary on commodities or products competing with the basic agricultural commodities or their products. Commodities by unemployment relief agencies are exempt from taxation.

"Through these and other special provisions it is hoped that the tax can be applied with the least possible necessity for adjustment in the various industries and without injustice to the various individuals and concerns involved, so that in every way the addition of the tax will work out in the same way as an increase in the price of the product itself."

The tax by which the price of a commodity is raised will be paid eventually by the consumer. To that extent it will operate to increase the cost of living. Secretary Wallace thought the consumer would not mind it.

"In practically all ca es," he said, "the percentage of the retail price which now goes to the farmer is so small that the addition of the tax will have only a very slight effect on the retail price. It is anticipated that that part of the tax which is added to the retail price will not be burdensome to consumers. At the same time, by increasing the funds available in rural communities and thus increasing the assets behind the rural banking structure and increasing the purchasing power of farmers for industrial products, it is expected that there will result an increase in city industrial activity."

"As this develops the increased activity will eventually provide city workers increased incomes far greater than the relatively small increase in their cost of living," the secretary added.

"The basic products to which the act applies are: Wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, rice, hogs, cattle, sheep, and milk and its products in practically all cases these products are now selling at retail far below the cost of other items of food and the prices of goods and services for which consumers buy."

TEXT OF BILL TO CURTAIL CROPS AND RAISE THEIR PRICES IN U. S.

A bill to relieve the existing national economic emergency by increasing agricultural purchasing power.

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled: That the present acute economic emergency being in part the consequence of a severe and increasing disparity between the prices of agricultural and other commodities, which disparity has largely destroyed the purchasing power of farmers for industrial products, has broken down the orderly exchange of commodities, and has seriously impaired the agricultural assets supporting the national credit structure, it is hereby declared that these conditions in the basic industry of agriculture have affected transactions in agricultural commodities with a national public interest, have burdened and obstructed the normal currents of commerce in such commodities, and render imperative the immediate enactment of this act.

Declaration of Policy.

Section 2. It is hereby declared to be the policy of congress:

[1] To establish and maintain such balance between the production and consumption of agricultural commodities, and such marketing conditions therefor as will reestablish prices to farmers at a level that will give agricultural commodities a purchasing power, with respect to articles that farmers buy, equivalent to the purchasing power of agricultural commodities in the pre-war period, August, 1909, to July, 1914; and

[2] To approach such equality of purchasing power by gradual correction of the present inequalities therein at as rapid a rate as is deemed feasible in view of the current consumptive demand in domestic and foreign markets.

[3] To protect the consumers' interest by readjusting farm production at such level as will not increase the percentage of the consumers' retail expenditures for agricultural commodities, or products derived therefrom, which is returned to the farmer, above the percentage which was returned to the farmer in the pre-war period, August, 1909, to July, 1914.

TITLE I.

Cotton Option Contracts.

Section 3. The federal farm board and all departments and other agencies of the government are hereby directed:

[A] To sell to the secretary of agriculture at such price as may be agreed upon all cotton now owned by them.

[B] To take such action and to make such settlements as are necessary in order to acquire full legal title to all cotton on which money has been loaned or advanced by any department or agency of the United States or held as collateral for loans or advances and to make final settlement of such loans and advances upon such terms as may be deemed advisable, in the judgment of the secretary and the department or agency involved; and to sell this cotton also to the secretary in the same manner as is provided in the preceding paragraph hereof.

Section 4. The secretary of agriculture shall have authority to borrow money upon all cotton in his possession or control and deposit as collateral for such loans the warehouse receipts for such cotton.

Section 5. The Reconstruction Finance corporation is hereby authorized and directed to advance money and to make loans to the secretary of agriculture to acquire such cotton and to pay the carrying costs thereon, in such amounts and upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the secretary and the Reconstruction Finance corporation, with such warehouse receipts as collateral security.

Sales to Producers.

Section 6. A] The secretary of agriculture is hereby authorized and directed to enter into contracts with the producers of cotton to sell to any such producer an amount of cotton equivalent in amount to the amount of reduction in production of cotton by such producer below the amount produced by him in the preceding crop year, in all cases where such producer agrees in writing to reduce the amount of cotton produced by him in 1933 below his production in the previous year by not less than 30 per centum, without increase in commercial fertilization, per acre.

[b] To any such producer so agreeing to reduce production the secretary of agriculture shall deliver a nontransferable option contract agreeing to sell to said produced an amount of cotton equivalent to the amount of his estimated reduction of the cotton in the possession and control of the secretary.

[c] The producer is to have the option to buy said cotton at the average price paid by the secretary for the cotton procured under section 3, and is to have the right at any time up to January 1, 1934, to exercise his option, upon proof that he has complied with his contract and with all the rules and regulations of the secretary of agriculture with respect thereto, by taking said cotton upon payment by him of his option price and all actual carrying charges on such cotton; or the secretary may sell such cotton for the account of such producer, paying him the excess of the market price at the date of sale over the market price at the date of his contract after deducting all actual and necessary carrying charges: Provided, that in no event shall the producer be held responsible or liable for financial loss incurred in the holding of such cotton or on account of the carrying charges therein: Provided further, that such agreement to curtail cotton production shall contain a further provision that such cotton producer shall not use the land taken out of cotton production for the production for sale, directly or indirectly, of any other nationality, produced agricultural commodity or product.

Section 7. The secretary shall sell the cotton held by him at his discretion: Provided, that he shall dispose of all cotton held by him by March 1, 1935: Provided further that he is authorized to sell unlimited amounts, at any time a price equivalent to not less than 10 cents basis middling seven-eighths inch staple at the ports can be produced.

TITLE II.

Agricultural adjustment provisions general powers.

Section 8. In order to effectuate the declared policy the secretary of agriculture shall have power:

[1] To provide for reduction in the acreage or reduction in production for market, or both, of any basic agricultural commodity, through agreements with producers or otherwise, and to provide for rental or benefit payments in connection therewith in such amounts as the secretary deems fair and reasonable, to be paid out of any moneys available for such payments.

[2] To enter into marketing agreements with processors, associations of producers, and other agencies engaged in the handling, in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, of any agricultural commodity or product thereof, after due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties. For the purpose of carrying out any such agreement the parties thereto shall be eligible for loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance corporation act. Such loans shall not be in excess of such amounts as may be authorized by the agreements and shall bear interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum.

[3] To issue licenses permitting processors, associations of producers, and other agencies to engage in the handling, in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, of any basic agricultural commodity or product thereof, or any competing agricultural commodity or product thereof. Such licenses shall be subject to such terms and conditions, not in conflict with existing acts of congress or regulations pursuant thereto, as may be necessary to eliminate unfair practices or charges that prevent or tend to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy and the restoration of normal economic conditions in the marketing of such commodities or products and the financing thereof. The secretary of agriculture may suspend or revoke any such license, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, for violations of the terms or conditions thereof. Any agency engaged in such handling without a license, as required by the secretary under this section, shall be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000 for each day during which the violation continues.

[4] To require any licensees under this section to furnish such reports as to quantities of agricultural commodities or products thereof bought and sold and the prices thereof, and as to trade practices and charges, and to keep such systems of accounts as may be necessary for the purpose of this act.

Processing Tax.

Section 9. [a] To raise revenues for the payment of extraordinary expenditures incurred by reason of the national economic emergency there shall be levied, assessed, and collected, during any marketing period for any basic agricultural commodity with respect to the production of which for such period rental or benefit payments are made under this act, a tax to be paid by the processor on the first domestic processing of the commodity, whether of domestic production or imported. Such tax shall, except as hereinafter provided, equal the difference between the current average farm price for the commodity, and the fair exchange value of the commodity. Such value for any commodity shall be the price therefor which will give the commodity the same purchasing power, with respect to articles farmers buy, as during the prewar period, August, 1909-July, 1914. The current average farm price and the fair exchange value shall be ascertained by the secretary of agriculture from available statistics of the department of agriculture.

[b] If the secretary, after investigation and due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties, finds at any time that the imposition of the tax at the rate hereinbefore provided has resulted or is likely to result in a substantial reduction in the quantity of the commodity or products thereof domestically consumed, he shall fix such lower rate as is necessary to maintain or restore such domestic consumption. Such rate may be revised from time to time pursuant to further findings under this subsection. In making any such finding the secretary shall give due consideration to the following factors among others:

1. Reports as to wage scales, employment and unemployment in urban regions.

2. Changes in the consumption of the agricultural commodity and of other commodities.

3. Evidence derived from statistical studies of supply and demand for previous periods, which indicate the change in consumption of the commodity which would normally occur in consequence of a particular change in the cost to processors or consumers.

4. Other relevant data as to changes in the cost of living of consumers, consumers' buying habits, and current and prospective conditions in industry pertinent to determining the probable effective demand for the commodity.

[c] The secretary of agriculture shall certify to the secretary of the treasury from time to time the rate of tax in effect for any commodity under this act.

Miscellaneous.

Section 10 [a] The secretary of agriculture may appoint such experts and, in accordance with the classification act of 1923 and all acts amendatory thereof, and subject to the civil service laws, such officers and employés as are necessary to execute the functions vested in him under this act: Provided, that no salary in excess of $7,500 per annum shall be paid to more than ten additional officers or employés of the emergency agricultural adjustment administration which the secretary shall establish in the department of agriculture for the administration of the functions vested in him by this act.

[b] The secretary of agriculture is authorized to establish, for the more effective administration of the functions vested in him by this act, state and local committees, or associations of producers, and to permit coöperative associations of producers, when in his judgment they are qualified to do so, to act as agents of their members and patrons in connection with the distribution of rental or benefit payments.

[c] The secretary of agriculture is authorized, with the approval of the President, to make such regulations, with the force and effect of law, as may be necessary to carry out the powers vested in him by this act. Any violation of any regulation shall be subject to such penalty, not in excess of $100, as may be provided therein.

[d] The secretary of the treasury is authorized to make such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the powers vested in him by this act, including regulations establishing conversion factors for any commodity and article processed therefrom to determine the amount of tax or duty imposed with respect thereto. Determining the amount of and making any rental or benefit payment shall not be subject to review by any officer of the government other than the secretary of agriculture or secretary of the treasury.

[f] Except as provided in section 20, the provisions of this act shall be applicable to the United States and its possessions, except the Philippine islands, the Virgin islands, American Samoa, and the Island of Guam.

Commodities.

Section 11. As used in this act, the term "basic agricultural commodity" means wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, cattle, sheep, rice, tobacco, and milk and its products, and any regional or market classification, type or grade thereof; but the secretary of agriculture shall exclude from the operation of the provisions of this act, during any period, any such commodity or classification, type, or grade thereof if he finds, upon investigation at any time and after due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties, that the conditions of production, marketing, and consumption are such that during such period this act cannot be effectively administered to the end of effectuating the declared policy with respect to such commodity or classification, type or grade thereof.

Appropriation.

Section 12. (a) The proceeds derived from taxes imposed under this act are hereby appropriated to be available to the secretary of agriculture for rental and benefit payments and administrative expenses, including refunds under this act.

(b) The secretary of agriculture and the secretary of the treasury shall jointly estimate from time to time the amounts currently required for such payments and expenses, and the secretary of the treasury shall advance to the secretary of agriculture the amounts so estimated. The amount of such advance shall be deducted from such funds as subsequently become available under subsection (a).

(c) The secretary of agriculture shall transfer to the treasury department and is authorized to transfer to other agencies out of funds available under this section such sums as are required to pay administrative expenses incurred and refunds made by such department or agencies in the administration of this act.

Termination of Act.

Section 13. This act shall cease to be in effect whenever the President finds and proclaims that the national economic emergency in relation to agriculture has been ended; and pending such time the President shall by proclamation terminate with respect to any basic agricultural commodity such provisions of this act as he finds are not requisite to carrying out the declared policy with respect to such commodity. The secretary of agriculture shall make such investigations and reports thereon to the President as may be necessary to aid him in executing this section.

Separability of Provisions.

Section 14. If any provision of this act is declared unconstitutional, or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or commodity is held invalid the validity of the remainder of this act and the applicability thereof to other persons, circumstances, or commodities shall not be affected thereby.

Supplementary revenue provisions; Exemptions and Compensating Taxes.

Section 15. [a] If the secretary of agriculture finds, upon investigation at any time and after due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties, that any class of products of any commodity is of such low value compared with the quantity of the commodity used for their manufacture that the imposition of the processing tax would prevent in whole or in large part the use of the commodity in the manufacture of such products and thereby substantially reduce consumption and increase the surplus of the commodity, then the secretary of agriculture shall so certify to the secretary of the treasury, and the secretary of the treasury shall abate or refund any processing tax thereafter imposed with respect to such amount of the commodity as is used in the manufacture of such products.

[b] No tax shall be required to be paid on the processing of any commodity by the producer thereof on his own premises for consumption by his own family, employés, or household.

[c] Any person delivering any product to any unemployment relief organization for charitable distribution or use shall, if such product or the commodity from which processed, is under this act subject to tax, be entitled to a refund of the amount of any tax paid with respect to such product or commodity.

[d] The secretary of agriculture shall ascertain from time to time whether the payment of the processing tax upon any basic agricultural commodity is causing or will cause to the processors thereof disadvantages in competition from competing agricultural commodities by reason of excessive shifts in consumption between such commodities or products thereof. If the secretary of agriculture finds after investigation and due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties, that such disadvantages in competition exist, or will exist, he shall proclaim such finding. The secretary shall specify in this proclamation the competing agricultural commodity and the compensating rate of tax on the processing thereof necessary to prevent such disadvantages in competition. Thereafter there shall be levied, assessed and collected upon the first domestic processing of such competing agricultural commodity a tax, to be paid by the processor, at the rate specified, until such rate is altered pursuant to a further finding under this section, or the tax rate thereof on the basic agricultural commodity is altered or terminated. In no case shall the tax imposed upon such competing agricultural commodity exceed that imposed per like unit upon the basic agricultural commodity. The term "competing agricultural commodity" shall include, among other, rayon, silk, linen, and oleomargarine, and any basic agricultural commodity as to which a tax is not in effect under section 9.

Floor Stocks.

Section 16. [a] Upon the sale or other disposition of any article processed wholly or in chief value from any commodity with respect to which a processing tax is to be levied, that on the date the tax first takes effect or wholly terminates with respect to the commodity, is held for sale or other disposition [including articles in transit] by any person other than a consumer or a person engaged solely in retail trade, there shall be made a tax adjustment as follows:

1. Whenever the processing tax first takes effect there shall be levied, assessed, and collected a tax to be paid by such person equivalent to the amount of the processing tax which would be payable with respect to the commodity from which processed if the processing had occurred on such date.

2. Whenever the processing tax is wholly terminated there shall be refunded to such person a tax [or if it has not been paid the tax shall be abated] in an amount equivalent to the processing tax with respect to the commodity from which processed.

[b]. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection [a] such subsection shall apply with respect to such portion of retail stocks on hand at the date the processing tax takes effect, as is not sold or otherwise disposed of for consumption within one month after such date.

Exportations.

Section 17. [a] Upon the exportation to any foreign country (including the Philippine islands, the Virgin islands, American Samoa, and the Island of Guam) of any product with respect to which a tax has been paid under this act, or of any product processed wholly or in chief value from a commodity with respect to which a tax has been paid under this act, the exporter thereof shall be entitled at the time of exportation to a refund of the amount of such tax.

(b) Upon the giving of satisfactory bond for the faithful observance of the provisions of this act requiring the payment of taxes, any person shall be entitled, without payment of the tax, to process for such exportation any commodity with respect to which a tax is imposed by this act, or to hold for such exportation any article processed wholly or in chief value therefrom.

Existing Contracts.

Section 18. [a] If [1] any processor, jobber, or wholesaler has, prior to the date of approval of this act, made a bona fide contract of sale for delivery after such date of any article in respect of which a tax is imposed under this act, and if (2) such contract does not permit the addition to the amount to be paid thereunder of the whole of such tax, then (unless the contract prohibits such addition) the vendee shall pay so much of the tax as is not permitted to be added to the contract price.

[b] Taxes payable by the vendee shall be paid to the vendor at the time the sale is consummated and shall be collected and paid to the United States by the vendor in the same manner as other taxes under this act. In case of failure or refusal by the vendee to pay such taxes to the vender the vender shall report the facts to the commissioner of internal revenue, who shall cause collections of such taxes to be made from the vendee.

Collection of Taxes.

Section 19. [a] The taxes provided in this act shall be collected by the bureau of internal revenue under the direction of the secretary of the treasury. Such taxes shall be paid into the treasury of the United States.

[b] All provisions of law, including penalties, applicable with respect to the taxes imposed by section 600 of the revenue act of 1926, and the provisions of section 626 of the revenue act of 1932, shall, in so far as applicable and not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be applicable in respect of taxes imposed by this act: Provided, that the secretary of the treasury is authorized to permit postponement, for a period not exceeding sixty days, of the payment of taxes covered by any return under this act.

[c] In order that the payment of taxes under this act may not impose any immediate undue financial burden upon processors, any processor subject to such taxes shall be eligible for loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance corporation act.

Compensating Duties.

Section 20. [a] During any period for which a processing tax is in effect with respect to any commodity there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid upon the importation, from any foreign country into the United States of goods processed or manufactured wholly or in chief value from such commodity which, if domestically processed, would be subject to a processing tax, a duty equal to the amount of the tax which would be payable with respect to such domestic processing at the time of importation. Such duty shall be in addition to any other imposed by law.

[b] The duties imposed by this section shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner as duties imposed by the tariff act of 1930, and shall be treated, for the purposes of all provisions of the law relating to the customs revenue, as duties imposed by such act.

[c] As used in this section the term "United States" means the United States and its possessions, except the Philippine Islands, the Virgin islands, American Samoa, and the Island of Guam.

ROOSEVELT'S CALL FOR ACTION UPON FARM PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's message asking farm relief legislation:

"At the same time that you and I are joining in emergency action to bring order to our banks and to make our regular federal expenditures balance our income I deem it of equal importance to take other and simultaneous steps without waiting for a later meeting of the congress.

"One of these is of definite, constructive importance to our economic recovery.

"It relates to agriculture and seeks to increase the purchasing power of our farmers and the consumption of articles manufactured in our industrial communities; and at the same time greatly to relieve the pressure of farm mortgages and to increase the asset value of farm loans made by our banking institutions.

"Deep study and the joint counsel of many points of view have produced a measure which offers great promise of good results. I tell you frankly that it is a new and untrod path, but I tell you with equal frankness that an unprecedented condition calls for the trial of new means to rescue agriculture.

"If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped for results I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you.

"The proposed legislation is necessary now for the simple reason that the spring crops will soon be planted and if we wait for another month or six weeks the effect on the prices of this year's crops will be wholly lost.

"Furthermore, by action at this time the United States will be in a better position to discuss problems affecting world crop surpluses at the proposed world economic conference."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

LUTHER RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF REICHSBANK

Schacht Reappointed to His Old Post.

Nazis Shoot Czech

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 16.—(AP)—The official Czech News agency reported today a Czech working man had been wounded, probably fatally, by gunfire from a party of alleged German Nazis who crossed the border at Katharineaberg.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 16.—Dr. Hans Luther voluntarily resigned as president of the Reichsbank today and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht was reappointed to his old post, it was announced after a five-hour session of the Reichsbank's general council.

Dr. Luther headed the bank for three years. He was appointed to the post in 1930, when Dr. Schacht resigned as a protest against the final draft of the Young plan as it was agreed upon at The Hague. Later in the same year Schacht paid a lengthy visit to the United States.

Disagreed with Hitler.

The regulations of the Reichsbank prevent removal of its president for political reasons, but it is known that Dr. Luther has been in conflict with Chancellor Hitler's government particularly over the program for financing work to relieve unemployment.

The reasons for Dr. Luther's resignation were set forth in a letter to President Paul von Hindenburg. Dr. Luther stressed that the closest and most confidential coöperation is necessary between the Reichsbank's directorate and the government in the interest of German currency and the nation's economic life. He said his discussions with Hitler had made it clear that obstacles existed against such coöperation between himself and the government.

"Therefore," he said, "I prefer to make way for another."

Luther also emphasized that Hitler had expressly assured him that the government had no intention of making any currency experiments.

Both Von Hindenburg and the general council expressed their appreciation to Dr. Luther for his services in the crisis. Von Hindenburg added the hope that Dr. Luther's vast experience and creative energy will be further available.

The National Socialist newspaper Der Angriff welcomes Dr. Luther's resignation, describing him as a typical representative of the "November system of the republic."

"Dr. Luther was in truth the keeper of the Holy Grail of international high finance," the newspaper said. "Political liberalism in Germany has been eliminated and today's Reichbank development is the first decisive step toward extermination of economic liberalism."

Meanwhile the crown has been restored to the head of the national eagle on Weidendamm bridge by order of Berlin city authorities. At dawn, workers brought crowns to the bridge, in the heart of the capital where Friedrichstrasse crosses the Spree, and soldered them atop the former uncrowned republican eagles.

Bavarian Premier Out.

MUNICH, Bavaria, March 16.—(AP)—Heinrich Held resigned today as acting premier of the state of Bavaria. State affairs hereafter will be administered by Nazi commissioners under Franz von Epp, a Nazi leader, who was appointed federal commissioner for the state by the Hitler régime last week.

Ban Concert at Leipzig.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, March 26.—Police in Leipzig tonight forbade Bruno Walter to conduct a concert at the Gewandhaus on the ground that it threatened public order and security.

Walter has just returned from the United States, where he completed his second season as conductor for the New York Philharmonic orchestra. His friends suspect that he does not quite measure up to the racial standards championed by the National Socialists, who have learned that his family name was Schlesinger.

Walter has also been obliged to substitute Dusolina Giannini, the American singer, for the well known Czech prima donna, Novatna, for his concert in Berlin next Monday. While no reason for the shift was announced, it is presumed there were fears that anti-Czech sentiment might have asserted itself at the concert.

Will Rename Marxist Streets.

The ministry of the interior in Thuringia has ordered the renaming of all the streets and public squares that now carry the names of "Marxist or Jewish" persons. They are to be renamed for members of Chancellor Hitler's government or men who have helped bring about the "national uprising."

Gen. Paul von Schoenaich, a well known pacifist, who commanded the Fifteenth Hussars during the world war and later became chairman of the German peace league, has been taken into custody at Reinfeld in Schleswig.

CHIEF OF AUSTRIA'S POLICE QUITS; FASCIST ARMY DEMOBILIZED

VIENNA, March 16.—(AP)—The resignation of Franz Brandl, chief of the federal police, tonight lent weight to rumors circulated in Vienna that a disagreement within the Dollfuss dictatorial government had arisen in connection with yesterday's mobilization of the Fascist heimwehr.

Some rumors were to the effect that the heimwehr, supported by Emil Fey, secretary of state for public security, planned a putsch last night, but were checkmated by Vice Chancellor Franz Winkler, who protested to Chancellor Dollfuss. There were unconfirmed reports that Herbert Hedrich, chief of the political police, and Fey also were resigning as a result of alleged heimwehr machinations.

The heimwehr was demobilized today and troops were withdrawn to their barracks. They were called out yesterday to break up a rump session of parliament called by the opposition.

Wind Blows German Flag Into Poland; Police Angry

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, March 16.—A black, white, red German flag, raised two yards beyond the Polish-German frontier in upper Silesia, near Katawice, is annoying the Polish border police, according to the official Iskra agency. They have asked police headquarters here what to do when the west wind blows the long flag across the frontier and it touches Polish soil, but a solution has not yet been found.

FORMER CHIEF OF UNION GETS PRISON TERM

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Sam Kaplan, deposed president and chief organizer of local 306 of the Motion Picture Machine Operators' Protective union of Greater New York, was sentenced to the penitentiary on Welfare island today by Judge Charles C. Nott of General Sessions with a recommendation to the parole board that he serve not more than six months. His maximum term is three years.

Judge Nott imposed a similar sentence on Theodore Greenburg, an organizer, who had been arrested previously and convicted of assault.

Fines of $500 were imposed on Charles Eichhorn, vice president; Frederick E. Castle, vice president, and Morris J. Wolheim, business agent.

The men were convicted last week after a lengthy trial. Their indictments were based on charges brought by nine members of the union, who said that in 1929 they had been attacked by thugs and expelled because one of their number, a former business agent, had started an action in the Supreme court for an accounting of funds.

THE SALES TAX FOR RELIEF.

The legislature at Springfield has voted for the immediate imposition of a sales tax of 3 per cent. The bill now goes to Gov. Horner for his signature. The tax is expected to yield something like 35 million dollars, or approximately 3 million dollars a month, for relief of the needy in Cook county.

The expenses of relief at the present scale of distribution amount to more than twice the revenue expected of the sales tax. Relief administrators have estimated that in this calendar year their outlay will approximate 90 million dollars, but since the estimate was made steps have been taken to reduce the allowances to accord with the decline in living costs. Obviously the sales tax alone cannot finance the whole bill unless further and drastic reductions are made in the allowances for individuals and families. Either the state and its subdivisions must continue to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance corporation or the total of expenditures must be reduced.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation obtains its money by borrowing. Recent experience has shown that the limits of government borrowing have nearly been reached. Today the treasury is paying maximum rates for short-term money and only a week ago government bonds were unsalable for lack of bidders. The strength in government bonds since the banks reopened is by no means a guarantee that government borrowing can continue indefinitely without precipitating another crisis. Indeed, the strength of government bonds is attributable to the President's economy measures because they promise an end to government borrowing to meet budget deficiencies. If the hope of a balanced budget is disappointed by heavy demands for relief funds the constructive steps which have been taken by the President will be pretty largely negatived.

In these circumstances it is the plain, if unpleasant, duty of the relief administration to reexamine its budget in the light of expectable income. Allowances may have to be reduced to the point where the bare necessities of life will be distributed. No doubt some economies are possible in distribution. Every advantage should be taken of such savings to spread the relief funds as far as they can be made to reach.

While every one hopes that the number of names on the relief rolls will shortly begin to diminish, it would be a capital mistake to proceed on the theory that this result is certain. The prudent course is to assume that the list is destined to lengthen at the rate shown in recent months and to assume, further, that the sales tax revenues must carry the brunt of the burden.

THE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

The statement of the president of the county board, Mr. Emmett Whealan, that the new county superintendent of schools is to be selected on the basis of competence, without regard for political considerations, is reassuring. In view of this decision, the board might well summon into conference such men as Prof. Morrison of the University of Chicago to assist in the choice.

The selection of an able county superintendent is especially important in a time of revenue shortage such as we are now experiencing. A man is needed who can maintain educational standards in the face of declining revenues. The task is a difficult one, calling for experience in the management of school funds and a mind capable of distinguishing between the genuinely important in education and the unimportant which can be dispensed with if necessary. Such a man will not be found if partisan politics is allowed to govern the selection.

AN INTERNATIONAL NUISANCE.

The seizure by treasury agents of liquor and wine consignments to the diplomatic colony in Washington is wholly in the character of the noble experiment. The agents of foreign governments in all other civilized countries are granted immunities for which the treasury department in its zeal for prohibition enforcement has evidently little respect. The result has been prompt and effectual protest from the diplomatic corps but much inconvenience and annoyance for all concerned. The excuse for seizure was that the consignments were conveyed on an American ship in coastwise traffic. The ship originally bound for Baltimore docked at New York. What this quibble had to do with the seizure is unimportant, although it is a characteristic piece of bureaucratic pettifogging. The instance is chiefly an exhibit in the dry régime, which has been repeatedly reckless of international rights and amenities.

A touch of special irony for this stupid offense is given by the fact that the consignments had been given for conveyance to an American ship as a gesture of courtesy. The episode illustrates what we mean when we express the belief that the modification of the Volstead act will have a desirable effect upon the national morale. The dry régime has become an intolerable irritant to normal Americans.

A LEAGUE MEMBER TAKES HIS HAT.

It was apparent in the very beginnings of the league of nations that when the agreements to which a powerful nation gave its signature were found to be a detriment to its national purpose or a check on national action the nation concerned would repudiate or withdraw. Inspired prophecy was not needed to point to the probability and plausibility of such an expectation.

So long as the issue was comparatively unimportant a powerful nation might submit to such restraints as league advice or decision would impose on it, but given a controversy in which the general opinion of the country found an imperative necessity or a stake of transcendent importance, the nation involved would not submit to the molding of its future by the dictates at Geneva. Unless such controversies were within the league's powers, as they plainly could not be, the extravagant prospectus of the league was vain. Just when it undertook to justify its existence it would break down.

Japan is proving the soundness of this opinion which was urged upon the Wilsonian leaguists when they were most determined to sweep the United States into the fold at Geneva. It has been urged also upon the advocates of the Kellogg treaties and of the world court. Reason counsels nations as well as individuals not to commit themselves to blanket agreements affecting the future when they cannot at the time determine what their interests, their desires, or even their passions will impel them to do in circumstances which at the time of pledging themselves they cannot foresee.

Such commitments are peculiarly unfortunate in the United States, because America would have more domestic trouble in righting itself than less sentimental and more realistic nations will have. In the end in a great emergency even America probably would serve its own purposes, but with difficulties wholly unnecessary to precipitate and with infinite trouble.

If Japan steps out of the league of nations to have a free hand in its action on the Asiatic mainland it will do so with the most serene self-justification, and if there should be a minority of protest at home it will be inaudible and ineffective. The United States merely embarrasses itself every time it signs a blanket pledge stating what it will do regardless of unforeseen conditions in the future.

RECOGNIZING RUSSIA.

While the proponents of soviet recognition are getting ready for their next effort in congress, the dictatorship is taking further measures of persecution and extermination against what remains of the educated classes. This is a part of Stalin's recently declared war on the bureaucracy, which the Kremlin authorities declare is full of graft and constitutes an overhead absorbing far too large a proportion of public expenditures. We have no doubt. It is a common condition of bureaucracy, but that is what socialism or communism is and must be, a bureaucratic tyranny. What interests us in Stalin's war is that his agents of purification are beginning with discharging every employé not a proletarian, that is, every one with any education, every one formerly a bourgeois. "The remnants of these dying classes," says that amiable organ of the new dispensation, Pravda, "must be exterminated in order to erect a strong and powerful dictatorship of the proletariate. The enormous expense of the government apparatus must be further reduced and the mass discharge of employés will be in vain unless every member of the former intelligent classes and bourgeoisie are eradicated."

We commend this to our American liberals and parlor pinks who cherish a warm regard for the bolshevik régime as a noble movement for uplifting the masses. They have been contrasting the miseries of unemployment in capitalist America with an alleged absence of unemployment in this planned society of communism. In Moscow there are reported now 100,000 idle. Six thousand, says Pravda, are being discharged weekly in Leningrad. Throughout the towns and cities of Russia, under the new card system, men and women are being turned out to find existence if possible in the country, and the remnants of the educated are the first to be driven out. They are not even permitted to leave Russia. The object is to exterminate. Holy cause of the proletarian revolution! Probably there has never been in civilized history a movement of human destruction of so vast a scale.

The silence of our liberals, of the liberals everywhere, in the presence of this gigantic atrocity is hardly less amazing. They made the world's welkin ring with their indignation over Mooney and Sacco and Vanzetti, but what are they doing now and what have they ever done during the years of bolshevik savagery, persecution and mass slaughter? And soon we shall have them demanding from congress that the American government shall clasp hands with Stalin, welcome his emissaries, and salute the bloody banner of the world's greatest despotism with the guns of our republic.

Editorial of the Day

THE CHOICE OF A MAYOR.

[Bloomington Pantagraph.]

The present uncertainty in Chicago as to the method of choosing a successor for Mayor Cermak might have been prevented if a bill passed by the legislature two years ago had not been amended at the insistent request of Chicago members so that Chicago should be excluded from its provisions.

In the legislature of 1931, Representative E. W. Mureen of Galesburg introduced a bill outlining a method for selecting the successor of any mayor of an Illinois city who might die, resign, or be disqualified for any reason. The mayor of Galesburg had died in the midst of his term, thus leading the legislator from that town to seek a remedy for the defective law then existing. The bill provided that when the unexpired term of a mayor who quits office is more than one year the city council shall select one of their number to have full powers and rights of the mayor until the place can be filled by special election, said election to be held within six months after the office becomes vacant. This method applied to every city in Illinois as provided in the Mureen bill.

But Chicago members of legislature made a fight against the bill as it applied to Chicago. It was accordingly amended to apply to every city in the state except Chicago. Thus the method of filling the present vacancy in the Chicago mayor's office is left indefinite and there is much turmoil in that city in consequence.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

THE FILIPINOS have chosen a beauty queen and named her, of course, "Miss Philippines." Civilized at last!

CHASTENED AND SOBERED by disaster, we all rushed madly around yesterday buying Asbestos Bath Mitts, pref., and Aluminum Ear Warmers, Inc., on margins. Grown wiser because of the financial storms through which we have passed, we hustled money down to our brokers and said: "Shoot the works!" Adversity taught us many harsh lessons we will never forget, the chief one being that panics come only once in every thirty years and now that this one is over we can go the limit for the next twenty-nine. Is this you, Max? Six cases of champagne and chase it around here quick!

GREAT PLEASURE is manifest that we now have a new mayor to introduce notables to us during the World's Fair. All we need now is somebody to introduce the new mayor.

FOR AN IRISH GIRL.

All these for you—my dear—
Each morning's promise and each evening's gain.
The long lost dreams of Spring again.
Forsythia—and the distant boom
Of summer thunder—faint but clear,
The well-worn glory of a fruitful year.
The dear caress of April rain,
And robins in a country lane,
(O tiny squadron of the Spring)
The bush that Beethoven can bring,
With chords from out the heart of this—
Our exile from the fields of bliss.
For you, my dear, whom Heaven blees
With unrequited tenderness—
All these for you.

RICHARD DUFFEY.

THE PRESENT GENERATION, the one that has grown up since the passage of the 18th amendment, is going to be terribly handicapped when beer comes back. Poor dears, they may have been to college, many of them, and know all about calculus and ancient Rome and can read Greek in the original and drive a car, but they don't know how to blow the foam off a stein of beer. That's an art only acquired after long practice. One might think they learned drinking needled beer in the speakeasies but they didn't. People didn't blow the foam off beer when it cost two bits or half a dollar a glass. That foam cost too much money. They drank it, or inhaled it, anyhow they didn't waste it. But, of course, with real beer at 10 cents we'll go back to the custom of other and happier days and lightly blow the foam away. And now that we've suggested the need there'll probably be schools popping up all over the place giving a complete course of instruction in how to acquire the gentle art of blowing the foam off a stein of beer. And for heyving's sake! beginners, remember one thing, do not gedunk your pretzels in your beer. It simply isn't done.

WITH A SPRIG OF SHAMROCK.

There's a little bit of Ireland
In your roguish eyes of blue.
There's a fistful of her sunshine
In the burnished locks of you.

The lakes that dimple all the land
Of that unhappy isle
Are but mirrors sending heaven
Reflections of your smile.

There's a beaker full of blarney
That sparkles on your lip;
Sure it could not be a mortal sin
Such nectar rare to sip.

The torches in your flaming cheeks
Their scarlet banners sway;
Across the moors their signals light
The fairies on their way.

Your voice so velvet lazy
Brings memories back to me
Of the silver bells of Shandon
Across the River Lee.

Dear silver bells of Shandon
You weave into my rhyme
The story of old Ireland's wrongs;
There's a sob in every chime.

By all the meads of Mallow,
Down to the sounding sea,
From every greening, winding path
The shamrock calls to me.

Dear emblem of my mother's land,
The sorrows thou hast seen
Make crimson all of Erin's shores
When they should smile with green.

But I will count one happy day
More sacred and more blest,
Because this Irish shamrock
Lived to die upon your breast.

AND NOW, all of a sudden and most unexpected, the French are talking about paying the interest on the war debts that they declined to pay last fall. They're nervous since F. D. took hold of U. S. affairs and they're expecting almost any day to get one of those letters, you know: "Your account has run much too long and unless we receive a check in full covering your indebtedness we shall be obliged to put the matter in the hands of our attorney."

THE NEW FEDERAL CURRENCY is in circulation and is expected to do much to help relieve the financial situation. We hope it will and yet after seeing some of the new money we have our fears. It isn't that we dread inflation; that isn't it. But the new money is so beautiful, with a large picture of Andy Jackson and lovely scroll work and engraving and everything all over it, that we much fear that people won't spend it, but paste it on a board and cut it up into jigsaw puzzles. THE AUTOCRAT KNEW ABOUT IT.

A NUMBER of friendly correspondents have helped out in the discussion of the mental state which causes a person who sees or hears something to think that he has seen or heard it before, although such is not the case. The article which attracted their interest was one in which Freud's comment was given. That scientist terms the condition "déjà vu." Several wrote me that the name for it, found in medical dictionaries, is paramnesia. Others referred me to an article on the subject by Burnham. Several related interested experiences with it. Some of these connected it with physical experiences and sensations and some related it to something beyond the material.

One friend sent in some further dissertation on it by Freud. Another called my attention to what was written about it by Oliver Wendell Holmes in "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." Perhaps the best way to run this column is to follow the example of our neighbors and lean on our friends. But here is the quotation from Holmes:

"All at once a conviction flashes through us that we have been in the same precise circumstances as at the present instance once or many times before.

"I have noticed the following circumstances connected with these sudden impressions: First, that the condition which seems to be the duplicate of a former one is often very trivial, one that might have presented itself a hundred times. Secondly, that the impression is very evanescent and that it is rarely, if ever, recalled by any voluntary effort, at least after any time has elapsed. Thirdly, that there is a disinclination to record the circumstances and a sense of incapacity to reproduce the state of mind in words. Fourthly, I have often felt the duplicate condition had not only occurred once before but that it was familiar and, as it seemed, habitual. Lastly, I have had the same convictions in my dreams.

"How do I account for it? Why, there are several ways I can mention, and you may take your choice. The first is that which the lady hinted at: that these flashes are sudden recollections of a previous existence. I don't believe that, for I remember a poor student I used to know told me he had such a conviction one day when he was blacking his boots and I can't think he had ever lived in another world where they use Day and Martin.

"Some think that Dr. Wigan's doctrine of the brain being a double organ, its hemispheres working together like two eyes, accounts for it. One of the hemispheres hangs fire, they suppose, and the small interval between the perceptions of the nimble and the sluggish half seems an indefinitely long period, and therefore the second perception appears to be the copy of another, ever so old. But even allowing the center of perception to be double, I can see no good reason for supposing this indefinite lengthening of the time nor any analogy that bears it out. It seems to me most likely that the coincidence of circumstances is very partial, but that we take this partial resemblance for identity as we occasionally do resemblances of persons. A momentary posture of circumstances is so far like some preceding one that we accept it as exactly the same, just as we accost a stranger occasionally, mistaking him for a friend. The apparent similarity may be owing perhaps quite as much to the mental state at the time as to outward circumstances."

OF NO ADVANTAGE.

F. A. H. writes: Of what advantage is the use of salt in bathing water?

REPLY.

It is of no advantage. There are some advantages in sea bathing, but they are incidental, being due to waves and sprays.

NOT THE CAUSE.

B. A. H. writes: Seven years ago I had my appendix removed. A few days after the operation I was taken sick with typhoid fever. I have never felt quite right since. I am going to be married soon and I want to find out if these old diseases I have had will keep me from having children.

REPLY.

The appendix operation did not cause the typhoid fever. The typhoid germ was in you before you became sick with typhoid. Neither is the cause of your not having felt quite right since. Neither appendicitis operation, typhoid fever, nor "not feeling quite right" will keep you from having children.

UNEVEN RAILS.

Chicago, March 13.—[Friend of the People.]—I have complained about the terrible noises the street cars make on our street. They sent a crew of three men to weld the rail, but the condition is as bad as ever. The rails in some places are broken off about 6 inches long. In other places one piece of the rail is about a half inch higher than the adjoining piece. When a street car going about twenty miles an hour passes over these rails it sounds like a boiler factory. These noises are very annoying in the morning when the people are trying to get some sleep. O. T. H.

The Surface Lines have corrected the conditions complained of and in the future cars moving over this point will not cause any further annoyance.

DIVIDING ESTATE.

Chicago, March 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Of three children A and B live in Illinois. C lives in Wisconsin. All three are of age. Their father had a vault in a bank in Wisconsin rented for himself and A and B. 1. Can A and B take out papers from the vault without the consent of C, who is not mentioned in the rental of the box? 2. Can C sue for possession of certain papers that were in the box? 3. The will is made to all three, who are to share equally in the estate, but the box in the vault is not mentioned. S. J.

1. The mere fact that they have access to the vault would not give them a right to give away contents which belonged to another person.

2. Of course he can sue. His chances of success would depend on the proof.

ASSIGNMENT OF RENT.

Chicago, March 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can the holder of a second mortgage put a lien on the rent? Security trustee holders of our second mortgage have put a lien on the rent of our flat. We are four payments in default on this mortgage. A private party holds the first mortgage, on which we are two payments in default. H. J. G.

It seems probable that the mortgage includes an assignment of rent. We suggest that you examine the wording.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 17, 1917.

NEW YORK.—The conference between the railway executives and President Wilson's representatives ended at 3:35 a. m. today. Secretary Lane said no decision had been reached and that there was no announcement to make. The earlier hours of the night were spent by the mediators in conference with the brotherhood leaders. The conference will be resumed at 9:30 a. m. today with the brotherhoods and at 11 a. m. with the employers.

PETROGRAD.—Emperor Nicholas abdicated at midnight March 15 on behalf of himself and the heir apparent, Grand Duke Alexis, in favor of Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch. At 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Grand Duke Michael himself abdicated, thus bringing the Romanoff dynasty to an end. The government, pending a meeting of the constitutional assembly, is vested in the executive committee of the duma and the newly chosen council of ministers. A manifesto to this effect was issued by the duma committee and was telegraphed to the general army headquarters. Full freedom of speech and religion and univ. [illegible] suffrage are pledged. Unless improbable events occur Russia has today become a republic. The outcome depends on how the manifesto of the new government has been received by the 5,000,000 soldiers at the front.

WAR SUMMARY.—London reports the British troops in the Somme region have occupied almost all of the St. Pierre Vaast wood and 3,000 yards of German trenches north and south of the wood. A portion of the town of Bakubah, on the right bank of the Diala river, thirty miles northeast of Bagdad, has been occupied by the British. Russian troops have dislodged the Turkish forces from their fortified positions on the summit of Narieshkian, to the west of Kermansha, in northwestern Persia. It is learned from a diplomatic source that important councils have been held at Constantinople as the result of Turkish defeats in Mesopotamia. It has been decided at all costs to organize a great defense of Asia Minor. The Turkish intention is, if the Germans will permit, to recall their troops now on the Riga, Galicia, Macedonia, and Rumanian fronts and employ them for the defense of the Ottoman territories. A British torpedo boat destroyer, a French merchantman, and a Norwegian ship were sunk by submarines yesterday.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—John M. Studebaker Sr., the last of the five brothers who formed the great Studebaker corporation, died last night. The manufacturer, who was 84 years old, had been ill for three weeks. It was in the '80s that Mr. Studebaker became a partner in the firm of Studebaker Bros., which then became C. & J. M. Studebaker, the other partner being Clem. They later admitted two other brothers, P. E. and Jacob F., building up the largest vehicle works in the world.

PARIS.—The French cabinet will be reconstructed. Premier Briand, it is understood, in addition to replacing Gen. Lyautey, the former minister of war, will have the departments which had been combined under one minister restored to their former status.

CHICAGO.—Arba Waterman, eccentric octogenarian capitalist, one time judge of the Circuit court and in later years said to be the catspaw of one Carleton Hudson-Betts, alleged wizard of underground finance, is dead.

FROM MAYOR MURPHY OF DETROIT.

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—My attention has been called to your editorial of Sunday, March 5, "The Focus of Infection." It seems to me that it would be consistent with the dignity of a great newspaper, whose first function is dissemination and unbiased interpretation of the news, to obtain the facts.

May I call your attention to the fact that the Detroit city government, during the past two and a half years since I took office, has not had one word uttered in criticism of its integrity? My administration has been and is today incorrupt and honest, with the spoils system entirely eliminated. It is being operated with such efficiency and economy that by comparison the governments of other large cities, notably New York and Chicago, are glaring examples of waste.

For instance, Detroit has cut its semi-essentials, including parks, recreation, etc., to a budget total of approximately $700,000. And its fundamentals are down to absolutely rock bottom of necessity. Ten thousand five hundred city employés have been laid off since the day I took office, and more than $28,000,000 cut out of the budget.

Senator James Couzens of Michigan stated in the senate the other day that Detroit's economies greatly exceed those of any other major American city. And the indisputable facts bear him out.

As to some questions of fact, or, better expressed, statements made in your editorial as facts, the following comments are pertinent:

First: The Chicago banks weathered the storm last June because of very generous loans from the R. F. C. As I understand it, the Dawes bank alone received between eighty and ninety million dollars from the R. F. C. Contrast this with the twelve million dollars, which is all the First National Bank of Detroit has received from the R. F. C. The storm aroused by the very heavy loans to the Chicago banks is really what stopped the Detroit banks from getting R. F. C. aid. The total requests of the Detroit banks which would have enabled them to weather the storm were less than what was allowed to one Chicago institution. In other words, the Chicago bankers put all four feet in the trough, with the result that other banks in the country were hindered in their operations.

Second: The thought that the 11 million dollars of city loans had tied up the reserves of local banks is too ridiculous for comment. This is less than 2 per cent of the total assets of the local banks. Further, the interest on these loans had been paid promptly up until the time of this last banking crisis. I wonder if all the commercial paper or mortgages the banks carry is in as good shape as this. Even if the eight million loan by the industrialists is considered, this is less than 3 per cent of the total assets of the Detroit banks. To get a picture you must contrast the total of 19 million dollars of local borrowings from banks and industrialists with better than 160 million dollars in commercial paper in one bank alone. Even supposing the Detroit paper were totally frozen, which it is not, it is obvious that any bank or banks which have this small percentage of frozen paper are not in a precarious condition by any manner or means. In other words, this ridiculously small percentage is the heavy percentage of THE TRIBUNE correspondent. How about a course in arithmetic for the newspaper men?

Third: The record of Detroit's economy program in the last three years is unparalleled by any large city. Can Chicago show the cut in expenditures that has been made locally? I think not. I think the figures ought to be presented to THE TRIBUNE. Further, the statement that taxes have been increased, of course, is futile. I believe the budget will speak for itself and should be allowed to speak for itself.

Fourth: In regard to the last paragraph in the editorial about extravagant government and extortionate taxes, I can only repeat what is stated before, that the record of Detroit, in so far as economy is concerned, is unparalleled in the major American cities. Further, the fact that we have been on a cash basis to date and discounting bills, whereas Chicago has been issuing scrip, is the best answer to the statement made in the editorial.

Fifth: You say the city has exhausted its credit in the vain effort to support the idle. It might be pertinent to ask whether Chicago would let one-seventh of its population starve. Further, it is interesting to note that we are using our welfare labor on the streets, whereas in Chicago, during the last snowstorm, Michigan boulevard was blocked because the unions would not let the welfare men work to help clear the streets, with the result that automobiles were marooned in snowdrifts. This is an interesting commentary on the operation of an American city.

Sixth: Of all cities in the country to point the finger at another, Chicago should be the last. Let it clean up its own yard first, that Augean stable that has offended the nostrils of the whole world, the breeding spot of gangsters, the place where Al Capone flourished for years until the federal government stepped in, and more ad nauseam. Would it not be better that a great newspaper such as THE TRIBUNE do some crusading on its own account, clean up the mess with which it is immediately confronted, rather than criticize a city which has, with a nobility of spirit unsurpassed anywhere, put its resources at the disposal of a stricken people?

FRANK MURPHY,
Mayor.

CONGRESSIONAL WORDS AND DEEDS.

Chicago, March 13.—Your paper indicates that Congressman Kelly of our district voted against the administration Saturday on the retrenchment program. Last October I wrote Kelly, demanding from him a statement as to how he would vote on that subject, stating that I would vote and work against him if a satisfactory statement was not forthcoming from him at once. Under date of Oct. 25 I got a four-page letter from him going into superlatives about the retrenchment we might expect him to stand for. W. H. BRADFORD.

HOLD UP BINGHAM APPOINTMENT AS ENVOY TO BRITAIN

Senators Ask Publisher's Explanation of Speech.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Robert Worth Bingham of Louisville, Ky., publisher, whose appointment as ambassador to England was held up today by the senate committee on foreign relations, is expected to arrive in the capital tomorrow.

Whether Mr. Bingham will appear before the committee to defend himself against assertions that he was an "apologetic American" and an Anglophile was not made known, but inquiry among members of the committee gave indication that the appointment will be confirmed. The committee will consider the matter on Monday.

The committee approved and the senate without debate confirmed the nominations of Jesse Isidor Straus, New York merchant, to be ambassador to France and Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, to be ambassador to Mexico.

After some discussion of the Bingham appointment the committee delegated Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] to seek out the two senators from Kentucky to receive their views on Mr. Bingham. The committee also extended an informal invitation to Mr. Bingham to appear before them if he so chose.

Not Opposed by Logan.

One of the Kentucky senators, M. M. Logan, said tonight that he would not oppose Mr. Bingham's confirmation, although he said he did not "consider Mr. Bingham a good Democrat."

"Mr. Bingham is a gentleman of the highest order," Senator Logan said. "He is under attack for having made two speeches in England which have been described as un-American. I think one of the speeches was indiscreet, but I don't find anything very serious in either of them. I don't see any reason for condemning any one for making a fool speech. I've made some myself."

Senator Alben W. Barkley, the other Kentucky senator, was out of the city tonight, but his colleague said Senator Barkley would support Mr. Bingham's confirmation. In this light it was freely predicted the committee would uphold the President's nomination of Mr. Bingham.

Presents Copy of Speeches.

At the session of the foreign relations committee Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.] presented a photostatic copy of a purported report of the Bingham speeches.

"I am sure Mr. Bingham is a gentleman, and I have known him to be very charming," Mr. Robinson said. "But at this particular time, when pressure is being brought for the cancellation of the British debt to this country, we've got to have an ambassador to England with the American point of view and not one warped by any adulation of Great Britain."

Senator Hiram Johnson [Rad., Cal.] was described as saying that if the report of the speeches was correct he doubted whether a man with such sentiments should be appointed to serve as American ambassador.

Misquote Speech, He Says.

In this connection various senators on the committee have been informed on Mr. Bingham's behalf that the report was not correct, and that the portion quoting Mr. Bingham as apologizing for his country for the failure of the Geneva naval limitations conference was grossly in error.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] while not commenting on Mr. Bingham directly asserted that any American going to England as ambassador is beset, the moment he sets foot on British soil, by people on every hand with glib arguments for canceling the British debt.

The senate late today confirmed the nomination of Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, sixth cousin of the President, as assistant secretary of the navy. Appointed by President Roosevelt yesterday, the senate's approval makes Mr. Roosevelt the fifth of the Roosevelt clan to hold the post as assistant navy head.

The senate also confirmed the appointment of Percival S. Rossiter as surgeon general of the navy and the nomination of Emory S. Land to succeed himself as chief of the navy bureau of construction and repair. Both positions carry the rank of rear admiral.

Other confirmations were of Paul Knabenshue of Ohio as consul general to Iraq, Norman Armour of New Jersey to be minister to Haiti, and John H. Holliday of Missouri as vice governor general of the Philippines.

PROBATION GIVEN FATHER OF 12 FOR FRAUD ON RELIEF

Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday placed George Pappas, 954 Harrison street, on probation for one year after finding him guilty of taking money under false pretenses. Pappas was arrested on the complaint of emergency relief officials, who found that he had been drawing relief funds while he held a job with the Chicago Surface lines under another name.

Pappas admitted the charge, but asserted that he needed the $9 a week which he got from the relief authorities to supplement his pay of $35 a week in supporting his twelve children.

Judge Padden told Pappas that he was refraining from sending him to jail only because such action would deprive his family of support.

JAPANESE CROSS WALL; ATTACK CHINESE BY AIR

TOKIO, March 17 [Friday].—(AP)—Dispatches to the newspaper Asahi today from Chinchow said that Japanese airplanes, which left Chinchow yesterday had bombed Chinese positions south of Hsifengkow, a pass in the Great Wall of China. Heavy punishment was inflicted, the reports said.

One of the bombers on this expedition, carrying five men, failed to return, the newspaper Nichi Nichi reported.

Thrust at Peiping Feared.

PEIPING, March 16.—(AP)—Fear that Japan may yet invade Chinese territory south of the Great Wall was increased today. A news dispatch from Hsifengkow, where the armies are still fighting for the pass through the wall, asserted that "the Japanese appear to have made up their minds reluctantly to resort to the second stage of military operations."

The decision to which this dispatch referred apparently resulted from continued active resistance by the Chinese at Hsifengkow. Responsible Chinese here believe it is only a question of time before the Peiping-Tientsin area will be involved.

They place little faith in the possibility that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, leading Chinese ruler, who has taken over the military command from Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, resigned, will reach a local agreement with the Japanese. It is believed that any Chinese official advocating compromise would be quickly overthrown, no matter how strong he might be.

Chang in Tight Place.

In any event, Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, directing the offensive in charge of 30,000 men, has placed his chief in an awkward position by openly demanding that troops of the central government be sent through Lingkow pass, west of Hsifengkow, to harry the Japanese rear.

Chinese dispatches which reached here today said that a battle began last Thursday when the troops of Wan Fu-lin, former governor of Heilungkiang province, retreated from Kuanchang, twenty miles north of the Great Wall, with Japanese in pursuit.

Sung's army, which has been held in reserve south of Hsifengkow, at once began a forced march to the pass. Upon reaching there, a picked battalion of swordsmen, stripped to the waist despite the intense cold, made a night attack along the top of the wall where the Japanese were bivouacked. The Japanese were driven off to hills just outside the pass.

Chinese claim their forces still hold Hsifengkow pass, but a further assault is anticipated when Japanese reinforcements arrive from Pingchuan and other points.

J. P. Power Is Appointed Asst. Public Defender

Attorney Joseph P. Power was appointed assistant public defender yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court. The appointment was made necessary by the resignation of Wilbert Crowley to become an assistant state's attorney. Attorney Power, who has practiced law since 1912, was appointed on the recommendation of Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach and the judicial advisory council of Cook county.

British Break with Russia Nears on Sabotage Arrests

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—Likelihood of a severance of relations between Great Britain and soviet Russia was discussed today in political and business circles as a result of the arrest of six British subjects representing a British concern in that country.

No progress toward a settlement of the affair was made at a conference in the foreign office to which I. M. Maisky, the Russian ambassador, was summoned. The soviet envoy was requested to impress his government with the serious view of the situation taken here.

Should the case remain unsettled on April 16 when the present trade agreement with Russia terminates there would be a possibility of an embargo on Russian goods, it was said.

Fear Big Sabotage Trial.

The British government is convinced there is no ground for accusations of sabotage against those who were arrested. Persons in close touch with Russian affairs are afraid the soviet government may be planning a spectacular trial of the Englishmen, similar to that in which several German engineers were involved several years ago.

It was said that such a move, without provision for full defense facilities, might result in a complete break in diplomatic relations.

Protest Sabotage Charges.

MOSCOW, March 16.—(AP)—Formal representations by Great Britain in connection with the recent arrest of several British representatives of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical company were delivered to the soviet foreign minister today by the ambassador from London.

It was understood the ambassador had expressed in vigorous terms his government's conviction that there is no justification for the charges of sabotage on which the arrests were made.

He did not specifically demand the release of the prisoners, it was said, but he indicated such action would be the course most satisfactory to London.

Maxim Litvinov, the foreign commissar, said, according to an unofficial account, that the soviet government reserved the right of every sovereign state to deal according to its own laws with persons living within its territory.

CUBA TO REQUEST MORATORIUM ON DEBTS DUE IN U. S.

Will Promise to Cut Down on Expenses in Return.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, March 16.—Cuba wants to share in President Roosevelt's promised "new deal." As soon as a new United States ambassador arrives to replace Harry F. Guggenheim, he will be asked to use his influence to open negotiations with American bankers for a two year moratorium on payments of principal on loans aggregating $200,000,000.

In return Cuba, it is understood, would keep up interest payments, effect governmental economies, and maintain its budget at not more than $38,000,000 for five years. President Machado has called a special session of congress for April 1 and will ask additional power similar to that given the American President to end the economy crisis.

Cuba also intends to petition President Roosevelt for revision of the reciprocity treaty to gain tariff concessions.

The foreign debt includes Chase, Morgan, and Speyer loans. A relief from amortization payments on these loans and on internal loans as well is urged upon President Machado by business men as a solution for the island's economic ills.

To effect the economies the government would trim costs of national, provincial and municipal administrations, lop 25 per cent off the cost of the judiciary and legislative branches and consolidate departments. The plan would include salary cuts running up to 25 per cent, and dismissal of 7,000 out of 18,000 employés.

Reductions would be effected in all branches except the army, which would be maintained during the political unrest. The national economy plan and moratorium, if authorized, would begin July, according to present plans.

CRIMINAL COURT DIVORCE DECREE ATTACKED IN SUIT

The power of a judge of the Criminal court to grant a divorce was attacked yesterday in an action brought before Judge James J. Kelly in the Superior court by Mrs. Barbara Patchen, 553 Provident avenue, Winnetka.

Gordon F. Patchen, an employé of the Standard Oil company, filed suit for divorce against her in 1930 and the case was placed on the call of Judge Rudolph F. Desort. The case was not heard until last July, when Judge Desort, then sitting in the Criminal court, granted Patchen a divorce.

Mrs. Patchen is now suing to have that decree invalidated, and wants a divorce of her own, with alimony and attorney's fees. Judge Francis B Allegretti refused recently to hear her case. Yesterday Judge Kelly gave Attorney Lloyd Faxon, representing Patchen, ten days to file an answer to the bill.

Attorney Faxon told the court that he knows of 19 other cases in which divorces were granted by judges sitting in the Criminal court. Some of the parties to these divorces have since remarried and have children, and a ruling in favor of Mrs. Patchen, he said, would invalidate the second marriages.

Trotzky Learns of Killing of Exiled Friend by Soviet

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 16.—(AP)—Information from several sources has been received by Leon Trotzky, living in exile on Prinkipo island, that his close friend, Christian Rakovsky, former Soviet ambassador to Paris and former president of the Ukraine republic, has been returned to Moscow from exile and put to death.

IDENTIFY CAPTIVE AS KID WEIL'S OLD PAL BUCKMINSTER

Patrick A. Harris, arrested on Wednesday by Waukegan police on complaint of an intended confidence game victim, was identified yesterday through finger prints as Fred Buckminster, veteran swindler and partner of Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil. Lake county officials said that no criminal charge would be placed against Buckminster and announced that he would be turned over to State's Attorney Courtney for questioning about a confidence game charge in Chicago.

Buckminster and a second man named Wilson, who, police believe, was the Yellow Kid, appeared several days ago at the Waukegan office of Dr. L. E. Bovik and arranged for him to operate on a jockey who had been injured in a fall. Buckminster told Dr. Bovik that "Wilson" was financing the operation because the jockey had won thousands of dollars for him on the tracks. "Wilson" displayed several $100 bills.

Buckminster told Dr. Bovik, police said, that he and "Wilson" had a tip on a race that would net thousands of dollars and offered to share the information with the physician. Dr. Bovik asked time to raise money and notified police. Buckminster was arrested on his return.

Bain Wins Right to Appeal Prison Sentence

John Bain, convicted former banker, was granted a writ of supersedeas yesterday by the Appellate court, permitting him to appeal the prison sentence imposed upon him by Judge John M. O'Connor for conspiracy in connection with the crash of his bank chain. Similar writs were granted John A. and Robert Bain, sons, and W. Merle Fisher, son-in-law of Bain. Bain posted a supersedeas bond of $15,000, and later his sons also posted bonds and were released.

Cigarettes, like Foods need Seasoning

That's the part Turkish Tobaccos play in making Chesterfields Taste Better

SMOKERS notice a certain "touch" in Chesterfields that comes from having just enough Turkish tobacco in them . . . a spicy, aromatic flavor that's much the same to a cigarette as seasoning is to food.

For only by blending and cross-blending the right amounts of mild Domestic tobaccos with the right amount of Turkish can we get the flavor and aroma that Chesterfield smokers enjoy.

Next time, ask for "The Cigarette that Satisfies"... you'll get Chesterfields, with Milder, Better Taste.

Judges' Election Involved in Legislation.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The question of coalition on a bench ticket for the June 5 judicial elections became somewhat enmeshed yesterday with the matter of emergency legislation at Springfield on the Chicago mayoralty. A delegation of Republicans—George Barrett, Dr. William H. Reid, and Edward F. Moore—held a brief conference during the afternoon with Patrick Nash, Democratic party leader, at the Morrison hotel.

Mr. Nash reported that he told his visitors that the Democratic organization had been so centered upon the situation as to mayor that it had not yet given consideration to the matter of coalition or semi-coalition. He said it would be taken up sometime next week, after the Democratic organization had formulated its final program concerning the mayor's chair.

Twelve Indorsed by Bar Body.

Of the twenty circuit judges whose terms are expiring, twelve were indorsed in the primaries of the Chicago Bar association in February. Six were refused indorsement, and two are not candidates for reelection. Of the twelve indorsed, seven are Democrats and five are Republicans. The casual talk among the Democrats for weeks has been against coalition and a full fusion ticket, but some of the leaders have privately maintained that several of the Republican judges should be indorsed on the Democratic slate in view of their high standing and records.

Supporters of the latter view argue it would strengthen the prestige of the Democratic party. They hold it would tend to take a lot of politics out of the judicial election—one reason for separate judicial elections—and that this in turn might remove much of the objections raised by Republicans to the holding of a special election for mayor on June 5 at the time of the bench election.

South Park politics, however, seems creeping in. Some Democrats are reported as advancing the idea that if coalition is agreed upon, the Republicans be required to nominate Judges Michael Feinberg and Stanley H. Klarkowski, two protégés of Robert E. Crowe. These two Republican judges were refused indorsement in the bar primaries. The Republican county committee seems to regard them coldly. When the Bain vacancy on the South Park board was filled a few months ago, Judges Feinberg and Klarkowski voted with the Democratic judges for William M. McDonnell, Democrat, which elected him by a vote of 11 to 9.

Laugh at Full Fusion Plan.

One proposal discussed tentatively among the politicians has been for an agreement whereby the sitting judges who have been indorsed by the Bar association would be placed on both tickets. So far the Democrats have laughed at the idea of full fusion on all the bench places to be filled.

The matter of formulating a legislative program on mayor is to be taken up this week-end. Gov. Horner is expected in Chicago Sunday for conferences. As it now stands, Democratic sentiment seems to be as it was a week ago when the proposals for emergency legislation embraced the idea of empowering the city council to select an acting mayor from inside or outside its own ranks, and to clothe him with full power—with an idea in the background that if the council picked an outsider who proved a good man the council might refrain from calling a special election and let him fill out the full unexpired term, which runs to April, 1935.

Seek Power for Corr.

The Adamowski bill, which was introduced in Springfield and ran into a snag and held for further action until next Tuesday, would allow the council to select an outsider as acting mayor and to call a special election. The election by the council of Acting Mayor Frank Corr as de facto mayor came after the introduction of this bill. Acting Mayor Corr has announced that he will step aside whenever the organization deems it expedient for him to do so. A measure is to be sought meanwhile to clothe him with full powers.

The Republicans have taken an attitude against abolishing primaries in a special election for mayor, and they are against involving the mayoralty election with the judicial election June 5. Sentiment among the Democrats, too, appears to have been growing in favor of holding a primary, but some of the party chiefs point out that it would cost more than $350,000 and economy is the watchword. This is one item to be discussed at the week-end conferences. If a two-thirds vote is not forthcoming in Springfield the Democrats say they can put their program through as ordinary legislation, effective July 1, and hold an election in July.

One of the organization chiefs, Joseph L. Gill, Municipal court clerk, one of the big patronage offices, announced yesterday that he was leaving today for Hot Springs for ten days' recuperation.

2 CONGRESSMEN FROM MISSOURI STAGE FIST FIGHT

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—The Washington Star said today it had verified reports that Representatives Clarence Cannon and Milton A. Romjue, both Democrats from Missouri, engaged in a fist fight last night in the house office building.

When questioned today Cannon, who was said to have been the victor, denied any physical clash with Romjue. At Romjue's residence here it was said that the Missourian was confined at home because of an attack of influenza.

Representative Ernest Lundeen, husky Farmer-Laborite from Minnesota, conceded today that he had separated two men fighting in a corridor of the house office building last night by shoving one into an elevator and having the operator take him up. He said that the winner of the fight was a "former house clerk."

Cannon is a former parliamentarian of the house.

All members of the Missouri delegation were "sworn to secrecy" they said when questioned. Representative Cochran [Dem., Mo.], when reached by telephone, said:

"If you are going to ask me about a fist fight between two Missouri members I don't know anything about it."

G. B. SHAW POOHS ROOSEVELT AND HIS 'NEW DEAL'

Says Idea of Democracy Is Futile.

HONOLULU, March 16.—(AP)—Arriving today from the far east on his journey around the world, George Bernard Shaw, Irish playwright, poohpoohed the league of nations, Roosevelt's new deal and decried democratic institutions generally.

Sitting in the lounge of the steamship Empress of Britain, he said Hawaiian surfboards held no attraction for him; he learned to ride them in South Africa.

He was not apprehensive of another war, but indicated he thought the possibility centered about Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

"The world is a little too close to the last world war to go into another," Shaw said. "The nations have to forget first. But war always is impending.

"There has been a breakup of the old order in Germany and the question there is whether Hitler is going to be a Kerensky or a Mussolini. Nobody else can answer that and neither can I."

He laughed off "the new deal" in America, saying:

"Everybody thinks Mr. Roosevelt is going to do something. He is not going to do anything. He cannot do anything. Your fine democratic institutions prevent it. What did Mr. Hoover do? Nothing. Yet he was a good man, with sound ideas.

"The idea of democracy is futile. Safeguards for liberty are nonsense. The function of governments is to do away with liberty up to a certain point."

Manufacturer Points to Peril to Business.

The jeweled watch making industry of America, 62 per cent of which is centered in Illinois, is in dire straits because of the widespread bootlegging of watch movements which have been smuggled into America from Switzerland. It was revealed yesterday by Taylor Strawn, vice president of the Elgin National Watch company.

Smuggling of these movements has grown to such vast proportions that fully as many foreign made watch movements were imported illegally last year as were manufactured by American manufacturers, Mr. Strawn said. These smuggled movements can be sold at much cheaper prices than the American manufacturer can meet.

Cost of Labor 90 Per Cent.

"Ninety per cent of the cost of a watch is in the labor," said Mr. Strawn. "Watch movements can be made with cheap labor in Switzerland and imported illegally, avoiding the heavy duty. The flooding of the country with these movements is bringing the jeweled watch industry close to ruin.

The government agents cannot be blamed for failure to curb the smuggling, Mr. Strawn said, because not enough inspectors are assigned to watch for the smugglers, who use all sorts of ingenious methods.

"Last November, a shipment of 30,000 watch movements was discovered in a batch of Belgian rabbit skins," he continued. "They are concealed in boxes of stationery, in crockery, pottery, and Swiss chocolates. Some smugglers wear a special vest in which 1,000 movements can be concealed.

Small, Easy to Conceal.

"The movements are so small and compact that 10,000 of them can be packed in a box the size of a case of whisky and the value of such a consignment would be $100,000.

"Government men tell me that for every watch movement they seize, ten get by. The profits are so big that the smuggling continues even though jail sentences and heavy fines are imposed upon those caught."

The defect in the present law is that the seized watch movements are not destroyed, but are auctioned off by the federal District courts and are usually bought up by the smuggling syndicate which can still afford to wholesale the goods at less than the manufacturers' price in America, Mr. Strawn declared.

Hurts Illinois Industry.

"The legitimate importer is also injured by the smuggling," he pointed out. "Companies like Gruen, Bulova and Longines are as much interested as the American manufacturer. Illinois is especially affected because it has two of the four jeweled watch factories in the nation and 62 per cent of all the jeweled watches made are manufactured in this state."

Duty amounting to at least $2,000,000 yearly is avoided by the smugglers who import about 400,000 watch movements a year, Mr. Strawn estimated.

"The retail jeweler who buys these foreign watch movements at reduced prices often does not realize the risk he is taking," he pointed out. "If detected, he is presumed guilty and must prove his innocence to escape imprisonment and a large fine."

Crazed Man Shoots Friend to Death and Kills Self

Mondi Scilacci, 54 years old, shot and killed Felice De Stefano, 40 years old, 255 West 23d street, and then committed suicide yesterday in the house in which he roomed at 267 West 22d place. De Stefano, a former roomer and a friend of Scilacci, was reading the Bible to the blind landlord, Felice Pecora, 78 years old, and his wife, Sanka. Scilacci appeared suddenly from his room carrying a revolver. He shot De Stefano three times and then turned the revolver on himself. The police said that Scilacci had been mentally unbalanced for some time.

Basing his conclusions on figures gathered throughout New York state and Europe, Dr. Willcox said the lowest number of births occur at 2 p. m. and are most numerous between 3 and 5 a. m., while the smallest number of deaths occur shortly before midnight.

NAB 4 ACCUSED OF HOLDING GIRL CAPTIVE 10 DAYS

Four men were arrested in an apartment at 1106 Webster avenue last night after a 17 year old girl had told Lieut. Thomas O'Hara of the Cragin police that they held her captive for 10 days, forced her to entertain men and took her with them on holdups of Yellow cab drivers.

The prisoners are Sam Romando, 19 years old; John Scionti, 23; Fran Bucaro, 25, and his cousin, Rosario Bucaro, in whose flat all four were seized.

In the flat police found a photograph of Giuseppe Zangara, slayer of Mayor Cermak. Rosario Bucaro will be turned over to the federal authorities for investigation as to whether he is a friend of the assassin.

The girl's mother took her to the Cragin station, complaining that she had been missing for 10 days and refused to disclose where she had been. Under questioning by Lieut. O'Hara the girl told her story.

U. S. SEPARATING CAPONE GANG; SEVERAL GO EAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Transferring Jack Guzik, Chicago gangster, from Leavenworth to the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., the United States today is separating those Capone gangsters held in its prisons. Guzik, who was one of 25 prisoners to be sent from Leavenworth to Lewisburg, is the last but one of the Capone men to be removed from Leavenworth. A minor member of the gang still is there, while Al Capone himself is in the Atlanta prison. Ralph Capone, who also was transferred away from Leavenworth, is at McNeill island, Washington.

Guzik's group is the last to be shipped to Lewisburg, a new penitentiary, and all of the group are prisoners from Indiana, Vermont, Illinois and Ohio. The transfer will help to relieve the crowding at Leavenworth, the department of justice says.

U. S. COUNTESS WINS A DIVORCE IN FRENCH COURT

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 17.—After a troublesome matrimonial venture, Countess Manetti Magnani, the former May Hager of New York, has been granted a divorce by the Grasse courts, her friends in Paris learned tonight. She was married in Hoboken in 1927. She petitioned the Paris courts for a divorce in 1928, but dropped the action after a reconciliation, effected in the Seine tribunal's chambers. She alleged that her husband had treated her cruelly and extorted nearly 4,000,000 francs and jewelry from her during their married life. She filed suit against a Cannes firm of jewelers which, she alleged, bought her jewelry from her husband.

Quick! Stop That COLD!

Don't Let It Run Beyond the First Stage!

A cold ordinarily goes through three stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. To let a cold run beyond the first stage is inviting danger.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine taken at the first sign of a cold will usually stop it in one day. This famous tablet is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, kills the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and tones the entire system. Anything less than that is toying with a cold. Get Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE today and accept nothing else. Now two sizes—30c and 50c—at all druggists.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul; skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts—amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Harrison Sr., and the following children: Charles, assistant superintendent of the juvenile home; Harold, doorkeeper of the Illinois house of representatives; Walter, Joseph, and Edward Reading, Mrs. Grace Ackermann, Mrs. George McCarthy, Mrs. Marion De Rome, Lillian Reading, and 27 grandchildren.

SEEK SUBURBS' VOTE ON CIVIL SERVICE PLAN

Petitions were being circulated in a number of western suburbs yesterday to place on the ballot at municipal elections in April proposals that police and firemen in the suburbs be placed under civil service.

The referendums are sought under an amendment to the civil service laws, passed by the legislature and signed yesterday by Gov. Horner. The amendment provides that cities and villages of 7,000 to 200,000 residents may place their police and firemen under civil service, controlled by a police and fire commission.

The amendment was sponsored by the Illinois Police association, of which Police Chief Fred Licht of Forest Park is president, and was designed, he said, to remove politics from the suburban police and fire departments.

Senator Davis Likely to Stay in Hospital a Month

Davis [Rep., Pa.] is able to leave the hospital, Dr. J. W. Shirer, attending physician, announced tonight. Senator Davis was stricken with acute appenticitis while traveling by air from Washington to Pittsburgh on March 11. He was operated upon immediately after arriving in Pittsburgh.

MERRIAM URGES CONSOLIDATIONS OF TAX GROUPS

America's antiquated system of government, with its 200,000 taxing bodies consisting of townships, school districts, counties, cities, and states, was discussed last night by Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago at the 26th annual dinner of the Traffic club at the Palmer house.

The speaker told of possible experiment with city-states such as New York and Chicago. He sees for the future grouping of sections of the nation into economic sections which will transcend county and state lines.

Prof. Merriam asserted that benefits resulting from consolidation would be more efficient, stronger governments with better control of public expenditures. For the central power of the Chicago metropolitan area he proposed a rule of three, consisting of the mayor of Chicago, the president of the county board, and a third, technical, person to be selected by the two first named. The 3,000 counties in the rural districts of the country could be reduced to 1,000, or even 500, he said.

About 1,000 persons attended the dinner which was called a "tribute to the industrial executives of Chicago." Some thirty leaders were present, including George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; E. L. Ryerson Jr., Peter B. Carey, Stuyvesant Peabody, Clayton Mark, Henry M. Dawes, Thomas E. Donnelly, B. F. Affleck, Alexander Legge, and G. G. Thorp.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PUPIL OF IRVING IS DEAD IN EAST

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Martha Jane Odell Morgan, whose Sunday school teacher was Washington Irving, will be buried on Sunday in Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Tarrytown, not far from the grave of the man whom the youthful Martha Jane Odell and her neighbors didn't consider "very famous."

Mrs. Morgan died at her home in Tarrytown during the night. The funeral services will be held on Sunday in Christ Episcopal church, where Mrs. Morgan was a lifelong worshipper and where Irving taught Sunday school classes and served also as a church trustee.

Mrs. Morgan, who was blind for the last 30 years of her life, observed her 102d birthday anniversary on Feb. 23. On that occasion she received many of her old friends in her home at 31 South Broadway, Tarrytown, and jokingly referred to herself as "almost a twin of George Washington," in observance of whose birthday anniversary flags still fluttered and flapped in the streets.

CLOGGED BOWELS EXACT THEIR PRICE

Don't imagine that you can shock your system every few days with laxatives and fail to pay the price. Laxatives and purges rob the delicate membrane lining of your bowels of moisture and elasticity, so that you have to continue drugging more and more to spur your reluctant bowels to action. Almost before you realize your peril, you're a laxative slave. Digestive troubles develop, headaches, dizzy spells and biliousness follow. An operation for piles or other internal trouble may result.

But you can free yourself from laxative slavery and constipation quickly and easily with Cream of Nujol treatment.

This new form of Nujol is specially suited to sufferers from chronic constipation. It soothes and comforts the bowels, absorbs poisons, and helps the peristaltic action which alone can dispose of wastes naturally.

Start the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment tonight. It is delicious to take and costs you only a few cents a day.

JAIL TERMS RARE AS NEW ALIMONY BILLS ADVANCE

Changes in Law to Make Women Liable.

With Illinois' proposed new alimony laws up for consideration in the state senate, Chicago's divorce judges are becoming increasingly reluctant to grant any alimony to childless wives able to work. At the same time jail sentences for nonpayment of alimony have become rare, a survey yesterday revealed.

The alimony bills were introduced in the senate two months ago by State Senator Richey V. Graham, president pro tem.

Aids Those Who Can't Pay.

Among other reforms, they propose that a wife shall be as liable to pay alimony as a man, and that no man shall be jailed for alimony if he can prove that he is unable to pay for the support of a divorced wife.

In Judge Joseph Sabath's court Mrs. Anna Strempler appeared to ask that her husband, Herman, be jailed for being $1,400 in arrears in alimony. Upon that mere representation a few years ago a jail sentence might have been imposed immediately, but the court inquired into the circumstances of the case and found that the wife was living in a two flat building and collecting rent.

Court Suspects Revenge.

Moreover, it was brought out by Attorney Otto Baer, representing the husband, that the youngest child of the union is now 18 years old and able to work. The husband was earning only $20 a week.

"I'm not going to fill the jails with men of this type," said Judge Sabath. "What good would it do? I can't understand a wife wanting her husband in jail except for purposes of revenge."

The manner in which the courts are adapting themselves to present conditions was shown in another case. A small grocery owner was arraigned for nonpayment of alimony of $10 a week for the support of his wife and two children. He protested that he had no cash to meet the payments.

Grocer to Pay with Food.

"No, I won't send him to jail," the judge said, in response to the plea of the wife's lawyer. "Let him pay the $10 a week, but let $7 of it be in groceries and $3 in cash."

Judge Francis Allegretti, assigned only a week ago to hear divorce cases for the first time, has already adopted a liberal policy in dealing with alimony cases. In a number of cases he refused to send men to jail and announced that wives able to work and with no children would receive no consideration in his court.

PAIR SENTENCED FOR MURDER OF PARK ATTENDANT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Dominick Manso, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Michael Feinberg.

James Hrabak, murder, sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary; Irwin Fischer, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary; James Barsella and Albert Caputa, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

James Hrabak, 22 years old, 2227 South Kedzie avenue, and Irwin Fischer, 21, of 2101 Marshall boulevard, were found guilty of murder yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court in a trial without a jury. Hrabak was sentenced to 25 years and Fischer to 14 years in the penitentiary.

On Nov. 7 the two men beat to death Sol Rauh, 52 years old, 5315 Cornell avenue, attendant in a small park. Rauh's body was found in the fieldhouse of the park at 2412 South Trumbull avenue by two girls. The police learned from the girls that they had been in the habit of meeting Hrabak and Fischer in the fieldhouse. The youths were arrested and confessed that they beat the watchman because he tried to keep them out of the fieldhouse.

RELIEF AT LAST! FROM PILES!

Yes, no more suffering! No more pain, strain or itching! No more torture at the stool. No matter what form of Piles you suffer from—genuine relief for you is at hand in Pazo Ointment.

Pazo stops the pain and itching at once. More, it actually tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole. For Pazo is threefold in effect. It is (1) soothing, (2) healing, (3) absorbing. Thus it not only allays the inflammation and repairs sore and torn tissue, but it actually reduces the swollen blood vessels which Piles are. Thousands say that Pazo is the only thing that ever gave them real relief from Piles. Thousands say that it saved them the need of a painful operation. The method of application (see picture below) makes Pazo doubly effective. Try Pazo yourself and see that it means the end of your suffering. All first class drug stores sell Pazo in Collapsible Tubes with Perforated Pile Pipe, complete for 75c.

Perforated Pile Pipe Attached to Collapsible Tube Makes Application Correct and Easy.

The PAZO Collapsible Tube and Perforated Pile Pipe make it very easy to apply the Ointment high up in the rectum where it can reach and thoroughly cover all the affected parts. Complete interior treatment in all cases of Piles is plainly important.

OLD FRIENDS AID HUNGRY SCHOOL CHILDREN'S FUND

Ever since the Hungry School Children's fund opened last September a $20 check has come faithfully each month from an anonymous donor. The request is always made that this money be turned over to Walsh school. This and other faithful friends make possible the continuance of the administration of this fund. In the same mail came $6 from the Bookhouse for Children, another regular supporter. A glance through the list of acknowledgments reveals other familiar names: C. F. Fairbrass, Sara N. Levison, V. H., and the Illinois Inspection bureau stenographic department.

Although yesterday's contributions dropped a little the day's total, $34, was encouraging because it revealed that old friends and new will not let the fund be forgotten. The gifts are acknowledged as follows:

$10.00—Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, Sara N. Levison, Delta Phi club, Chicago.
$6.00—The Bookhouse for Children.
$5.00—C. F. Fairbrass, Elisabeth Dimick, Robert Hechheid. [In commemoration of my late father's birthday, Morris Sabath, who died on July 16, 1932]. Ruth Sabath Kaufman.
$2.00—M. McKinley, V. H.

Total	$ 34.00
Previously acknowledged	22,196.28
Grand total	22,230.28

Contributions should be made payable to the Hungry School Children's fund and sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

MAJOR HEADS OF SCHOOL SYSTEM GET NO PAY CUT

The printed school budget for 1933, made public yesterday, revealed that the basic salaries of the three major heads of the school system had not been reduced, although teachers and other employes were given a 15 per cent cut. The salaries as printed were: Superintendent William J. Bogan, $15,000; Business Manager Howard P. Savage, $12,000, and School Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan, $12,000.

According to Harry Brackett, school auditor, the salaries were retained at their basic rate because the officers were elected by the school board for terms of four years at a fixed compensation and any tampering might result in a suit for breach of contract. The auditor explained that the three officials could refund the 15 per cent of their salaries at the end of the year if they saw fit.

The basic salary wages of school janitors were raised from $140 to $145 a month, as shown in the budget, because the school trustees were told that janitors employed by the city received a similar rate. The 15 per cent cut, however, lowers the school janitorial wages to $128.25 a month.

TRY CORN MEAL DISHES IF MEAL'S LACKING IN ZEST

Provide Tempting Array of Golden Treats.

BY MARY MEADE.

Stumped for a dish that's low priced yet palate tickling, quickly hustled together, yet full of good health? Then try a bit of adventuring with one of our own midwest products—corn meal.

If it doesn't sound like an adventure to you, then so much the better. It'll be that much more fun when you do get out your bag of meal and give it a try. For we just can't know how good corn can be until we've tried it in crisp, crunchy waffles, feathery souffles, scallops, polenta, tamale pie, griddle cakes, spoon bread, fruit puddings, and a simply huge array of other golden treats.

Especially does the inner self warm to that admirable southern tradition, Virginia spoon bread, which makes a sturdy luncheon or supper if flanked by a vegetable salad, a fruit dessert, and cocoa for everybody. There are numerous kinds of spoon bread, from the plain corn meal variety, through sour milk creations, and hominy additions, up to my favorite—corn-rice spoon bread. Here it is:

SOUTHERN SPOON BREAD.
[Which is no bread.]
2 cups milk.
½ cup corn meal.
3 eggs.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup cooked rice.

Scald the milk and sift in the corn meal, stirring constantly. Take off the stove and let cool partly, then add the whole eggs and the salt, beating the mixture with an egg beater until fluffy and light. Now add the cooked rice, mix well, turn into a greased casserole which can go to the table, and bake for one hour in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.]. When the spoon bread comes out of the oven, dot one tablespoon of butter over the top and take to the table at once. Serve it up by the spoonful into hot dinner plates. From that point on it is manipulated with a fork.

Usually for spoon bread and for most other corn meal treats, the yellow corn meal is preferred to the white, since it can boast twenty-eight times as much vitamin A as its pale brother. It's vitamin A, you know, which is man's chief champion in waging war against colds, besides promoting children's growth and everybody's general vim and vigor.

CORN MEAL SOUFFLE.
1-3 cup corn meal.
1 cup water.
3 eggs, separated.
Dash of nutmeg.
1 teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons fat, melted.
½ cup milk.

Heat the water to boiling, sift in the corn meal, then place in a double boiler to cook until thick. Stir frequently. Cool partly, add the fat, seasoning, and milk, then the egg yolks, beaten till lemon colored. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs and turn into a greased baking pan. Place this pan in a shallow pan of water and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until brown and firm to the light touch. Serve with a tomato sauce or a nippy cheese sauce.

FOOD BARGAINS? TUNE IN MARY MEADE'S CHATS.

Did butter go up?
Is such-and-such a fair price for pork?

All sorts of questions on how, when, and where to shave pennies off the food budget are finding answers these week-ends in the grocery and meat bargain chats broadcast by Mary Meade, TRIBUNE cooking editor, every Saturday at 9:45 a. m. over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station.

Coming at the moment when market lists are topmost in the minds of family meal getters, these fifteen minute look-ins on the day's food prices and special week-end bargains have already reached hundreds of thousands of radio listeners and saved many food dollars.

First on the shopping program each Saturday comes a bird's-eye view of the ups and downs on the retail and wholesale food markets. This takes in fresh foods, meats, dairy and bakery products, and canned goods.

Special offers and bargain counter attractions being featured each week at the leading food stores over town are discussed, together with a sprinkling of quick tricks, attractive recipes, and modern service suggestions for making the most delicious use of these week-end bargains.

Low priced meals aren't so much a matter of the foods women put on the menu, according to Miss Meade, as of the skill they use in shopping—the knowledge of when to buy, where to buy, how much to purchase, and what quality of food will best suit their particular needs. It is these points that the Saturday morning radio chats are designed to cover.

GARDEN FOOD PRODUCTS DON GARB OF EASTER

Spring Strawberries, Etc., Please the Eye.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Out step the fruits and vegetables in pre-Easter apparel to entice buyers, nearly all of whom "buy with the eye." Countless new types of packages are dressing up our seasonal and out of season near-luxury foods.

These new type packages are proving beneficial because of their increased sanitary value, a trade survey indicates, although the result in increased buying is largely due to the more attractive appearance of the food. Displays on counters of the grocery store present these innovations.

Strawberry Tells Own Story.

For instance, there is the strawberry, peeping through its transparent covering, losing none of its southern sun freshness and red color appeal. The high priced asparagus remains fresher, yet shows its tender greenness through the newer coverings.

Mushrooms, home grown, and the hothouse tomatoes, also are taking on these aristocratic wrappings, adding to the cost on some shipments, but apparently keeping the food in fresher state and indicating more choice produce.

Other changes have been made and these for more economical reasons. They include shipping apples in paper bushel baskets, which save sizeable portions of the freight bills formerly paid and in addition keep the apples in better condition because of fewer bruises in handling.

Both Sides Are Benefited.

The consumers benefit as well as those supplying the apples. Manufacturers of containers have already indicated that housewives can expect to see more of the 1933 grape and apple crop in these paper cartons.

If the eye can influence the appetite, then some of these color and container innovations have sharpened the shopping eyes of retail buyers. Cabbage has been made to look greener by placing it in green meshed bags. Onions have been given a more yellow tinge by having them peep through small and large yellow tinted but loosely woven sacks.

Oranges and grapefruit are being shipped and sold in loose meshed bags so that the color of the container blends with the fruit peeping through from the interior. Producers and shippers are capitalizing on natural colors and the "eye" shopping which buyers naturally employ.

Menus Tomorrow

MARY MEADE'S menus for Saturday and Sunday will appear in tomorrow morning's Tribune. Watch for them, together with the Saturday food marketing news story. Miss Meade's menus will enable you to take advantage of week-end food bargains and to plan attractive meals more economically.

FOOD TAKES ON SHAMROCK GARB FOR ST. PATRICK

Even Dessert Honors the Good Saint Today.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

'Tis the world, surely, as well as God, loves the Irish, being all goldenly encircled as it is with a singing snare of Gaelic mirth. Today, it being the festival of St. Patrick, many beside them of the shamrock clans will be mindful of him who timed the rhythm of his heart to the laughter of his adoptive isle.

Regulations governing the penitential practices of Lent are withdrawn for this day; instead of fasting, we feast. So high, in fact, is St. Patrick's standing with the church fathers that even the ancient ecclesiastical law of abstaining from meat on Friday is graciously rescinded in his honor.

Let us make a fairy ring of our kitchen this afternoon—invoke the immigrant "wee folk" [there are many such who have crossed the Atlantic, it's told] that have journeyed here from the bogs, the forests and glens of Mayo and Kerry, Donegal, Galway, and Cork. With themselves to whisper of peat fires burning, the silver mist over the bogs, of blarney stones, and the tapping hammers of leprechauns, of wandering poets, and plucked harp strings, of shamrocks sprung from stardust, and flakes of elfin gold on the blue lakes of Killarney—surely a few of the fancies that come we can shape into emblems of Erin that would intrigue the good saint himself.

They're All Shamrocks.

From our enchanted retreat we shall emerge at dinner time with a tray of light and dark shamrock cookies, a-glisten with coarse sugar crystals. Our favorite "rolled cookies" recipe may be used, and the new clover cookie cutter. And there will be other shamrocks—potato chips, these—with small leaves curling, crisp and golden.

Even the salad may be a shamrock interpretation. We may cut green peppers into trifoliate shapes, filling each with cottage cheese. A coat of chopped nuts or a dash of paprika lend a note of piquancy.

Or there may be shrimp salad cucumber boats to introduce the color favored of Ireland. Our fleet, six small boats, are prepared in this manner: Three medium sized cucumbers are pared and each is cut in half, lengthwise. The seeds are removed. Each small bark, served on a bed of watercress, carries its portion of a cargo whose ingredients—2 cups of shrimps, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 1 cup peas, and 2 diced tomatoes—are marinated separately in French dressing. It is a salad that must be thoroughly chilled.

Here Is Your Dessert.

And for dessert we shall offer pistachio parfait as delicate of color as new leaves. The recipe follows:

Boil 1 cup of sugar and ¼ cup of water until the sirup will spin a thread when dropped from the tip of a spoon. On the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs, constantly stirring, pour the sirup slowly. Beat until the mixture is cold. Then add 1 tablespoon of vanilla extract. Beat until stiff 1 pint of whipping cream. Tint the cream with leaf of green almond extract—1 teaspoonful. Fold the cream into the first mixture together with ½ cup of finely chopped pistachio nuts. Turn into trays, cover with waxed paper and place in the refrigerator, where our dessert must remain for three hours.

Declares Fact Is Chief Need of Biography

Philip Guedalla Attacks Modern Notions.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Philip Guedalla, author of "Wellington," "Palmerston," etc., gave a delightful talk on biography the other day at the Chicago Woman's club. With a rare rapier-like wit Mr. Guedalla discussed his idea and his ideal of the art of biography, and while laughter anesthetized his audience he did some expert operating on the popular conceptions of modern biography. There was rare profundity in his gay words.

He had met George Moore when he was working on the life of Palmerston, he said, and when Mr. Moore was told that fact by his host Mr. Moore said: "My young man, curve him like a vase." Charming and excellent advice as that might be for another type of literary art and for biographies of men whose lives obligingly started with a narrow neck, swept into the maximum bulge and receded gently to an artistic close, for the life of some men it was bad advice, Mr. Guedalla said, for biography should be first of all true, and it was true of very few lives that they followed the conventional lines of the Greek vase.

Telling a biographer to curve his subject like a vase would be like telling a driver of a street car to approach his objective in a voluptuous curve, Mr. Guedalla said. The problem of the biographer was not unlike that of the street car driver. They must both go where the rails lead.

Mr. Guedalla was very amusing about the phrase modern biography. There is no such thing as modern biography in the sense that all biography after, say, 1910 is brief and brilliant, he explained. In that very year there began appearing, he pointed out, a six volume life of Disraeli, and, what's more, he said, in not one of the 3,000 pages does the word complex appear.

And, on the other hand, nothing written since 1910 can compare with Lord Rosebery's life of the younger Pitt or his little memoir on Lord Randolph Churchill for brevity or brilliance. And rudeness, in which modern biography is supposed to shine, is child's play today compared to the really thorough rudeness of the 19th century posthumous memoirs.

So-called modern biography attempts to reconstruct the motives of the subject. It is utterly impossible, he showed, for any man to know accurately what any other man is thinking. The biographer can only deduce from the evidence and it is the duty of the really good biographer to sift that evidence, but it is not his duty to fictionize it. Most of the modern biographies, he said, are, as a matter of fact, done badly psychologically, for it is a certainty that no human being is unchanged through life. In the movies and political cartoons and plays it is the tradition that no character is allowed to have more than one characteristic . . . the good man, the extravagant woman, the innocent girl . . . and much modern biography is dedicated to the attempt to make the subject a supreme example of one characteristic from the first prattling to the death rattle.

That method may perhaps result in an interesting work of art [occasionally], he said, but it is not accurate characterization, and the duty of the biographer is to re-create his subject after his subject's image, not after his own.

All the modern biograper needs is honesty of purpose, he said, and a reasonable degree of humility. Many modern biographers are inclined to condescend to their heroes just as we condescend to the past. A true biographer should be looking at and not down upon his subject, Mr. Guedalla wisely concluded.

There is a hybrid in modern biography, he declared, the mule called "Life and Letters." The life should be one thing, the documents another. No biography should be in more than one volume, is Mr. Guedalla's belief, and any life can be got into one volume by a person who is writing a book and not letting the book write him.

Woman's Aid Holds Exhibit

Mrs. Samuel R. Wittelle holding an imperial Manchu headdress of the 17th century. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Hobby Show

There was only one conclusion possible yesterday afternoon after a turn around the second annual hobby exhibit of the Woman's Aid in the clubrooms at 185 North Wabash avenue. Every one of the members must live in a miniature museum.

In the large parlor and the smaller rooms adjoining, all gay with spring flowers and straw hats . . . the pancake variety . . . art treasures from snuff bottles to samplers, cup plates to portraits were on display. Certainly none of the exhibitors has ever found a restful moment while traveling in Europe or the orient.

Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz, wearing the ever smart black and white, was the hostess assisted by Mrs. Theodore Rosenak and Mrs. Samuel R. Wittelle. An hour's program was contributed by Mrs. Eli Daiches, Mrs. Gelig Greenebaum, and Eve R. Schoen, who told of their experiences making their collections.

The Palestinian collection that Mrs. Eli Daiches has assembled the last three years drew a crowd the entire afternoon. On a "pyramid" stand she displayed bronze figures, brass plaques, handsomely engraved books, and wood carvings that are the work of the students at the Bezalel national art academy and museum at Jerusalem. It was through the late Prof. Boris Schatz, the founder of the school and a friend of the Daiches family, that she was able to obtain the pieces. Prof. Schatz was once court sculptor to the king of Bulgaria. The name "Bezalel," which he gave to his son as well as the school, is that of the only Jewish artist mentioned in the Bible. It was Bezalel who erected the tabernacle for Moses.

Mealtime Tips for Parents of Boys and Girls

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

While yesterday's column concerned itself with recommending a certain general commonsensible attitude toward the young child's eating habits, today's will be more specific. Here are some brief suggestions:

Much of the fuss children make at mealtimes is due to a desire for attention—quite unconscious, of course. I've seen this repeatedly. And the fact that the attention may be scolding attention instead of coaxing attention doesn't alter the fact. So, adopt a take-for-granted attitude.

Avoid forcing food on a child. This would naturally cause a repugnance for it. Be patient with the child who is learning to feed himself. It is an effort. If a child appears to leave part of the meal because he apparently tires of feeding himself, help him out at the end.

Avoid concentrating your eyes, words, thoughts, and nerves on the child and his food at mealtimes. Don't feel anxious and don't act anxious.

When a child eats with the family, take this warning still more to heart. Also, excuse him from the table when he has finished.

The rested, unhurried child enjoys his food more and digests it better than the tired one. A short, quiet time or actual rest period before meals does wonders for appetite and manners.

It seems almost superfluous to add these last two suggestions because every one must realize them. I will tack them on, however.

One is, don't scold, nag, or discipline a child at mealtimes. And the other is, give a child as much variety as his diet will allow.

HUMAN NATURE

This remarkable group of stories attests once again to Mrs. Wharton's distinguished art. Comic irony is the pervading note, although a deep humanity always underlies the author's clairvoyant judgment of life. The five stories in the volume, including the wonderful novelette, Her Son, reveal a striking range of character and scene. $2.00

Many Green Items Offered Buyers Today

Stylish Color Featured in Shops of City.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The girl in the little green hat is probably using this day for the glorification of all things green in shopping . . . shopping for gay green belts of suede fitted with a huge round hammered silver metal buckle that looks exactly like an outside life saver . . . or a vivid green silk umbrella fitted with glittering chromium ribs, matching handle, a cheerful protector for the rainy days.

Or, the gal who goes for green can have a wild time among some of the collections of thin green and white organdy blouses, even greener jumper dresses of fine flannel or wool crêpe or eyefilling green plaids and very new checks. Even the newest 'kerchiefs are of green distraction, especially the new large affairs in prints, or the lunch-cloth-size chiffons that flutter with the right kind of an evening gown.

One knockout green street costume features a swagger coat of Kelly green wool to dramatize a goodlooking black and white check daytime dress . . . another costume worthy of fame is a sleek black slim frock, yoked in white and matched to a flippant Scotch-Irish combine that is as startling as it is new and unusual. The novelty wool coat jacket is plaid as to pattern and Irish as to color . . . it certainly blarneys the black crêpe dress into giving a spectacular performance. And this intriguing jacket coat can be used with early cottons and sports dresses of oyster white and pearl gray.

There are some fetching green taffeta jackets to frost your white and flowered dance dresses . . . some velvet numbers to complete the charm of satin evening gowns and some giddy green flannel sports jackets for black and white check separate skirts, or tobacco brown skirts that can be worn with grass-green leather jackets for an early golf game.

The best looking green handbags that have been unpacked in weeks are blooming in all the shops. You can buy flannel, tweedy wools, slick patent leathers, crêpelike wool fabrics, as well as all kinds and shades of leathers and anything else the bagmakers have used for new spring models. Perforated felts, patent leathers, and novelty weaves of stuff that looks like soft straw or string also come in this provocative March color.

You'll probably loose a good portion of your Scotch thrift when you discover the emerald shades of costume accessories . . . all the bracelets, the beads, clips, and earrings that you will see celebrating this annual green day.

But the long green gadgets of enamel, flat, slim, cases that will hold a large supply of fags, will make all grin with proper appreciation. You can find these containers festively and doggily decorated with Irish terriers, Airedales, and even an Irish bloodhound, if you are blessed with a vivid imagination and don't insist upon detailed perfection as far as the breed of pups are concerned.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MURDER IN THE LULU BELL BAR.

Shots! Cries! The lights went out. Curses! A momentary silence. A scream, then the thud of a body; a rush for horses outside the saloon.

Joe Fordney riding into the little Arizona cattle town, met "Trigger" Tabor forcing his horse like mad. Recognizing Fordney, he pulled his Pinto to a skidding stop, wheeled and rode back.

"Better stop in the LULU BELL," he shouted. "That damn Mexican, Castellano's been stabbed in the back!"

"All right. Come on," called Fordney.

"Are yuh crazy? Not me! The sheriff 'll be raisin' holy hell in there! I'm not gettin' mixed up in no mess!" In another minute he was lost in a cloud of dust.

Joe pushed open the door of the bar, hesitated, and called to the proprietor.

"'Scraggy'! 'Scraggy.'"

"Who's it?" came a guarded inquiry.

"Joe Fordney. Where's your light? What's up?"

"O, pay day and the boys got playful. Not much damage, I guess," he concluded lighting a candle. "What tuh! . . ." he stopped and stared at the body of the Mexican stretched on the floor, a stiletto between his shoulders. His right hand clutched the ace of spades!

"Now, there'll be hell to pay." "Scraggy" exclaimed, setting the candle on the table. Its feeble glow disclosed the bar's only other occupant, "Colorado" Cal, apparently in a drunken stupor.

"Second murder you've had in a month, eh, 'Scraggy'? Like the other, of course, you know nothing about this! Not many knives in these parts like that one sticking in Castellano's back. Let's see . . . you own one and Cal another!"

WHO DID FORDNEY ACCUSE? WHY?

[See solution on page 31.]

New Symphony Given World Premiere Here

Borowski Work Receives High Praise.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Felix Borowski's symphony, deferred from its announced performance last week, received its first performance on any stage during the concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall last night. Mr. Borowski has written a considerable number of works in the larger forms in past years, at least seven of which have received performances in these concerts, but this, one of his most recent, would seem to be his first essay as a symphonist.

It is an admirable work. The composer has kept close to the architectural form of the symphony; he has also contrived to write full-bodied music into the form, rather the more important of the two considerations. He bases his musical faith upon melody, which some of us take to be the correct musical creed, and out of his melodic inventiveness he constructs highly attractive compositions.

His tastes in this symphony did not run toward the tragic. Its music is at one time tranquil and serene, at another gay, at still another spirited. His treatment of it steered an accurate course of avoiding the commonplace on the one hand and undue striving for effect on the other. As a result it succeeded in being both inviting and interesting, the true ends of all good music.

The program gave a reminder that the end of the season is not far off. One of the announcements began: "Director Stock requests requests for the final concerts of the season, April 21 and 22." It went on to say that each patron might request one symphony and one miscellaneous work, conditioned on a few points like performance within the last five years, the inclosure of a seat coupon to prove the fact of patronage, and the right of the management to reject requests for works on a royalty basis if the royalty is too high.

It is a subject worth consideration.

In the meantime there was more music worth consideration last night. One work was the Bach Concerto in G for string orchestra, and two pieces by Richard Strauss, "Thus Spake Zarathustra," in its magnificent distances and sometimes if not invariably high inspiration, and the cheery, persuasive waltzes out of the opera "Der Rosenkavalier," Vienna waltzes brought down to the date of the present generation and as fine as their elders.

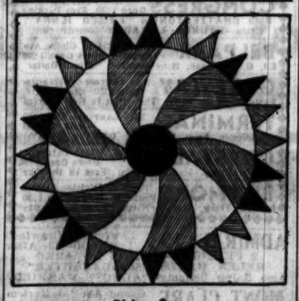
Quilt's Name Has All but Rolled Away from It



Rising Sun.

By NANCY CABOT.

"Rising Sun" is a quilt pattern that has had difficulty in maintaining its identity through the passing of time. Its name has been changed repeatedly from "Wheel of Fortune" to "Cogwheel," to "Rolling Wheel"—any one of which is as fitting as another. The wheel idea seems fairly permanent, however, having clung to at least three of the titles. The Rising Sun, as it is now called, was originated back in 1775.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn Street.

Friends to Give Many Parties for Lucie Jacobs, W. N. Gorham

Popular Young Couple Will Be Married on March 29 at Home of Bride's Parents.

BY JUDITH CASS.

As the 29th of March approaches, which is the day set for the wedding of Miss Lucie Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Jacobs of Winnetka, to Willett N. Gorham, son of the Sidney S. Gorhams of La Grange, young friends of the bride and bridegroom-to-be find that their engagement pads have many notations of parties to be given for the popular young couple. The festivities start with a luncheon and bridge at which Miss Katherine Roach will be hostess next Wednesday at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Roach, in Winnetka.

Next Friday night Miss Lois Tuesdale will give quite an original party—an indoor picnic, and her invitations, which were written in verse and requested that all replies be made in rhyme, asked that old clothes be worn. The suppers will be put up in lunch boxes, two to a box, and after the sixteen guests have eaten they will dance or play ping-pong, or roulette or bridge.

The junior Sidney S. Gorhams are giving a dinner dance for fifty on Saturday of next week at the Opera club, and all those who are invited are looking forward to the party with enthusiastic zest, for they remember what a "wow" of a party the tea-dance was that the Gorhams gave at the same club last winter for Mrs. Gorham's débutante sister, Miss Jean McVoy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wales will give a small dinner party the next night at their Winnetka residence, and on Monday, the 27th, Miss Evelyn Bouscaren and Miss Chloe Watson will be hostesses at a dinner for 15. It is to be a sort of progressive party, with part of it at the Louis H. G. Bouscarens' residence and the rest at the Cornelius B. Watsons'. The final plans will not be worked out until Miss Watson arrives from Smith next Thursday.

The Warren A. Lamsons' daughter, Virginia, has invited 30 young people to come in on Tuesday, the 28th, after dinner, for a kitchen shower and supper party, and she has asked her guests to come dressed as cooks, chefs, or maids.

The wedding will take place the following day at the residence of the bride's parents, and although we could not reach Miss Jacobs nor her mother yesterday to verify it, we heard that she is to wear her mother's wedding gown.

Miss McFadden Bride Today.

Miss Marion McFadden's Chicago friends are sorry she chose to be married to James Pickrell Hume in Greenwich, Conn., today instead of here, where at least some of them might have attended the ceremony, but since it is to be a very quiet wedding with just the immediate families present, they aren't feeling as badly as they would if it were a larger wedding.

The service is to be read at 4 o'clock in the Round Hill church, just out of Greenwich, by the Rev. Dr. M. George Thompson, old friend and rector of the McFaddens when they lived in Greenwich. Among those who will witness the ceremony are the bride's mother and sisters, Mrs. Parmalee J. McFadden of Chicago, Miss Frances McFadden, who is living in New York; Mrs. Edward P. Lay and her husband, who live on a farm between Greenwich and Mount Kisco; Abram Poole, an uncle of the bride, who lives in the east; the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Hume of Washington, and his brothers, Cyril Hume, the writer, and Charles Hume, who lives in Chicago.

Mrs. Edward L. Hasler says it isn't a bridal dinner she is giving tonight at her residence in Lake Forest for her daughter, Constance, who is to be married to John McLaren Simpson tomorrow afternoon, for there isn't enough of a bridal party to warrant having a bridal dinner; it is just an informal dinner for the relatives who are here from out of town and for Miss Emily Beardsley of Utica, N. Y., who is a house guest of the Haslers.

Miss Beardsley and tomorrow's bride were roommates at Westover and also at school in Paris, so although Miss Hasler isn't having any one but her cousin, Miss Eleanor Coonley, attend her tomorrow, she wanted to have her best school friend attend the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss L. Coonley and Miss Eleanor are here from Great Barrington, Mass., for the wedding and the dinner tonight, also Wyndham Hasler, who came from Harvard to

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters, Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior, after losing their fortune in Chicago. Andrew went to pieces after the death of his wife. Great-Aunt Letitia is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. Ned is in love with Meryl, but she dreams of a better future. A forest fire spreads over the country. Meryl meets a stranger injured and lost, near the Henderson cottage.

INSTALLMENT V.

A SLAVE TO A WOMAN.

It was his voice that intrigued Meryl, even before her studying eyes grown accustomed to the starlight, had been able to define the clear cut, almost harsh line of the jaw, the straight, black brows, and the full, generous forehead.

"Damn!" he whispered. "You see—I must have broken something—my ankle ——"

"Come," she said. "I'll help you get up."

She placed an arm about his waist, and was appalled at the height of him as he towered slowly above her. A twinge of pain seemed to pass through him the moment he set his feet on the ground.

"Lean against me," she ordered, "and keep your bad foot up. We can make it. It isn't far."

"You are very kind," the man said, in that vague, reduced voice of his.

But he protested. "You're only a kid, aren't you? Isn't there a man around who ——"

"There isn't," Meryl said sharply. "They're all up fighting the fire.

He drew his breath in suddenly between his teeth. Meryl tightened her grip about him and got a firmer foothold on the rough ground.

They struggled back to the road, the dog an anxious shadow at their heels. Meryl found the soft trail that branched off to the point, and presently the dense fire shut the sky away from them, save for the rare intrusion of a white star.

The man said nothing on that brief journey, except one muttered expression of dismay. "This is rough on you, child. Better leave me here till somebody comes along."

man waited in silence, doing his best to balance himself on one foot and not lean any more heavily than was necessary on Meryl's arm.

"We mustn't waken my Aunt Letitia," Meryl said thoughtfully. "She'd only be a bother."

She helped him into the house, the dog slipping in close behind them. Tim, the spaniel, rose lazily only to slump almost immediately back into his nook beside the fireplace. The shepherd dog kept a respectful distance. It was not until Meryl had assisted the stranger to the couch built into the wall at the right of the fireplace, placed a cushion under his head, and gently removed his shoes, that she had an opportunity really to look at him. She saw then the somewhat severely chiseled face of a man who was probably in his early thirties. His lids closed over the agony of his eyes. While Meryl hastily threw a patchwork comforter over him, she saw that his mouth, although it was drawn now into a straight, mute line, was oddly full and mobile, a seeming contradiction to his other features. A curious and unaccountable thrill of solicitude, of pity, passed through her in that instant of her first glance of his face. She spoke softly, her voice quick with her quickened heartbeat.

"I shall have to go to the next house," she said. "We have no telephone here. I'll call a doctor at Agate Bay. He should be here in half an hour."

She was about to move away when he raised his hand. "Wait!" he said. She saw his lips twist in pain. "Phone my sister there, Theresa Lawrence." He stopped, then went on with difficulty. "Tell her I'm all right—just a sprained ankle. And tell her—tell her to keep absolutely mum about where I am. She'll understand. Tell her—if any one asks about me—that I'm at Blue lake. Then you might tell her to phone Dr. Trevor and send him out. He knows me."

Meryl stared at him for a moment. "I don't know your name," she said.

The stranger smiled wryly. "Blake Lawrence," he told her, and averted his face so that she should not see his uncontrollable grimace of pain.

"Blake Lawrence," Meryl repeated.

The name set up in her memory a sharp eddying of recognition. There were two names in Agate Bay which always struck awe into the hearts of the fisher folk. Lawrence was one—Greer was the other. But Agate Bay and its environs, its mines and its forests and its lively waterfront, although it was possessed body and soul by these names, knew their owners only by the exterior of two imposing homes whose grandeur faced the lake in arrogant challenge.

This was no time, however, to linger in amazement over the identity of a stranger in your house, Meryl thought. She darted noiselessly across the room and closed Aunt Letty's door, then let herself out through the kitchen entrance. Even though none of the Benoits were at home, their house, she knew, would not be locked. It would be only the matter of a moment to put the call through to Blake Lawrence's sister and deliver his message.

Blake Lawrence, left alone in the dimly lit room with its white-washed walls and its darkly glowing, heavily beamed ceiling, lay for a minute or two in a half swoon of pain and exhaustion. He clenched his jaws and forced his eyes wide open in a supreme effort to keep from going under again.

He moved his eyes desperately about the room in an attempt to fix them upon something which would hold the attention of his flagging consciousness. Agony flamed from his ankle to his groin. His lungs were still choked with smoke. How far back was it that he had fallen over that half buried log he wondered. He must have dragged himself five miles after that, getting to his feet in an ecstasy of pain every now and then, keeping his bearings by some remote sense and veering southward and out of the path of the fire. He had gone easily ten miles altogether since he had abandoned the canoe and taken to the woods.

Again, with a grinding of his teeth, Blake looked fiercely about the room. If there had been a decent light, he wouldn't already be feeling like a ghost. There was something strange about this room. It wasn't ordinary lake stuff. Some one lived here who shouldn't—tapestry and etchings on the walls—and a little piano. Seemed like being back again in France. Maybe he was delirious. God—that ankle!

He closed his eyes. But that was worse. Because then he could see Christine. Her name made a lovely, a deep and ominous sound. Her white, small face, with its scarlet taunt of a mouth, was stamped on his heart, on the riven pain of his body. Mrs. Julius Greer—not only Christine! Why hadn't he been born poor—like one of these fishermen? He might have been a man now, instead of a slave to a woman. Damn Christine! But for her he would not now be lying here, racked with agony. But for her he would not have run away to the lodge at Blue lake, to be alone and think things over. But for her he would not have started on that disastrous canoe trip this morning, in a futile attempt to get farther away from himself, and from her.

The realization confronted him with sudden bluntness that he could not go back home now. He would be laid up for weeks with his ankle in a cast. In his own house there would be no escaping Christine. She would be there every day, to spend hours with him, playing in her suave, cruel and unscrupulous way the role of good Samaritan, pulling the wool over the eyes of Julius, her husband.

give his sister in marriage. The junior James Simpsons will arrive today or tomorrow from Washington but they do not plan to bring their little daughter with them for she is much too young for extensive traveling, having been born on Feb. 4 and having already made made one trip from Chicago to Washington, where her father's duties as congressman from the 10th District took him several weeks after the baby's birth.

Benefit Concert for Chopin Fund.

Society will have a chance to show its appreciation of the gracious gesture the Poles made in offering their building at A Century of Progress to the Friends of Music by supporting a concert that has been planned for Sunday afternoon, April 9, for the benefit of the Chopin Memorial fund.

Egon Petri, the noted pianist, is to be the artist at the concert which will be given at the Drake hotel. The price of a ticket will include Polish tea and barszcz, which Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, who has lived in Poland and who telephoned yesterday to tell us about the concert, says is very good.

Mrs. Dewey is assisting the members of the Polish Arts club and the Polish consul general, Tytus Zbyszewski, in arranging the concert. The Chopin Memorial fund was started in Poland with the idea of rebuilding a forest, destroyed during the world war, near Chopin's birthplace, Zelazowa Wola, near Warsaw. Zelazowa Wola was bought with money raised by popular subscription in Poland several years ago and now is a shrine that is visited by musicians and music lovers by the hundreds.

The ultimate plan is to make it a place where artists may go and stay several days and find peace and inspiration in the beautiful old place where the great Chopin was born.

It was a gracious and generous act of the Poles to offer their pavilion to the Friends of Music even though the latter organization did not find it expedient to accept the offer and so it is probable that society's music lovers will turn out in force for the Chopin concert and that it will be a notable social as well as musical affair.

The Deweys and Dr. Zbyszewski also are helping to promote a concert and dance that the Polish club at the International house, University of Chicago, will give at the International House theater tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

The Robert J. Dunhams will have as their guests today and tomorrow Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Frank. Tonight, while Dr. Frank and Mr. Dunham are attending a dinner for Walter Lippman at the Chicago club that the Commercial club is giving, Mrs. Dunham will entertain at a very small dinner at her residence on Lake Shore drive for Mrs. Frank and Mrs. Lippman.

Tomorrow afternoon the Dunhams, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Frank Knox, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor are giving a tea at the Casino for Mr. and Mrs. Lippman. Mrs. Fairbank will give a luncheon for the Franks tomorrow. Dr. and Mrs. Frank are returning to Madison early Sunday morning, taking with them Mrs. Jacob Baur, for whom and Count Carlo Sforza they will give a dinner for twenty-four Sunday night. Count Sforza is a former Italian minister who now is a visiting Carnegie lecturer in American universities.

U. of C. Students to Give Concerts.

Tonight and tomorrow night there will be an exodus from the north side to the south side for the concerts the University of Chicago orchestra, with the assistance of the University chorus, are to give in Mandel hall. Miss Janet Ayer, Miss Jane Valentine, and "Ben" Fairbank, all of them students at the Midway school this year, are to sing the prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" with the chorus, and so are Miss Betty Brown, Miss Mary Senior, Miss Elizabeth Dickinson, Miss Paula Uihlein, Philip Dalton, Kellogg Fairbank Jr., Cyrus Adams III., Rollin Larrabee, and Grinnell Morris. Miss Uihlein is arriving home from a trip to Bermuda just in time to take part.

Carl Bricken will conduct all of the numbers except one. For this, Ladislaua Gamauf, the graduate student who once led the Symphony orchestra at Budapest, is to be the conductor. Another artist to appear with the orchestra is Alberto Salvi, the harpist.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Lillie are entertaining small parties at dinner at their residence on Kenwood avenue tonight and tomorrow night for Jacques Maritain, the French philosopher, who arrives today to lecture at the University of Chicago tomorrow night. His lecture will be delivered in the assembly hall if the Social Sciences building and his subject will be "Some Reflections on Culture and Liberty."

During his brief stay in Chicago the philosopher will be the house guest of the Lillies and every one whom they have invited to meet him is excited over the prospect of meeting and talking with this brilliant young Catholic philosopher. He is making only two public appearances in this country, one at Harvard, which he already has made, and the other at the University of Chicago.

Arts Club to Open 2 Exhibits.

Mrs. Joseph Adams, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Arthur W. Jerrems Jr., Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Duncan Hodges, Mrs. J. Elliott Jenkins, Mrs. Jacob Bauer, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. Henry H. Reuss, and Mrs. Joseph Birren will pour and act as hostesses this afternoon at a tea at the Arts club to open two exhibitions: works of modern artists of the U. S. S. R., and landscape drawings by Walt Kuhn.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, chairman of the reception committee, who customarily is present at all the Arts club's teas, will not be there today for this may be the birthday of the first baby of the Potter Palmers III. Young Mrs. Palmer's mother, Mrs. West Movius, is here from Boston, visiting her daughter and son-in-law.

For tonight's Fortnightly dance the sub-sub debutantes and their beaux were requested to wear "something green" for it is to be a St. Patrick's party. However, this request does not mean that the young people must come in costume, a bit of Shamrock in the lad's lapel and perhaps a green gown or a green ribbon in Mistress Mary's hair will meet with approval.

Leave for Florida Holiday.

Mrs. Samuel Carson Pirie Jr. and her baby daughter, Jean Adele, and Mrs. Pirie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Adams, left last night to spend a month on the Pirie plantation near Orlando, Fla. The plantation is owned jointly by the sons and daughters of the original John T. Pirie, Chicago merchant and later the founder of the pleasant little town of Sea Cliff in New York.

The Gordon L. Piries of Hubbard Woods are down on the plantation and several members of the family from the east will join the house party soon. But not little Jean Adele's great-great-aunt, Miss Margaret Carson, for although she is a wonderful old woman and extremely active for any one who has lived a century, she isn't up to traveling from Sea Cliff, N. Y., to Orlando. She had her hundredth birthday yesterday, but she celebrated it last week by having a joint birthday party with her nephew, Samuel C. Pirie, who also lives in Sea Cliff.

Miss Carson was born near Dublin, freland, and came to America when she was a young woman with her sister, Sarah, who later married John T. Pirie. He and the Carson sisters' brother, Samuel, had come to this country before the girls and had opened a store in Amboy, Ill. Miss Carson lives at Craig Varra with a niece, Miss Sarah Pirie, and others of her family who live in Sea Cliff. In addition to Samuel C. Pirie Sr., are Miss Margaret Pirie, Mrs. James Weir and Allan H. Pirie, nieces and a nephew. John T. Pirie and Gordon L. Pirie also are Miss Carson's nephews.

Applaud Lecture on "Ancestors."

If all of the women who applauded Alice Van Leer Carrick loud and long yesterday morning at the Woman's Athletic club accept her invitation to come to Webster cottage for tea next summer, she will be little less than swamped with guests. After her enthusiastic lecture on "The Shades of Our Ancestors" profusely illustrated with slides, Miss Carrick—Mrs. Prescott Orde Skinner in private life—graciously invited her audience to drop in her little Hanover (N. H.) home of a Thursday afternoon to see the ancestors "in the frames rather than the shade."

Miss Carrick, the author of several books, has collected silhouettes, studied them, and written about them for years. They are her prime delight in life. And more than merely telling about the ones she has gathered yesterday she gave advice on the hanging of silhouettes. . . special pointers to save walls from looking "splotchy."

Winter Show

Miss Kathryn Evans, petite blonde debutante of this season, as she looked when she took part in the sixth edition of the "Huntington Hilarities" at the Huntington hotel in Pasadena where she and her mother, Mrs. Albert Thomas Evans, spent part of the winter. Mrs. Evans and her daughter arrived at home Saturday from California, having motored out there shortly after the first of the year.

Wife Fails to Understand Her Husband's Mood

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Her husband's attitude is very strange of late. He acts cold, impatient. Sits for hours without saying a word. The children get on his nerves. "Doesn't seem to take an interest in any of us any more," the woman writes. "He always was so good before."

Sounds to us, "Mrs. J.," as if your man were suffering the depression blues. As if his business were worrying him to death. Most men, at the moment, are carrying a load of worry, especially fathers who see their plans for their young brood vanishing into thin air. Trying times, these, for the male parent. For mother, too. If anything, she has the bigger rôle. Cheer leader to this man of sagging spirits! Economic manager of the domestic end. Patcher, mender, dollar-stretcher! Sometimes the bigness of the job clouds the vision as to what the man may be going through.

Physically he is affected. His nerves are on edge and children, unluckily for them, may get the brunt of his nerve explosions. Affection may appear to cool in the face of the man's own problem. Yet, if he didn't have the interest of his brood at heart he would not be a victim of the blues.

Assume, anyway, "Mrs. J.," that your man is ailing at heart himself, and appoint yourself physician in charge. Some men simply cannot talk their troubles over with their womenfolk. A certain pride keeps them tight-lipped. If they sense antagonism they never will open up. So, keep your head, woman, play your cheerful part and don't attach grim meanings to the man's withdrawal within himself nor to his stricken nerves.

One of the tragedies of the day's financial crisis hovers around the man who never did talk things over with his wife. The hour leaves her confused. In financial ignorance, she doesn't quite grasp the current situation. Small wonder, then, that she attaches meanings far removed from truth to her mate's moods and actions.

Active Muscles Won't Harbor Excess Fat, So Keep Them Busy

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A stretched muscle will not harbor fat. It's when muscle grows loose and flabby that fat settles down on it.

You note the daily emphasis placed on stretching as it is included in the exercise movements already prescribed for you by Maj. Rayner of West Point. To get the spinal column loose of its bad habits and, in a manner of speaking, freed of the consequence of these bad habits, stretching, stretching, stretching is urged.

The exercise illustration may not at first glance seem to you to be a stretching one, but read the instructions carefully and you'll see the full import of the exercise hinges on the muscle stretching it includes. The West Point idea is not to concentrate on one part of the body, but to develop uniform correction. Consequently, in this stretching work recommended by Maj. Rayner every muscle and every body part is affected for the better.

Let me here remind you to do your exercise always on a full breath. There is an undue strain on the body if this rule is not observed. Relax after each movement, breathe deeply, and repeat. Complete relaxation at end of movement is as necessary as the movement itself.

Maj. Rayner recommends for the beginner not more than three or four repetitions of an exercise at first. Some, as today's with women, especially, two or three times is sufficient, gradually increasing. And five minutes morning and five minutes at night he offers as the best beginner's program.

Irish Actors Add Another Play to List

"THE SHADOW OF THE GLEN"

A play in one act by J. M. Synge, given by the Abbey Theater company of Dublin at the Harris theater March 16, 1933.

THE CAST

Dan Burke.....F. J McCormick
Nora Burke.....Eileen Crowe
Michael Dara.....Arthur Shields
A Tramp.....Barry Fitzgerald

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The new item in the week in the repertory of the Abbey Theater company of Dublin, at the Harris theater, was J. M. Synge's "The Shadow of the Glen," given last night as curtain raiser to "The Playboy of the Western World." This little play is an inheritance from the earliest period of the Irish dramatic movement; it was first staged in 1903, before Lady Gregory's disciples had a playhouse they could call their own.

"The Shadow of the Glen" is a grim sketch, founded upon an almost farcical situation, of peasant types in County Wicklow—a lonely country of foggy uplands and isolated sheep herders' cabins. An old man pretends that he has died in order to eavesdrop upon his young wife, and when he finds her making plans for a second marriage he rises wrathfully from his bier to chase her out of her home, with an accidental tramp for her companion.

It is a play of Synge's apprentice period in which the satirical bent of his imagination failed to achieve charm. It contains, however, many striking passage of nature description in rhythmic dialect, in which a rich poetic gift is manifest. In its thumbnail pictures of a wild hill region drenched with fog the dialogue is rich in Synge's characteristic verbal magic. The character of the happy vagrant who walks off with the outcast wife at the end is reminiscent, I feel, of Synge's Parisian period, when he probably saw Richepin's "Le Chemineau."

Eileen Crowe was excellent as the sullen, brooding wife; Barry Fitzgerald acted the tramp with his customary skill in searching character depiction; Arthur Shields was the evasive young sheep herder; and F. J. McCormick appeared as the queer, crabbed graybeard who played dead to humiliate a wife who deserved no such treatment.

Pope Awards Red Hats to Six Newly Appointed Cardinals

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 16.—The Vatican announced officially today that Cardinal Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, formerly apostolic delegate to Washington, D. C., who got his red hat at today's public consistory, would be the new prefect of the Congregation de Propaganda Fide.

This post is among the most important in the church, as the prefect directs all missionary activities of Catholicism.

It is probable that Msgr. Amleto Cicognani, at present assessor of the congregation for the eastern church, will replace Msgr. Fumasoni-Biondi at Washington.

Pope Pius used the new elevator connecting his apartments with St. Peter's for the first time today when he descended for the consistory, which was held in the right nave of the cathedral. It was the first public consistory held in St. Peter's in more than sixty years and was attended by a great concourse of people.

Getting out of the elevator the pope donned special vestments and was then carried on a sedia gestatoria to the throne.

Soviet Movie Shows Troops at Celebration

"SOVIETS ON PARADE."

Screen news reel made in Moscow during parade through Red Square in honor of 15th anniversary of the revolution. Presented by Amkino. At the Punch and Judy theater.

By May Tinée.

Good Morning!

Well, the little Punch and Judy theater on Van Buren street has decided to make another try at it. It's some time idle screen now exploits two Russian pictures, "Soviets on Parade," news story of the exhibition of military prowess as paraded in Red Square past Stalin and various other communist powers on the occasion of the proletariat state's fifteenth anniversary of the Russian revolution, and "Potemkin," condensed version of the Eisenstein feature film which ran here some years ago.

"Soviets on Parade" has been photographed with clarity, cunning and forcefulness. It has been shrewdly edited. Before you are projected a series of remarkably compelling views of soviet activities you see laborers in action, the opening of the mammoth Dneiprostroy dam. Stalin is there and Voroshilov [I do hope I spell these names right!], commander of the Red army. You are properly impressed by General Budenny, cavalry leader, and learn about Red Squares, Kremlin, infantry, cavalry, airplanes, tanks, and young communists. The last's pledge to the government is given in a great roar just prior to the start of the parade. The picture is in sound and an unseen lecturer explains events as they transpire.

As in all Russian films, your attention is held by the intense enthusiasm of the participants. Whether a Russian does business or not—he MEANS business, and there's no maybe about that.

The Punch and July was jammed yesterday afternoon by a wildly applauding audience. Especially enthusiastic did they become over the mutinying sailors of the Russian cruiser the Prince Potemkin.

See you tomorrow!

ACCEPTED!

"I WISH MY MOTHER HAD CARED MORE FOR MY TEETH"

SHE spoke not in criticism but in wistful regret. Her complexion was petal-smooth, her features almost flawless, yet her beauty was marred by uneven, discolored teeth.

White, flashing, even teeth more than compensate for any lack of good looks. But imperfect teeth will mar the most beautiful face.

Have your children's teeth cared for now. Have the children see the dentist regularly and frequently. Every child is entitled to the lifetime inheritance of teeth periodically cared for by the dentist. Such perfect teeth as he can assure are bound to contribute a large part toward the success of your child's future business and social life. And they are bound to contribute toward good health.

Get the watchful help of your dentist. And, when pain occurs, use a Poloris Dental Poultice and see your dentist as soon as possible. Poloris has been prescribed by dentists all over the world for 19 years.

Send Your Children To The Dentist Frequently.

Several Inquiries Begun to Fix Blame.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—[Special.]—Too ominous to be shushed or explained away, as many of the details of last Friday's earthquake disaster have been, are the local public's misgivings, voiced several hundred thousand fold, about the safety of southern California's school buildings. As a result of public clamor reflected in newspaper editorials, headlines, radio addresses, and commencement of activity by parent-teachers' associations and women's club leaders, several official investigations today are under way.

Want the "Low-down."

Each investigation seeks the "low down"—the exact facts, and what may be behind them—as to the following:

Why the school houses in Los Angeles, in Long Beach, and other communities, crumpled and collapsed out of all proportion to other types of structures?

What would have been the death toll of innocent children, if the quake, instead of occurring at 5:54 p. m. last Friday evening, had taken place three hours earlier, while school was in session?

What can be done for the future, so that parents will feel certain of the safety of their children, when such a percentage as 142 of Los Angeles 392 school buildings show up in the school districts first reports as suffering quake damage. No other type of building in the area suffered in even one-tenth this proportion.

Investigations Launched.

District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles county set in motion one investigation. Coroner Frank Nance demanded it. The two county officials issued statements declaring that the coroner's inquest over quake victims next Tuesday would take up, "particularly the subject of the failure of the schools," and would seek an adequate explanation for the benefit of a fearful public. For this reason the coroner expects to swear in a panel composed of engineers.

"Coroner Nance has requested the assistance of this office," the district attorney said. "The inquiry at the inquest will have principally to do with the wrecking of public school buildings, several of which were destroyed in the quake. We have requested findings of those engineers now engaged in investigating this condition. If sufficient facts are developed warranting action by the district attorney's office, that action will be promptly forthcoming."

Blames Poor Materials.

An inspection on the part of the district attorney was carried on here by Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction, who came from Sacramento to look for himself at the ruins of schools in Los Angeles, Long Beach, Compton, Huntington Park, and Garden Grove. Kersey today expressed the opinion that "architectural and engineering difficulties and in some cases poor materials," were more responsible for school destruction than poor workmanship.

Edwin T. Keiser, president of the Association of Real Estate Board of Los Angeles County, and former state real estate commissioner for California, said, "responsibility ought to be fixed. I favor an immediate sweeping investigation by the grand jury. The taxpayers and parents must know just who or what was responsible."

Thorough Inquiry Urged.

Keiser said the investigation should be a thorough one, and should "inform us just how much value, per dollar of money expended, has been, delivered to the school authorities by the contractors employed to build the school houses." He also said it was up to Los Angeles officials to determine necessary changes in the building codes for all public structures.

Mr. Keiser's stand was supported by parent-teachers and taxpayers' league organizations.

Three engineering inquiries, all of them semi-official, and in the case of the Los Angeles board of education, participated in by 50 field engineers, today were under way in addition to the district attorney's investigation.

Brazilian Convicts Riot; Fifteen Escape on Raft

SAO PAULO, Brazil, March 16.—(AP)—About 150 convicts rioted on the prison island of Dosporcos, off the port of Santos, today, and 15 men escaped on a raft before troops arrived and restored order.

SUES HUSBAND

RUTH GILLETTE ROBINS.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—(AP)—Ruth Gillette Robins, former musical comedy star, filed suit for divorce today against Rowland O. Robins, cosmetic manufacturer and heir to a large estate. She named Pearl Dannenberg as co-respondent and said Robins had been in the latter's company in San Mateo, Cal., last January.

The Robins were married Dec. 31, 1926, and separated Aug. 29, 1931, the complaint said. While she was playing in "Innocent Eyes," on the New York stage in 1924, the actress caused much comment by having her teeth insured for $100,000. She explained that her continued success in theatrical work depended upon the beauty of her smile.

TECHNOLOGISTS OF NATION FORM SOCIETY HERE

Opposed to Theories of Technocrats.

An organization of technologists, headed by Brig. Gen. William I. Westervelt, technological director of Sears Roebuck & Co., was formed yesterday at a conference in the Morrison hotel for the purpose of working out a plan to readjust society to the machine age and thus eliminate as far as possible the problems of idleness and business depression.

Fifty technologists, representing several sections of the country, compose the group, which is to be known as the All America Technological society.

Group Explains Aims.

The organization's purposes are set forth in the following preamble:

"A plan to organize the engineering, directive and productive technological forces of North and South America into an independent, nonpolitical association, which will aggressively utilize the findings of technological research in the readjustment of society to the machine age, thus eliminating depressions, unemployment, violence and chaos, or dictatorship, and bringing security of livelihood to all."

Officers of the new organization are Gen. Westervelt, chairman; R. M. Gaston, consulting engineer, vice chairman; Benjamin Schrager of the Byllesby Engineering company, treasurer, and E. J. Costello, secretary.

Answer to Technocrats.

The technologists explained that their organization is in no way allied with or similar to technocracy, but rather an answer to the theories presented by the technocrats. In attacking the major economic problems of the day with the aim of providing solutions, the newly formed society will be organized into departments under which every major industry in the country will be grouped and represented by experts.

The organization will sponsor a technological congress, to be held in Chicago the last week in June, at which time the international program will be launched.

DON'T PICK ON GOLDEN GLOVES INVALID CREW!

They're About Ready to Poke Somebody.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The hospital list in the intercity Golden Gloves camp at the Illinois Athletic club remained in status quo yesterday. Several of the boys have not been permitted to box during the afternoon drills, but their absence does not present a problem as yet and neither Dr. Thomas Dwyer nor Coach Johnny Behr is worried over the immediate prospect, since the fights with New York are March 29—13 days distant.

The team is fortunate in that several of the boys who cannot put on the gloves are veterans of two and three years' experience. They know how to start the business of getting into condition, and they will need only a minimum of boxing to sharpen their eyes. Henry Rothier, the welterweight champion, who has been troubled with a boil, is about ready to put on the big gloves.

Caserio Nurses Eye.

Freddie Caserio is resting his eye, which was badly cut during the tournament. None of the boys are working harder, however, in the morning runs out of doors and in the gymnasium than is Freddie. Jack Smith still is nursing a fingernail which undoubtedly he will lose in the near future, but if it were imperative, Jack could step into the ring now.

Harvey Diesch of Milwaukee reported yesterday. He is a light heavyweight. Max Marek, the 175 pound champion, is attending St. Viator, but he'll be in camp over the week-end. Max is training at the college in the meantime. He won his intercity bout in New York last year, and there is no doubt in his mind that he'll repeat that triumph at the Stadium.

Pacek Keeps Busy.

Johnny Pacek, the heavyweight champion, is one of the busiest boys on the squad. Johnny gets up each morning at 6 o'clock to do his road work before going out to Lindblom High school. He is a senior, and will be graduated in June. Pacek then returns to the I. A. C. in time for his boxing drills with the second shift, which is comprised of the 147, 160, 175 pound, and heavyweight classes.

None of the Chicago boxers is worrying about weight. Some of them are under weight now. Johnny Baltzer, the flyweight champion, customarily weighs about 108 pounds, which is five less than necessary according to the rules. Baltzer weighed out yesterday after boxing at 107½ pounds. Lennie Cohen, the flyweight runnerup, weighed 110½ pounds, while Walter Matthys scaled exactly 113 pounds.

Bud Ginter weighted 122½ pounds yesterday. He is the bantamweight champion. The weight limit of 118, plus one pound allowance, places him within easy reach of the poundage required on the afternoon of March 29. Leo Rodak, the featherweight champion, who previously has won the flyweight and bantamweight titles, weighed out yesterday at 126 pounds, one pound under the limit. Eddie Ward, the Negro lightweight champion, also is under the limit. He weighed 133½ pounds yesterday. He was most impressive during his sessions in the ring.

Henry Rothier still is at 152 pounds, four over the limit, but Billy Celebron and King Wyatt, the other welterweights, are at weight.

Easy for Middleweights.

There will no trouble at all in the middleweight class in which Chicago has three of the best amateurs in the country. Caserio scaled 161 pounds yesterday; Treest weighed 157½, and Jim Cummings was at 155.

Adolph Winter, the Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight runnerup, is the biggest of the three in this class. Winter weighs 192 pounds. Johnny Pacek scales 180 pounds and Jack Kranz of Gary, Ind., 179 pounds. There is a possibility that Kranz will make 176 pounds. In this case he may win the runnerup position in the light heavyweight division for the intercity bouts. Two years ago Kranz won the 175 pound championship and defeated his New York opponent.

CHICAGO'S FIGHTING MEN VANQUISH GROCERIES

Amos Alonzo Stagg was guest of honor at the annual University of Chicago alumni dinner last night at the Drake hotel. President Robert M. Hutchins took the opportunity to express the regret felt by faculty, students and alumni over the fact that Stagg is about to leave the university after 42 years of association. He said the institution owed a debt of gratitude to Stagg for the spirit which he had instilled into all those students with whom he had come in contact.

Stagg told how he had seen the university grow, how he had formed many happy associations which he regretted to break and how he had gathered many memories which he would carry with him to his new work.

Toronto Goalie Is Penalized; Wings Win, 1-0

Detroit, Mich., March 16.—(AP)—In a hockey match marked by half a dozen fist fights, a near riot, and a penalty to Lorne Chabot, Toronto goalie, Detroit defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs, 1 to 0, tonight, winding up its home National league hockey season.

In the third period Ace Bailey and Emms exchanged blows. Then Chabot leaned out of his net to strike Goodfellow over the head with his stick and they came to blows, both being banished. They fought again in the penalty box, as fights started among the 12,000 spectators and other players on the ice. Police quelled the disorder. Conacher acted as goalie while Chabot served a penalty and turned back all assaults. Sixteen penalties were called, eight of them in the last period.

BOSTON, AMERICANS TIE.

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Boston and the New York Americans tied, 1 to 1, tonight in their last National Hockey league game of the season. The tie put the Bruins in second place in the American section, a point behind the victorious Detroit Red Wings, and left the Americans three points behind the Montreal Canadiens with two games to go in the international division race.

Both goals were scored in the second period. Alex Smith sank the first unassisted, and Johnny Sheppard evened the count on a pass from Normie Himes when the Bruins were short handed through a penalty.

MONTREAL, Que., March 16.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens protected their hold on third place in the Canadian section of the National Hockey league tonight by defeating the New York Rangers, 2 to 1.

Howie Morenz, Canadiens' center, scored the winning goal on a solo rush early in the third period. Aurel Joliat had opened the scoring in the first period with Sylvio Mantha assisting, but Art Somers equalized for the Rangers in the second period.

MAROONS BEAT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 16.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons defeated Ottawa, 5 to 4, in overtime tonight. The Maroons overcame a two goal lead in the third period and won the game on Dave Trottier's goal in the last two minutes of overtime play. Trottier and Wally Kilrea had kept the Maroons in the game with a pair of goals in the third period, after Ottawa had gained a 4 to 2 lead in the first two periods.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

GOLDEN GLOVES from the competitive side will reach a new peak in the intercity bouts between New York and Chicago at the Stadium March 29.

Never before have America's two leading cities been represented by so many high class amateur boxers. New York, which won 12 bouts to 4 last year, has a better balanced team, even though there are only three or four holdovers on the squad of 16.

The caliber of the Chicago tournament was greatly improved this season. Probably every good glove wielder in the middle west had his fling at winning a Golden Glove. It is not surprising that out of a field of nearly 5,000 entrants should come the strongest squad Chicago has had.

After watching the championship bouts in the Chicago meet we were willing to pick Max Marek, light heavyweight winner, to whip any amateur of his weight in the world. He looked that good throughout the tournament. But after seeing Bob Pastor, New York 175 pound champion, knock out Nick Masters, a better than ordinary opponent, in the finals at Madison Square Garden we are not at all sure Marek is the best light heavyweight in the game.

Pastor, an intercity winner in 1932, has improved as rapidly as Marek. He is a terrific puncher. With two or three exceptions all the New York boys rely on solid wallops for victory. Pastor was up against another slugger in Masters. The bout was not 15 seconds old before Masters sent his foe to one knee with a right to the head. But there was no stopping Pastor. That blow served only to infuriate him. He banged both hands to Masters' head until the latter sagged to the floor. He barely lasted the round. Three knockdowns in the second round and the referee stopped the match to save Masters further punishment.

Amateur boxers are like race horses. One night they work like champions. The next they look like platers. But neither Pastor nor Marek had a poor fight in his respective tournament. They were champions all the way. Their meeting at Chicago Stadium March 29 in itself will be worth more than the price of a ringside seat. There will be 15 other bouts, however, and any one of them or all of them may develop situations more thrilling.

New York has exceptional strength in the flyweight and bantamweight classes. The 112 pound champion, Charles Greene, is as skillful a worker as you will find in amateur ranks. He whipped a Golden Gloves veteran, Jimmie Siclari, to win his title. Julie Katz, bantam winner, had the battle of his life to defeat Louis Camps. The decision was so unpopular that the crowd would not permit the introduction of the following fighters. Both boys appear stronger than Chicago's 118 pounders, John Ginter and Robert Iverson.

If you like boxers—I mean boxers who are willing to fight—you will not miss the biggest treat the sport provides—Chicago vs. New York. There is no keener rivalry anywhere. The 32 boys who climb into the Stadium ring March 29 are there to fight. To fight for New York and to fight for Chicago.

The team that wins will lead the series. As it now stands New York has won twice, Chicago twice, and there has been one tie.

Make sure you will be able to take in the show. Order your tickets today.

RUTH AN ASSET, BUT WHO CAN AFFORD HIM?

National League Might Be Able to Exceed $50,000.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—I have been trying to think of some way by which the New York Yankees and the American league could peddle Babe Ruth over into the National league, possibly to the Cubs, for the two, or maybe three, remaining years of his active career. However, I am not very good at thinking and the best I can do with the proposition is sort of rattle it around and kick it about to see how it sounds.

They seem to be tired of the old Babe in the American league after all these years and certainly there is no other firm in the organization, the Junior circuit, as we have been calling it for these last twenty-some seasons, to which he could turn for employment at a larger salary than the current bid of $50,000 from Col. Jake Ruppert. Even if the laws of the baseball business and the terms of the one-sided standard players' contract would permit the Babe to shop around in his old league for a better job than Jake offers him, there would be no American league magnate who could outbid Ruppert or would even try.

Past His Prime.

The melancholy fact is that the Babe has passed his prime not only as an athlete but as a drawing card in all of the eight parks in which he has been appearing as a routine attraction since he first became an attraction in 1920. His pay has been cut to $50,000 for 1933 and this fee is about twice as much as any other employer in the league would care to pledge to any one player, even a second hand Ruth, under present conditions. The American league customers have seen so much of him and his prodigious feats with the ball bat that they do not appreciate him any more and will not appreciate him again until he has gone by entirely and become a legend.

In the National league, however, he would confront a new clientele in at least four places—namely: the Cubs' park, Chicago, in Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, and Brooklyn, and his drawing powers would be refreshed by the change as probably would his enthusiasm also.

My trouble is in finding some National league owner with big enough money and sufficient daring and showmanship to bid his price back up to the $75,000 which Jake Ruppert paid him last year. I suppose it would have to be the Wrigley estate of Chicago, which is a more liberal spender than the Barney Dreyfuss estate of Pittsburgh, the Charles H. Ebbets estate of Brooklyn, or the William Baker estate of Philadelphia. Mr. Stoneham, who owns the Giants, undoubtedly can find more urgent uses for $75,000, and so can Judge Emil Fuchs, the owner of the Boston Braves, whose problems of the moment are closely allied to Mr. Stoneham's.

Should Pro-Rate Wages.

They would have to be practical men about it in the National league, however, in the event of their undertaking to buy and support Babe Ruth. Inasmuch as at least half the league and probably more than half would receive a distinct benefit from the Babe's transfer to their midst the magnates should have to pro-rate the cost of his purchase and also contribute toward his wages, which should have been done in the American league years ago. If it had been done in the American league, the Babe, in his prime, would have drawn more than $100,000 a year for several years, instead of stopping at a maximum of $85,000. He made money for seven American league firms which made no money for him.

The old Babe can get along, no doubt, on the $50,000, but if he has any more money coming to him out of baseball, through the National league or whatever source, he ought to be allowed to collect it. Moreover, national institution that he is, the customers of the other league should be let to see and admire him if they are prepared to show him greater appreciation than his old following of the American league.

I think Mr. Ruth would be a strong business stimulant in the National league, which needs one this year.

French Team Regains Lead in Bike Race

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Red Devils, Al Letourner and Gerard Debaets, regained undisputed possession of first place in the six day bicycle race early this morning following a wild session of jamming.

Freddie Spencer and Dave Lands had wheeled into a tie for the lead shortly before midnight when they picked up three laps in the most spirited rally of the race.

Three teams—Rodak and Peden, Spencer and Lands, and Jimmy Walthour and Ritter—were tied for second place, a lap behind, and the big caravan, which was some 1,500 miles out and which should have been somewhere near Flagler street in Miami or Central avenue in Phoenix, Ariz., was no longer composed of peace loving passengers.

Fights Break Out.

Fighting among the sleepy cyclists has been breaking out here and there along the route. The situation has become so serious that the conductor, Mr. Harry Mendel, is near a state of exhaustion. He has pulled the boys apart so frequently most of his strength has ebbed away.

Along late in the afternoon came the most serious conflict of all.

The fighters were Letourner and Spencer. Letourner and Gerard Debaets, who comprise the Red Devil team, were leading the race by a lap. Spencer had been right in the thick of the fight for the lead ever since the journey started.

Plenty of Spills.

There were all kinds of spills during the night. Peden, Wagner, and Le Page went down in one jamboree. Peden's leg was bruised, but he was back in the saddle in ten minutes. Ritter went to sleep and tumbled down the steep incline all alone. He wasn't hurt, but was mad as a hornet because the spill ended a dream which had just carried him into a feather bed.

A few seconds later Schaller and Audy fell. Dr. Mendel took charge of the case. He came up with a five inch pine splinter which he declared he had just extracted from the thick part of Audy's shoulder.

Results of the 1 o'clock sprints:

1. Dempsey, Peden, Debaets, Audy.
2. B. Walthour, Hill, Lands, Le Page.

BUSH, ENGLISH AND Z. TAYLOR ARE INJURED

Better Pitching Helps Hose.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—The White Sox, who were knocked about yesterday in the first half of the transplanted city series, had a little better pitching today and indulged themselves to the limit, whipping the Cubs, 9 to 6, to even the series.

The unexpected feature was the liberties the Sox took with Guy Bush and Charley Root, two of the Cubs' pitching notables who were presumed to be ready to earn their pay. Bush vanished after four innings, during which four runs and eight hits were accumulated. Root hung on for three innings, in one of which two runs, one a homer by Manager Lew Fonseca, were recorded.

Buck Newsom was manhandled so extensively that he was mercifully withdrawn after one inning. Then Lynn Nelson hurled the ninth, but if Stanley Hack hadn't made a dizzy stop of a drive by Fonseca there would have been more business at the plate.

Frasier Needs Work.

The Sox's pitching staff had its disappointments, but nevertheless it was about as anticipated. Ed Durham, the ex-Bostonian, who is figured as a regular, stopped the Cubs on two hits and an unearned run in three innings. George Murray from the Texas league wasn't particularly impressive as a successor, yielding three runs and five hits in three innings. Then came Vic Frasier and he encountered plenty of trouble, but most of it because of his wildness. This should disappear with more work. Frasier at least showed traces of his deadly fast ball which he lost last season because of illness.

The Cubs not only took a beating but also a few distasteful extras. Three of their stalwarts were sent to Doc Lotshaw's clinic. The first patient was Bush. In the last play of the fourth inning a drive off Fonseca's bat thumped against his right forearm and he'll have to rest for a week. Zack Taylor, while running the bases in the fourth, sustained a charley horse in his left leg. Then English slid into base on a double in the fifth and gave his left ankle a severe twist. He, however, may be out only a few days.

Bush Has Trouble.

With one out in the second inning Dykes bounced a dribbler to the right of Bush and beat it out for a hit, starting the Sox off to a run. Grube then was hit by a pitched ball. Durham fanned, but Hayes poked one of those low trick flies behind short and when the running ceased Dykes had scored, Grube was on third, and Hayes was on second. This provided Haas with a chance to make the headlines, but he grounded to Hendrick.

With the help of Appling's error the Cubs were able to climb into a tie in their half of the second. Stephenson singled to right. Hendrick grounded to short and there was a possibility of a double play, but the ball hopped through Appling into the outfield, letting Stevie go to third. Zack Taylor then singled over short, scoring Stevie.

Then Sox Get Mad.

The Sox actually became mean in the fourth and nicked Bush for three runs without the help of their best hitters. Swanson, who had Kress' place in right, singled, as did Dykes. Swanson scored and Dykes went to third on Grube's single. Grube rubbed it in by stealing second. Funk batted for Durham and uncorked a long fly on which Dykes scored. A moment later Hayes singled and Bush unloosed a wild pitch on which Grube hiked home.

The Cubs promptly cooked up a reception for Murray in the fourth and got back a pair of runs. Babe Herman dropped a single in right and so did Stevie, Babe taking third. Hendrick walked and on Zack Taylor's tap to Dykes Herman was forced at the plate. Jurges then doubled past third, scoring Stephenson and Hendrick.

More blasting of Murray's offerings permitted the Cubs to tie the score in the fifth. Billy Herman singled and English doubled to right, scoring Billy. This was where English had to withdraw.

Fonseca Hits Homer.

The rumblings against Root in the seventh inning began when Fonseca boosted a homer over the left center field wall, breaking the 4 to 4 tie. Appling drilled a two bagger into the left field corner, went to third on a wild pitch and home on Swanson's double to right.

Newsom showed up in a Cub hurling role in the eighth and things happened immediately. He walked Hayes and Haas, who advanced on Fonseca's bunt and scored on Appling's triple past Babe Herman. Swanson walked and with Appling worked a double steal, on which the latter scored.

Frazier looked like his old self in the seventh and also as he set down Cuyler and Babe Herman in the eighth. Then Stephenson hit a homer over the left field wall. Hendrick walked, Campbell singled and Jurges walked. The uprising should have ended here, but Hayes fumbled a roller by Demaree, who batted for Newsom, and Hendrick scored. The next batter popped out. There was nothing startling after this, except that the Cubs filled the bags on Frasier in the ninth. Campbell fouled out to end the show.

TITLE CHANCE IS ROSS' GOAL IN PETROLLE BOUT

Will Meet Canzoneri if He Whips Billy Wednesday.

In the event that Barney Ross, Chicago boxer, defeats Billy Petrolle of Duluth, Minn., in a 10 round bout at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday, a lightweight title contest between Ross and Champion Tony Canzoneri is assured. Petrolle is the last obstacle to the match for Ross. Canzoneri is willing to face the Chicago boxer and Sam Goldman, manager of the champion, will arrive Sunday to reopen negotiations for the bout if Ross is the winner Wednesday.

The site for the proposed Ross-Canzoneri contest is problematical. New York is bidding against Chicago. For that reason the Illinois athletic commission has pledged itself to help close the Ross-Canzoneri contest and hopes to see it presented at one of the big league parks here this summer.

Triner Sees Governor.

Joe Triner, commission chairman, said yesterday that the fans want good matches and that the state athletic body does also, because of their revenue. He returned yesterday from Springfield, where he conferred with Gov. Horner and state representatives. Triner and Commissioner Packey McFarland amended the 15 round bill, which passed the Illinois senate in February, and they expect the amendment to be out of the house and sent to the governor for his signature next Tuesday. It passed first reading yesterday and will be up for second reading today.

Petrolle Keeps Busy.

Petrolle sparred three rounds yesterday at Kid Howard's gymnasium for the Ross bout, two with Prince Saunders and one with Lou Vine, while Barney rested.

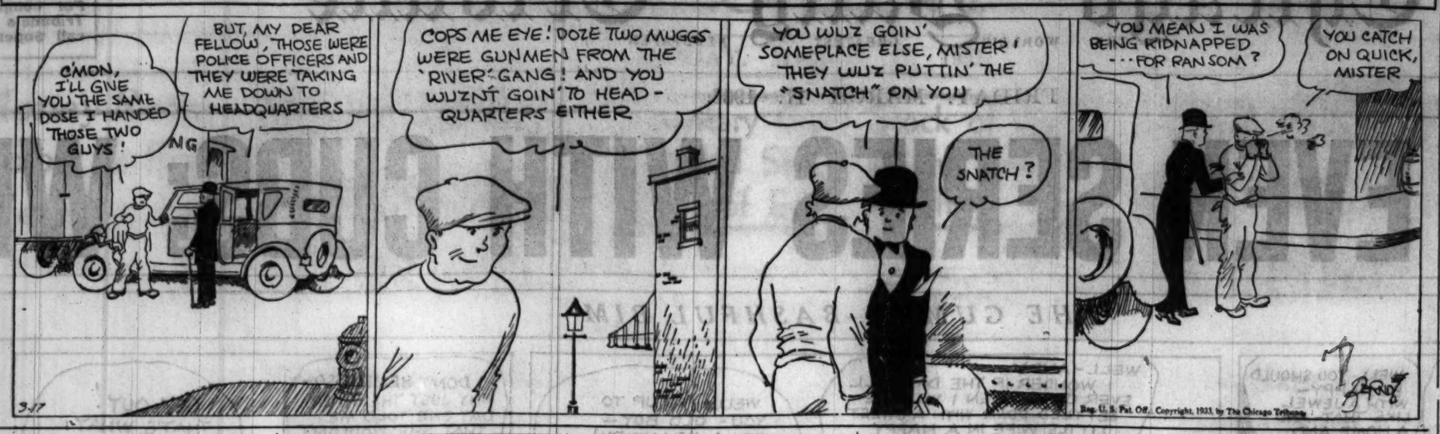
The Chicago Golden Gloves team which meets New York's champions at the Stadium on March 29 will attend an amateur show tonight at Kid Howard's gymnasium, 116 Madison street. . . . Eddie Shea will face Baby Manuel at Miami, Fla., March 27. . . . Billy Jones and Tony Shucco have been matched to meet on the Maxie Rosenbloom-Bob Godwin card at New York next Friday. . . . Jack Moran and Jack Kilbourne are to battle in an eight round contest at White City Monday.

Johnny Phagan and Harry Schuman, west side welterweights, will meet in a six round contest tonight at the Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. The match will be their second, Phagan winning the first one in January. Dick Sisk, Brighton Park 145 pound boxer, and Danny Delmont of the west side are to clash in the six round semi-windup. Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, will substitute for Jerry Kucera against Jack Ripp in a four round match. Others are: Joey Kleko vs. Leo Ranieri, Walter Jerz vs. Bobby Vernon, Jimmy Eliopoulos vs. Eddie Evans and Clarence Ballard vs. Johnny Terry.

Solly Dukelsky, west side 147 pound boxer, signed last night to face Bill Connell of Monmouth, Ill., in an eight round match at Loyola university gymnasium Monday. It will be their third meeting.

All claims against the Chicago Stadium corporation must be filed by June 1 under an order issued yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Subsequent to that date, no claims will be given consideration.

SMITTY—A CLOSE SAVE



Records Due to Fall in Big Ten Swim Tonight

Big Ten Records

20 YARD POOL.

Big Ten swimming records for 20 yard pools are likely to fall tonight and tomorrow night at Bartlett gymnasium in the 23d annual conference swimming meet. Michigan and Northwestern, chief rivals in recent years, are the leading contenders. The Wolverines won last year. Preliminaries will be held tonight, with the finals tomorrow night.

During the last two years the meet has been held in 25 yard pools, which involve one less turn per 100 yards than do the 20 yard tanks. Separate sets of records are kept for the two pool sizes, and the fact that the short length records have not been touched for two years, during which the caliber of performance has been raised remarkably, makes a festival of record smashing certain.

Johnny Schmieler of Michigan appears to be the leading individual entrant. Big Ten record holder, over the long course, in the 200 yard breast stroke, and the 220 yard free style, Schmieler is likely to forego the breast stroke competition to enter the relays or the back stroke event.

The 100 yard free style event will bring the best battle, with Schmeller and Art Highland of Northwestern the leaders in a field of 25 entrants, and Renner of Michigan and Flackman of Illinois to push them past the records. All four have been swimming the distance close to Al Schwartz's mark of :52.8.

Crippled Hawks Need Rest After Roughest Game

Rest for the remainder of the week has been prescribed by Manager Tommy Gorman as the chief training requirement for his Blackhawk hockey team, following its return late Wednesday from Boston.

Tuesday night's game in Boston, in which Gorman was ejected from the arena for protesting an overtime goal and striking Referee Stewart, added five more invalids to the squad, bringing the total number of injured players to eight.

The Boston game, which was forfeited to the Bruins, 1 to 0, was one of the roughest of the year, players said. Mush March came out of it with an injured arm, sustained in a crash with Eddie Shore. Gottselig sustained a badly cut eye. Paul Thompson had several teeth knocked loose. Jenkins returned with a severe cut on the wrist and Burch is nursing a complete and painful set of bruises.

Gorman, however, expects to use the five in Sunday afternoon's game against the Detroit Red Wings at the Stadium. Likewise he expects to play Lolo Couture and Teddy Graham, who returned from Ottawa earlier in the week for medical treatment. Taffy Abel, who accompanied Graham and Couture, will not be available.

Players and club officials continued to maintain their silence yesterday on Tuesday night's argument at Boston, principally because the league constitution definitely forbids the making of statements for publication by club officials and players attacking the conduct of referees in any league game.

ARTILLERY GETS 5 GOAL HANDICAP IN POLO FINALS

When North Shore meets the 124th Field artillery tomorrow night in the finals of the Metropolitan Polo league tournament at the artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street, the military trio will enter the game with a five goal head start.

This became known yesterday when announcement of ratings placed the North Shore poloists at 13 goal strength and the artillery at 8 goals.

Up to a few days ago North Shore was a 12 goal team. The boost in team strength by one goal is due to the action of the national handicapping committee in raising Herb Lorber, North Shore captain, from four to five goals. His teammates, Frank Bering and Jim Hannah, are rated at four goals each.

For the 124th F. A., Maj. Richard G. Hunter, team captain, and Lieut. Chris Schuh are handicapped at three goals, and Steve Hammond at two.

The 124th F. A. Cardinals will play the 122d Field artillery in the junior division.

Five Championship Games in District Meet Tonight

Five championship games will be played tonight at White City in the Chicago district basketball championship tournament. The remaining titles will be settled on the same floor tomorrow night. St. Hyacinth will meet Covenant Baptist for the men's church title tonight. The schedule:

Lamon M. E. Church vs. Pilgrim Baptist [girls' church].
St. Hyacinth vs. Covenant Baptist [men's church].

Whoopers Whoop It Up for Bob on Shell Creek

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shell Creek, Fla., March 16.—The warm March sun was just dipping below the pines and cabbage palms along this stream last night when a flock of eight long legged birds lifted their necks and gave our fishing party a noisy Bronx cheer. And eight sand hill cranes can certainly trumpet loud and long. Theirs is one of the most interesting bird calls heard in south central and southwestern Florida.

No northern bird student can fail to be intrigued either by the sight of the sand hill crane slowly walking over a burned prairie or by the sound of its musical trumpeting. Commonly called whooper down here, this bird fortunately is still quite common on the Florida prairies, although we have a hunch that not a few rural residents take pot shots at them because they are considered good eating.

Last night when we followed a winding sand road leading from Shell creek the eight birds were in full voice. They were bugling and trumpeting as if they couldn't agree on their roost for the night. Stopping the car, we finally located the whoopers about 200 yards away, warily watching us with their long necks outstretched, apparently ready to take flight.

Seeing and hearing the cranes was a fitting climax to a day on Shell creek battling black bass. Shell creek is a wilderness stream in its upper reaches, a tropical, clear water river, devoid of summer cottages, resorts or even fishing shacks. It is so isolated, so quiet up there one expects to hear nothing but the rustle of a squirrel among the cabbage palms, the whistle of a cardinal, or the splash of an alligator as he slides from his sunning spot.

Although Shell creek normally is quiet, there was plenty of noise on the stream when our party was tossing lures at the large mouth bass. The noise was justified. The fish struck with a vengeance for the first few hours, including one 5 pound 3 ounce bass, which initiated a new and hitherto unused fly rod. This big fellow threw water all over the place before he gave up.

FIRST CHICAGO TEAMS ROLL IN A. B. C. TONIGHT

Columbus, O., March 16.—[Special.]—Activities in the American Bowling congress will get into full swing tomorrow. Officials and delegates will be on hand from all sections of the country for the annual A. B. C. meeting, and the first invasion of star bowlers is scheduled on the 28 alleys in the Coliseum.

Columbus booster teams and a few from nearby cities have monopolized the drives since the opening, March 9, but tomorrow's schedule finds regulars from 20 cities pegging away. There will be 12 teams from Chicago.

Elmer H. Baumgarten of Chicago is expected to succeed A. L. Langtry of Milwaukee as national secretary. Langtry, after serving the organization for 25 years, became ill after the close of the 1932 tournament and Baumgarten was appointed temporary secretary. Langtry's salary was $10,000 a year and a bonus on team entries.

Peoria probably will be selected as the site for the 1934 tournament, although Syracuse may give the Illinois town some competition.

Among the Chicagoans bowling tomorrow will be George Bangart and Peter Howley, who are the only two men to take part in the last 33 A. B. C. tournaments.

Jeby Made Favorite Over Vince Dundee Tonight

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Ben Jeby today was rated the favorite to retain his middleweight championship tomorrow night against Vince Dundee. Jeby seems definitely on the upgrade. He has been fighting oftener and his opponents have been of a higher caliber. The distance is 15 rounds.

Cubs Move Up North to Play Pirates Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—The Chicago Cubs left at 8:30 o'clock tonight for San Francisco, where tomorrow afternoon they will engage their most highly respected rivals, the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pittsburgh will furnish the opposition for four games in three days—tomorrow and Saturday afternoons in San Francisco, Sunday morning in Oakland, and Sunday afternoon in San Francisco.

After enjoying a day off on Monday, March 20, the Cubs will play the San Francisco Seals on four successive days. Then they go to Sacramento for a couple of days before returning to Los Angeles for two games with Hollywood and three with the Pirates.

Yerkes is scheduled to pitch for the Cubs against the 1932 runners-up tomorrow. The boys have no dope on the identity of the gents who will pitch to them.

Newsom, who started the earthquake terror anecdotes by escaping from a barber chair half shorn and appearing in Pershing park still wearing the apron, was happy he had not been assigned to remain in Los Angeles to join the Angels.

"The sure way to make a South Carolina plowboy out of me is to order me to play in Los Angeles," says Buck. "I wouldn't play in Los Angeles for $10,000 a month."

It was estimated that Guy Bush will be unable to pitch for a week as a result of getting hit in the right arm by Fonseca's line drive in the fouth inning. Z. Taylor expects his new charleyhorse to endure for a similar period. Hartnett's cracked fingernail will remain sore for several days.

The next meeting between the Cubs and Sox will be at Comiskey park on Saturday, April 8. And they'll play at Wrigley field the next day.

The Cubs move out of Los Angeles with a record of three defeats and one victory with the Giants at Wrigley field, one defeat and no victories over the Angels, and an even break with the Sox.

The Cubs and Sox got their first sight of California raindrops today. There was a light shower a half hour before game time and big black clouds all day. It was the second successive afternoon that there were no quakes during the course of the athletic activity at Wrigley field.

Tomorrow the Sox will go through routine training didoes, but they'll be back at Wrigley field Saturday and Sunday for games with the New York Giants.

SAVOLDI CRUEL, SAYS WIFE; SHE SEEKS DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—[Special.]—A suit for divorce was filed today against Joe Savoldi, wrestler and former Notre Dame football player. His wife, Daisy Florence Savoldi of Santa Monica, charged cruelty. They separated last October after 13 months of married life.

Mrs. Savoldi said that previous to the separation Joe frequently told her their marriage had been a mistake. She complained he would remain away from home for several days and nights.

Women Bowlers Resume Title Match Tomorrow

THREE RECORDS BROKEN, ONE TIED AT MIAMI TRACK

Mr. Sponge Comes Close to World Mark.

Miami, Fla., March 16.—[Special.]—Three track records were set at Tropical Park today and another equaled.

Mr. Sponge won the five and one-half furlongs of the featured Ponce de Leon purse in 1:04, reducing the old mark made last year by Panetian by four-fifths of a second. Iron Mask holds the world record of 1:03 2-5, which was set at Juarez in Mexico in 1914 under 150 pounds. Mr. Sponge had 120 in the saddle today and was piloted by Silvio Coucci, who scored a triple.

The first new track record came in the second event, when Race Street came from behind to win by a length in :47 2-5. The old mark was :48, set by Capsheaf a year ago. It was the first four furlong race for juveniles of the season here.

The other record came in the Del Prado purse, fifth on the card. Broadway Lights, in the money in his five starts previous to today, finally broke the ice. He was timed in 1:37 3-5 for the mile, lowering the old mark by a second.

GREY HIP PAYS $500.

New Orleans, La., March 16.—(AP)—Grey Hip, a 2 year old making the second start of his career, won the opening race at the Fair Grounds by four lengths today and paid $500.60 for $2 to win. He returned $354.80 for a place ticket, $52.40 to show. In his only other race Grey Hip finished eleventh.

20 MORE STATE BANKS OPEN IN ILLINOIS TODAY

Oak Park, Wheaton, Cicero on List.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Twenty more Illinois state banks—three in Chicago suburbs—were given permits to reopen this morning by State Auditor Barrett late last night.

Oak Park residents, who have been without banking facilities since President Roosevelt declared a bank holiday on March 3, were cheered by the announcement that the Avenue State bank of Oak Park would reopen this morning. The reopening of this and other Oak Park banks has been delayed by the extra work required in examining the records.

At the same time Barrett granted permits to reopen the Cicero State bank of Cicero and the Wheaton Trust and Savings bank of Wheaton.

17 Downstate Banks to Open.

In addition seventeen more downstate banks received permission to reopen this morning. The list is:

HILLSBORO—Montgomery County Loan and Trust company.
MASCOUTAH—Bank of Mascoutah.
SYCAMORE—First Trust and Savings bank of Sycamore.
ELDORADO—C. P. Burnett & Sons, bankers.
BRIMFIELD—Exchange State bank.
MURPHYSBORO—Murphysboro Savings bank.
BURLINGTON—State Bank of Burlington.
ONARGA—Onarga State bank.
PALOMA—Paloma Exchange bank.
LIBERTY—Farmers' Bank of Liberty.
CHESTER—First State Bank of Chester.
WINCHESTER—Neat, Condit & Grout, bankers.
ROYAL—Royal State bank.
MINIER—Farmers' State Bank of Minier.
CLARENCE—Clarence State bank.
HOLCOMB—Holcomb State bank.

All were authorized to open without restrictions. No statement accompanied the list.

Banking Nears Normal.

Banking conditions in the middle west moved a step nearer normal earlier yesterday with the reopening of banks that had been given permits the previous night. The day's reopenings brought the total of banks operating on an unrestricted basis in the Chicago federal reserve district to nearly 1,000.

At the same time gold continued to flow back to the reserve bank as today's deadline neared. Names of persons who have withdrawn gold or gold certificates since Feb. 1 and have not returned them by the close of business today will be turned over to the treasury department.

Deposits continued to gain throughout the district. It was estimated that more than 180 millions of deposits has been returned to Chicago banks since last Monday.

Three banks in Chicago and suburbs opened during the day. An influx of deposits was reported by officials of all banks. The banks reopening were the Edison Park State Savings bank, 6237 Olmsted avenue; Drexel State, 3944 Cottage Grove avenue, and the Western State, 5600 West 22d street, Cicero.

Best Day in Year.

W. J. Connor, cashier of the Edison Park State Savings, said that the bank had experienced its best day in more than a year. Deposits were heavy and withdrawals light, he declared.

The Drexel State bank opened with $250,000 new money raised among the business men in the Oakland square district. The new capital was raised on recommendation of the treasury department. The bank has been a member of the federal reserve system for several years.

Twenty-four downstate banks reopened for unrestricted business during the day. Two of these are new members of the reserve system, whose applications were accepted. They are the Rock River Community bank of Byron and the First National bank, Stockton. The Stockton bank is a newly organized institution.

All on Unrestricted Basis.

The eighty-six state banks which have reopened in Illinois are all operating on an unrestricted basis, as are the 240 reserve member banks which have been granted licenses. Wisconsin is the only state in the seventh district which has allowed state banks to resume operation on a limited scale.

In the meantime the downtown Chicago banks which have been operating without restrictions since Monday morning reported further increases in deposits and gold receipts.

Officials of the reserve bank announced that Wednesday's receipts of gold and gold certificates totaled $9,000,000, bringing the grand total received in the last 12 days to 60½ millions. With yesterday's receipts the total received to date is above 65 millions.

Charles N. Steele, president of the First National bank of Waukegan, announced yesterday that directors have requested the secretary of the treasury to appoint a conservator for the institution.

Money Rates Drop as Bank Tension Eases

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—Rates in the money market retreated virtually all along the line today after having held firm since the reopening of the banks on Monday.

A prominent bill dealer started the movement toward lower discounts on acceptances by announcing a reduction of one-quarter of 1 per cent for all maturities, making the lowered rate 3¼ per cent bid and 3⅜ asked for maturities up to and including 90 days. This restored the level existing on Friday, March 3, the day before the declaration of the bank moratorium. Other dealers followed.

Call Rate Cut 1 Per Cent.

The official renewal rate for call money was reduced from 5 to 4 per cent early in the afternoon, the first reduction since the holiday. Funds had been lending at 4½ outside the exchange before the official reduction.

Call loans on bankers' acceptances, which had been quoted as high as 4 to 4¼ per cent, were available at 3½ per cent. Fewer bankers' bills came into the market, while the demand was reported fairly good.

Previous higher rates had been regarded in the street as temporary, and there was some question whether they were justified. The money situation is being steadily eased by the rapid rate at which the member banks are returning currency to the Federal Reserve bank and so reducing their heavy debt to that institution incurred before the bank holiday was declared.

Return Gold and Currency.

Banks in this district alone had repaid $152,000,000 in currency to the reserve in the last three days, besides turning in more than half the $206,000,000 of gold and gold certificates. This is going on in a lesser degree all over the country.

However, it will be recalled that the banks of the reserve system had borrowed nearly $1,100,000,000 from the reserve banks in the two weeks before the bank holiday.

The dollar weakened against the British pound today, indicating substantial purchases of sterling, which moved it up to 3.47, an advance of 1¾. French francs were lower at .0395, a decline of 5-16.

Chicago banks and acceptance dealers followed the lead of New York yesterday and made similar reductions in interest rates on short term paper.

PLANS RESERVE BANK HELP TO NONMEMBERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—The Robinson amendment to the emergency banking legislation to permit state banks not members of the federal reserve system to apply directly to the reserve banks for assistance was scrapped today. A substitute, said to bear administration approval, was prepared by Representatives Steagall of Alabama, chairman of the house banking and currency committee. Action on the new amendment is expected tomorrow.

The substitute, in the opinion of Mr. Steagall, is what the small nonmember banks have sought. Its effect would be to permit the reserve banks to extend currency directly to these nonmember banks for a period of not more than one year, on collateral other than that held eligible prior to the adoption of the emergency legislation, giving such collateral the same circulation privileges.

The proposal did not contain one section of the Robinson measure to permit the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans to any conservator, named under the provisions of the emergency banking legislation to take over the affairs of banks.

The senate tonight passed the Bulkley bill to permit the Reconstruction Finance corporation to purchase notes and debentures of state banks in states where preferred stock must carry double liability.

MARCH INCOME TAX PAYMENTS NEAR YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—Income taxes began to reflect the rush to pay the first installments on 1932 incomes on March 14, when the receipts for that day jumped more than $2,500,000 to a total of $6,781,232. The jam of taxpayers held up through the bank holiday was somewhat decreased by deferment of the final day for filing returns by the internal revenue bureau.

Income tax receipts for the month are not far behind those for the corresponding period of last year, amounting to $20,422,339 in the 14 days, as compared to $25,561,864 a year ago. For the fiscal year since last July 1, income tax revenues have amounted to $403,759,367, compared with $683,683,207 in the corresponding months of the previous year.

RESERVE BANKS REGAINING GOLD; 327 MILLIONS

Members Borrowing $181,260,000 Less.

(Statistics on page 26, column 8.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—A swift rebound from the impact of the banking crisis is revealed in this week's report of the federal reserve system covering the week ended on Wednesday night, which includes the first three days of progressive reopening of banks.

The system's statement, issued at midnight last night, shows a reduction of $269,000,000 in money in circulation, a gain of $327,238,000 in the gold holdings of the federal reserve banks, a decline of $181,620,000 in member bank borrowings from the central banking system, and a rise in the ratio of reserve to notes and deposits combined from 45.6 per cent last week to 49.1 per cent this week.

Money Returns to Banks.

Although the total of all kinds of money in circulation in the country, which had risen $1,550,000,000 in the two previous weeks to a record high of $7,538,000,000, showed a substantial retirement, the amount of federal reserve notes in circulation actually increased $77,696,000 in the week.

In addition $3,301,000 of the new federal reserve bank notes were issued, the entire amount having been put out by the New York Federal Reserve bank. Combining the two items gives a total of $80,997,000 of additional currency issued by the system in the week covered by the report.

The apparent discrepancy between the fact that the total volume of money in circulation fell $269,000,000 in the week, while the currency issued by the reserve banks was rising, is due apparently to the factor of the return of hoarded gold. Gold coins and gold certificates in the hands of the public make up part of the total volume of money in circulation.

Evidently while these hoards have been flowing back with sufficient volume to lift the gold reserves of the system $327,238,000 in a week, not all of the currency paid out to redeem the hoards has yet found its way back to the banks.

Reserve Gold Above 3 Billions.

The recovery of gold by the reserve system lifted its holdings to $3,010,777,000 as of Wednesday night, which compared with the year's high of $3,258,701,000 reached on Jan. 25 and the low for the year reported last week at $2,683,539,000. The present holdings are substantially above the low of last year, reached on June 15, when the reserve system reported gold holdings of $2,561,195,000.

The total monetary gold stocks of the country, which include gold held by the federal reserve banks, by the treasury, and in circulation, amounted on Wednesday to $4,251,000,000, a gain of $8,000,000 in the week. This gain resulted partly from receipts of gold from abroad which had been en route when the gold embargo was laid down and partly from new gold mined and brought to the assay office.

None of the large return flow of hoarded gold was reflected in this figure because all gold held within the country is counted in the monetary stocks, whether it is in the hands of the public or in the vaults of the central banks.

Return of Gold Aids Banks.

The effects of the return movement of gold in relieving the position of the member banks of the federal reserve was shown in the drop of $181,620,000 in their borrowings from the reserve banks and in a rise of $191,000,000 in their reserve balances on deposit with the banks of issue.

The member banks received almost no help from the reserve banks in paying off their discounts, for the system made no important additions to its portfolio of securities. Its holdings of bankers' bills decreased $13,973,000 in the week, while its holdings of United States government securities were up $18,240,000. This latter item was due entirely to the temporary factor of a treasury overdraft of $19,000,000 drawn in connection with the tax date financing.

The New York Reserve bank showed a gain of $63,937,000 in its gold holdings, but its circulation of federal reserve notes was up $25,124,000 and it also carried on its statement of liabilities the entire amount of the $3,301,000 of the new federal reserve bank notes issued in the week.

Urges Illinois Learn to Use Its Waterway

Illinois has a $110,000,000 waterway and it is now up to industry and business in the state to make full use of it if this large expenditure is to be justified. This statement was made yesterday by Maj. Spencer A. Merrell of La Salle, head of the Illinois River Navigation company, who early this week brought to Chicago the first cargo through the waterway from St. Louis and intermediate points.

"The lack of terminal facilities is now one of the chief obstacles to efficient use of our waterway," Maj. Merrell said. "But even more important for the future is the necessity for our business men to get acquainted with it. They must get themselves out of the rut and ship by waterway when they can do so advantageously or Illinois may lose this great advantage."

Cites Cheaper Grain Rates.

Maj. Merrell asserted that grain could be brought to Chicago at rates substantially lower than rates charged by the railorads, a factor of real importance under existing low prices for grains.

"We could move corn to Chicago," Maj. Merrell said, "if there were any facilities for unloading it. Three elevators which might have served, burned down and there is none available now which has unloading devices to take the grain from barges.

"A concentration point is being developed at Morris, Ill., to handle grain and we could bring it to Chicago in a day from that point. Farmers' cooperatives, backed by La Salle and Marseilles capital, are building general loading facilities at Morris, Ottawa, Marseilles, Peru, and Hennepin."

Tells Traffic Plans.

The Illinois River Navigation company now has two tow boats and leases barges for the transportation of goods when needed.

Maj. Merrell plans to leave Chicago tomorrow or Sunday with about 650 tons of steel from the Chicago steel district for delivery at Memphis. He also plans to take general merchandise, such as paint, etc., on the same trip. Stops will be made at Peoria and St. Louis. He expects the journey to Memphis to be made in six days.

'NO NEW TAXES,' RAINEY PREDICTS TO BUSINESSMEN

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Speaker of the House Henry T. Rainey, addressing the eighth annual drug, chemical and allied trades dinner tonight, said the administration plans to balance the budget without imposing any new taxes.

"I am able to assure you," he said, "that there will be no more irritating and oppressive taxes. We are going to balance the budget without additional taxes.

The speaker expressed the belief the house would speedily concur in the beer bill amendment reducing the legal alcoholic content to 3.05 and predicted enactment of the measure within a few days.

"In ten days we will have 3.05 beer," he declared. A month from today we will have $150,000,000 in taxes rolling into the treasury."

He added that $450,000,000 would be spent immediately in the brewing industry for new construction.

CHICAGO BANK SELLS, N. Y. BUYS; FORMER PROFITS

Not so many years ago New York bankers looked upon Chicago bankers as their inferiors in shrewdness and general ability. That day has passed.

Early in January officers of one big Chicago bank which had many millions invested in United States government bonds decided that the price of these bonds was going down and that it was a good time to sell.

So they began to sell and long before the banking holiday had got rid of all their long term government bonds. They made a neat profit for the bank and are now able to invest in short term governments at a return of more than four per cent.

Many of the bonds they sold were bought by New York banks.

Wheat Pit Is Joyous Spot for Boss and Office Boy.

The reopening of the Board of Trade yesterday meant happy days for scores of clerks and messenger boys. All over the building from the big trading room on the fourth floor to the upper tiers on the tower member firms were rehiring employés that they had let go on March 3 with the beginning of the national bank holiday when the Board of Trade suspended operations.

With wheat soaring five cents a bushel and other grains and commodities making similar gains and the promise of an active market when the price restrictions are lifted tomorrow morning, everybody was happy—the messenger boy had his job back and his boss had sales.

Even 10% of Face Value Is Profit When It Might Have Been Zero.

Several months ago in scaling down its less successful investments to existing market values this bank had written a certain issue of drainage district bonds to zero, figuring that they were a total loss. Yesterday the bank was offered ten cents on the dollar for the bonds.

ROADS PLAN TO ABOLISH POOLING OF SURCHARGES

New York, March 16.—(AP)—The railroads have decided to abolish the pooling plan under which freight surcharges have been collected and distributed for the benefit of weaker carriers, it was learned today following a meeting of the eastern railway president's conference.

On March 13 the interstate commerce commission ruled that the railroads be allowed to continue collecting the present emergency freight rates by extending the date of their application to Sept. 30, 1933. They were to have expired March 31. At the same time the commission recommended but did not order that the carriers continue to lend the surcharge proceeds to meet railroad interest charges.

But the railroads have found it impossible to accept this suggestion and it is believed that the Railroad Credit corporation, the distribution machine through which the surcharges have been allocated, will be abolished as soon as feasible.

STOCK MARKET GROWS CALMER; STILL CONFIDENT

Prices Ease After Early Upturn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—Wall street registered its confidence in the future with a further display of buying fervor on the stock exchange today.

The gains were not nearly so wide as those of yesterday, owing to a heavy drag of profit taking such as often develops in the wake of such a sudden upturn, but trading was on a broader scale and at times hit a much livelier pace. At one time during the earlier dealings, the highspeed ticker was distanced by more than eight minutes, a phenomenon not witnessed hitherto in many a blue Wall street moon. More than 150 issues registered new highs at one time or another during the session.

Preferred Issues Do Best.

The best showing was made by preferred stocks, some of which, like Armour of Delaware, American Sugar, Beatrice Creamery, Goodrich, Noranda Mines, New York Steam, Eastman Kodak, Cuba-American Sugar, Corn Products, International Harvester, and Lehigh Portland Cement, jumped ahead anywhere from 5 to more than 12 points.

Leading common shares, after forging ahead in the first two hours, eased off to finish generally with no better than fractional gains. United States Steel closed at 32¼, up ⅛; American Telephone at 105⅝, up ⅜; American Can at 61½, up ⅛; Atchison at 46, unchanged, and Consolidated Gas at 51½, unchanged.

Case Threshing Machine was a notable exception to the moderate strength of the pivotal shares, scoring a net gain of 4 points. Its buoyance was due, of course, to the upturn in the grain and other commodities markets.

Homestaking Mining ran contrary to the list by reacting 8 points.

Trading Starts with Rush.

Today's opening was about the most spectacular affair of its kind the exchange has witnessed since the market began bumping its depression bottom early last summer. Due to the enthusiasm generated by yesterday's sensational upturn—an advance which added more than 16 per cent to the open value of stocks—brokers had been deluged overnight with buying orders from all over the country. Many of these were in big blocks of 5,000 shares and upward.

The rush to execute the accumulation and other orders which came pouring in in the meantime sent the market off to a bounding start and kept it in a boiling state until well around midday. By 12 o'clock 1,970,000 shares had been traded in, making the best showing for a like period since Sept. 13 last. Realizing sales gradually slowed up the pace, however, and the total turnover was around 3,300,000 shares.

Beverage Stocks Jump.

The so-called repeal stocks continued to bubble over the prospects of beer and repeal. Owens Illinois Glass rose 3½ points and held 2½ of it against all covers. American Commercial Alcohol and United States Industrial Alcohol were both substantially higher. National Distillers forged ahead in the early dealings, but found the pace too swift and eased below its previous close.

In addition to Case Threshing the rise in wheat and cotton benefited International Harvester and other farm equipment stocks. Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward also counted themselves in on the drive for fractional gains.

Railroad shares were the hardest hit of any group by profit taking. Selling of this character was particularly heavy in Union Pacific, which usually counts itself in the van of a movement in either direction.

Copper, sugar and packing shares were strong in the forenoon but eased with the general list later. Traction shares enjoyed fair demand.

N. Y. Stock Exchange Seat Sells at $105,000; Up $5,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—The New York Stock exchange announced today that arrangements had been made for sale of a membership at $105,000, an advance of $5,000 over the sale of two seats yesterday made at $100,000.

State Street Stores Report Better Buying

LEON MANDEL II.

Business has shown a marked improvement within the last few days with the resumption of normal banking, according to officials of the big State street stores who yesterday were unanimous in saying that a more cheerful outlook exists than has been the case for some time.

The crowds moving through the stores are larger, the public is in a better buying frame of mind and purchases are being made of the more expensive wares.

Some officials state that business has grown progressively better each day this week. Others say that sales to date this week are ahead of the same week last year.

All officials report that increases in buying are general. Some find that the demand for home furnishings has been surprisingly large.

What Stores Report.

Brief comment from a number of the stores follows:

Marshall Field & Co.: Business has been progressively better each day this week. The public is in a buying mood and the number of people in the store is larger.

Mandel Brothers: Leon Mandel II. states that his company is pleased with the very noticeable pickup. Buying is now much more normal.

Carson Pirie Scott & Co.: There has been a definite improvement in business, which is attributable to the improvement in confidence and sentiment throughout the country. People are beginning to realize that prices now are more attractive than it is likely they will be in the future and they are taking advantage of the situation.

Progressive Increase.

The Hub: There has been a progressive increase in business each day this week and business this week is greater than it was in the same week last year. Business is fine.

The Davis company: Has noticed a marked increase in business. More and more customers are entering the store, and all are in a better frame of mind with respect to purchases. All seasonable goods are moving well, and particularly home furnishings.

Maurice L. Rothschild: Mr. Rothschild says that President Roosevelt has lifted the spirit of the American people. Business this week is ahead of last year. People are buying better merchandise and they are willing to be shown.

Furniture Sales Rise.

The Fair: D. F. Kelly says that business is getting progressively better each day. The improvement has been general, but it has been more marked in the furniture and rug sections.

The Boston Store: Business is showing a better tone. It has been growing better each day since Monday. The public is more confident, and this applies to our employés. Buying is general, and the higher priced merchandise has been moving.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., loop store: Business is much better. The demand is pretty well spread.

Production of Newsprint Declines During February

February production of the newsprint in the United States and Canada totaled 192,695 tons, compared with 214,933 in January and 245,700 in February, last year, the news print service bureau reports. Stocks at United States and Canadian mills at the start of the current month were 77,878 tons, against 73,156 on Feb. 1, and 94,120 on March 1, 1932.

GRAINS, COTTON SOAR IN UNIQUE DAY'S TRADING

Add 100 Millions to Farm Holdings.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Wheat, corn, and cotton joined the post-moratorium swirl of mounting prices yesterday and, in one of the strangest trading days in the history of the Chicago Board of Trade, soared into new high ground, adding an estimated $100,000,000 to the value of grain and cotton still on farms.

Anticipating a wild market after the 13 day holiday suspension, directors of the Board of Trade had imposed restrictions before the pits were opened. They limited price fluctuations on wheat to 5 cents a bushel, corn to 3 cents, oats to 2 cents, rye to 4 cents, and barley to 3 cents.

The market opened with a bang. The big wheat pit whose steps can comfortably accommodate two hundred traders was as jammed as a ball park street car. The more athletic traders fought their way to the choice positions in the center, with the weaker members striving to hold their ground on the rim.

Excitement Short Lived.

It was all over in a few minutes, however, for the market opened with all grains bumping the price ceiling imposed by the directors. Bids continued to come in all day, but there were few offers. Excitement subsided in the grain pits.

Traders wandered over to the cotton pit, ordinarily a side show, and it remained the center of interest during the remainder of the day. At the close cotton was up to $3 to $3.50 per bale for the day, one of the most imposing gains since the autumn advance last year. Similar gains were made in the New York and New Orleans markets, New York cotton soaring as much as $5 a bale and closing with a net gain of about $3 a bale.

From markets all over the country yesterday came news of rising prices for commodities and securities. In Duluth, the only city where no restrictions had been imposed on grain prices, durum wheat shot up eight cents and closed at the day's top. Winnipeg wheat netted gains of from 2¼ to 3⅝ cents per bushel for the day and was six cents higher than on March 3.

Restriction Holds Today.

Today the Board of Trade will continue to restrict grain price movements. Wheat, for example, will be permitted to fluctuate five cents per bushel from last night's close. Tonight, however, restrictions will come off, according to an announcement by directors last night, and tomorrow grain prices will be permitted to seek their own levels.

The uniformly upward trend of security and commodity prices all over the country yesterday reflected a nation-wide wave of optimism and confidence following the successful resumption of banking business.

Throughout the country banks that had reopened were reporting increased deposits. Hoarded gold continues to pour back into the reserve banks. And merchants, cautious on Monday and Tuesday about taking seriously the spurt in business, yesterday began to talk about the upturn in trade. State street department stores report a vast improvement in sales since last week and smaller shops in outlying districts and in the suburbs were likewise enjoying increased sales.

Which Stock?

IN a period of rising prices NORTH AMERICAN TRUST SHARES 1955 and 1956 offer greater certainty of appreciation than any single common stock.

There are many reasons for this. An important one is that the market value of all the outstanding common shares of the 34 companies whose stocks comprise the portfolios equals approximately half the market value of all the common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

During the July 8 to September 7 rise in stock prices the offering price of NORTH AMERICAN TRUST SHARES rose 100%. There are more NORTH AMERICAN TRUST SHARES outstanding today than at any previous time.

New York, March 16.—Still higher levels were reached today by bonds of all descriptions, following yesterday's smart send-off on the reopening of the market. Gains ranging from 1 to 10 points were scored in consequence of a concerted rush by investors and dealers to get into the market again.

The speculative section drew the heaviest demand and, in turn, railroad issues as a group were credited with the sharpest advances. Carrier obligations performed true to form in displaying hair trigger responsiveness to changing sentiment.

Liens of the United States government spurted in lively trading. Especially well taken issues were those of intermediate maturity, whereas these bore the brunt of liquidation during the nervous sessions preceding the bank holiday.

Other high grade descriptions rose from 1 to 5 points, reflecting the impact of rising demand upon a market which is bare of offerings.

There was no choice of groups. Those less favored as to earning prospects showed the same buoyancy as others in stronger position.

Foreign bonds were buoyant, although gains were less general than in domestic issues.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Reopening of the American grain and cotton exchanges yesterday, after having been closed since March 3, witnessed a flood of buying orders for wheat, corn, and other grains, as well as for cotton, that swept prices higher in a sensational manner. Only the limitations imposed by the grain exchanges prevented wheat from advancing more than 5 cents, while corn and barley were up 3 cents; rye, 4 cents, and oats, 2 cents per bushel. Cotton at the top was up nearly $5 per bale.

All grains on the Chicago Board of Trade and in other leading American markets closed at the top, with unfilled orders for millions of bushels in the hands of brokers. With the exception of Duluth all exchanges had imposed a limit on advances in prices that could occur in one day, and the same regulations will be in force today. There will be no restrictions, however, on Saturday.

Up 8 Cents at Duluth.

Duluth durum wheat, which was unrestricted as to price advance, closed 8 cents per bushel higher and at the best figure of the day. Winnipeg felt the influx of heavy buying orders from American speculators, who found themselves unable to have orders filled on domestic exchanges. The Canadian market closed 2¼ to 2⅝ cents per bushel higher than on Wednesday, and up nearly 6 cents from the close on March 3.

With the exception of a brief period immediately before the close the bulk of the trading in grains was at the maximum prices for the day. Opening prices were at or only slightly under the top figures.

Houses with eastern connections sold wheat in Chicago after the opening, but at no time was the May off more than ⅝ cent from the top, while only one price was quoted throughout the day on the July and September deliveries.

All Futures Up to Limit.

May and July wheat on the local exchange closed at 53⅞ cents and September at 55 cents, all being 5 cents higher, as compared with March 3. Corn gained 3 cents, with May at 27⅛ cents; July, 29⅝ cents, and September, 55 cents. Oats were up 2 cents, with the May at 18⅛ cents; July, 18½ cents, and September, 19 cents at the last. Rye finished 4 cents higher, with May at 39 cents and July at 38⅝ cents, while May barley was 3 cents higher at 29⅝ cents.

There was not the volume of business in grain futures yesterday that would have been expected in view of the sensational upturn in the market. This was regarded as due to a large extent to the paucity of offerings, but today's market is expected to be a more normal affair.

GRAIN MEN MUST REPORT POSITION OF CUSTOMERS

The federal circuit court of appeals, in an opinion given yesterday, sustained Federal District Judge James H. Wilkerson in his refusal to grant an injunction restraining the department of agriculture from demanding from grain brokers reports on the short or long position of their clients in the grain market.

The injunction was sought by a group of brokerage houses, headed by the Bartlett-Frazier company, which named as defendants Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture during the Hoover administration, the grain supervisor in Chicago for the department of agriculture, and the Chicago Board of Trade, which under the grain futures act is required to gather the information for the government

Buying Wave Carries Egg and Butter Prices Higher

A heavy buying wave carried butter and egg futures sharply higher on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, new highs for the year being made by several deliveries. Gains above $200 per car were recorded shortly after the opening, but selling at the close wiped out part of the advances. Butter was up ⅝@1¾c and eggs ⅛@1c. New buying and short covering developed in March butter, and the price advanced 1, within a short time. Later deliveries accompanied the advance. April climbing over $300 per car. The bullish enthusiasm died out to some extent in the last half hour and profit taking and new selling caused a moderate reaction from the top. Statistical news was less favorable, the four markets reporting 250,000 lbs less out than last year. Eggs surged forward with butter. October eggs advanced $150 per car early on strong new buying and heavy covering, but unwound back later. Sales: Butter, 94 cars; eggs 100 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 2 cars; eggs 2 cars. Prices follow:

HOG PRICES RISE TO $4 AVERAGE; SEE MORE GAINS

Trade Expects Advance May Reach $5.

Yesterday's mild bulge in the hog market elevated the general average price to $4.00, the highest point in nine days. Only one day's business has averaged higher since Sept. 23, 1932. Prices ruled strong to 10 cents higher against the pressure of slightly increased receipts, which were above the average of the last three Thursdays. Top sales reached $4.15.

The feeling in the live stock trade that hogs are on their way back up to the $5.00 line is becoming more persistent, notwithstanding that there has been nothing in the news from the wholesale meat trade to warrant such predictions. Wholesale markets for meat still are suffering from the influence of the Lenten season.

Half Way Back to '32 Peak.

The last time hogs sold at $5.00 was on Aug. 26, last year. On July 11 the 1932 top of $5.55 was paid. Since then daily tops have been as low as $3.00, holding well below the $4.00 line much of the time. The market is more than half way back to the high point of last summer. Yesterday's average was $1.20 above the winter's low day and $1.00 under the 1932 peak.

Speaking in terms of percentage, the price shows a 43 per cent advance compared with the low day and is only 20 per cent under the high point.

There was a slight increase in the movement of all live stock to Chicago yesterday. The combined total of cattle, hogs, and sheep at 38,000 head was only 4 per cent larger than a week ago and 6 per cent larger than two weeks ago, but it stood 26 per cent greater than the total on the corresponding day last year.

Cattle Retain Gain.

Cattle retained the recent sharp price gains yesterday. Choice light steers are 25 to 40 cents above a week ago, while "in-between" classes show gains of 50 to 75 cents for the week. Prime 1,121 pound steers topped the market at $7.25. The bulk sold from $4.50 to $6.50, making a mean price of $5.50, the highest since the middle of December. Most beef cows sold at $2.85 to $3.35, or 25 to 40 cents higher than a week ago. Heifers are up 50 to 75 cents for the week.

One feature of the cattle trade was the scale of a few head of Scotch Highland steers and heifers from Montana. Two of this rare breed were taken out to exhibit at the Century of Progress.

Two carloads of the Farr lambs from Colorado raised the top price to $6.00 in the sheep house yesterday. Other lambs sold at $5.85, and the bulk changed hands on a steady basis at $5.40 to $5.75, good 97 pound averages selling at the inside figure. Lambs are 25 to 50 cents above the close of last week.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Moderate buying of cotton goods followed the reopening of cotton exchanges today on higher price levels than when they closed on March 6. Most purchasers wanted early cloth deliveries. Many buyers declined to pay advances until they see more of the course of cotton values. Rayon sales are lighter, without change in prices. Burlaps were quiet and steady. Wool goods are moving slowly. Additional curtailment of production is reported among silk mills and silk goods are in very moderate call.

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—A total of 9,338 bales of wool were offered at the auction today, of which 7,733 were sold. The good selection offered met with animated competition at firm rates. Fine kinds were in the sellers' favor and there were moderate withdrawals, chiefly among medium crossbreds on firm limits.

BUICK 8 SEDAN, 1932 de luxe model with wire wheels, side mounts, and many costly extras. The finish has not a mar on it and the upholstery is luxurious. Motor is 100%. Cost $2,100. Now $1,185.

CHRYSLER SEDAN, 1932. Looks and runs as though it were never driven a mile. Has wire wheels, extras galore, and all the new improvements. Do not miss this sensational Chrysler value at $585.

PLYMOUTH ROADSTER, 1932, with rumble seat, floating power, and many extras. This Plymouth is one of the snappiest cars of its kind in Chicago. It's absolutely like brand new and will sell at once at $345.

CHEVROLET SEDAN, 1931. This car was owned in conjunction with a Studebaker and a Buick, and the result was that it saw very little service. Now you can hardly tell it had been used at all. For today, $295.

ESSEX SPORT COUPE, 1930, with roomy rumble seat. The finish is bright and shiny and the upholstery appears unused. Spirited performance, $225.

FORD COUPE, 1931. It was driven very little and will give new car satisfaction today. Only $245.

AUSTIN COUPE, 1931. It's a real beauty. This Austin is the most economical car in America to operate. Worth considerably more than our sales price of $145.

AUBURN SEDAN, 1929. Check this car from bumper to bumper and you will agree that it's really in wonderful condition. A demonstration will convince you that the motor is A1 throughout. $225.

NASH BROUGHAM, 1930 fire pass. that we recommend as the outstanding Nash bargain in Chicago. The motor is smooth and powerful. Smart appearance. Very fully equipped. Only $378.

LINCOLN SEDAN, 1926. It was chauffeur driven and given the best of care. Substantially reduced from $365 to $125 for immediate disposal.

PACKARD SEDAN, 1927. This Packard must be seen to be appreciated. The finish, upholstery, tires, and motor are A1. For quick sale, $165.
